

漫画人

JAPANESE
POP CULTURE
& LANGUAGE LEARNING

$4.95

MANGAJIN

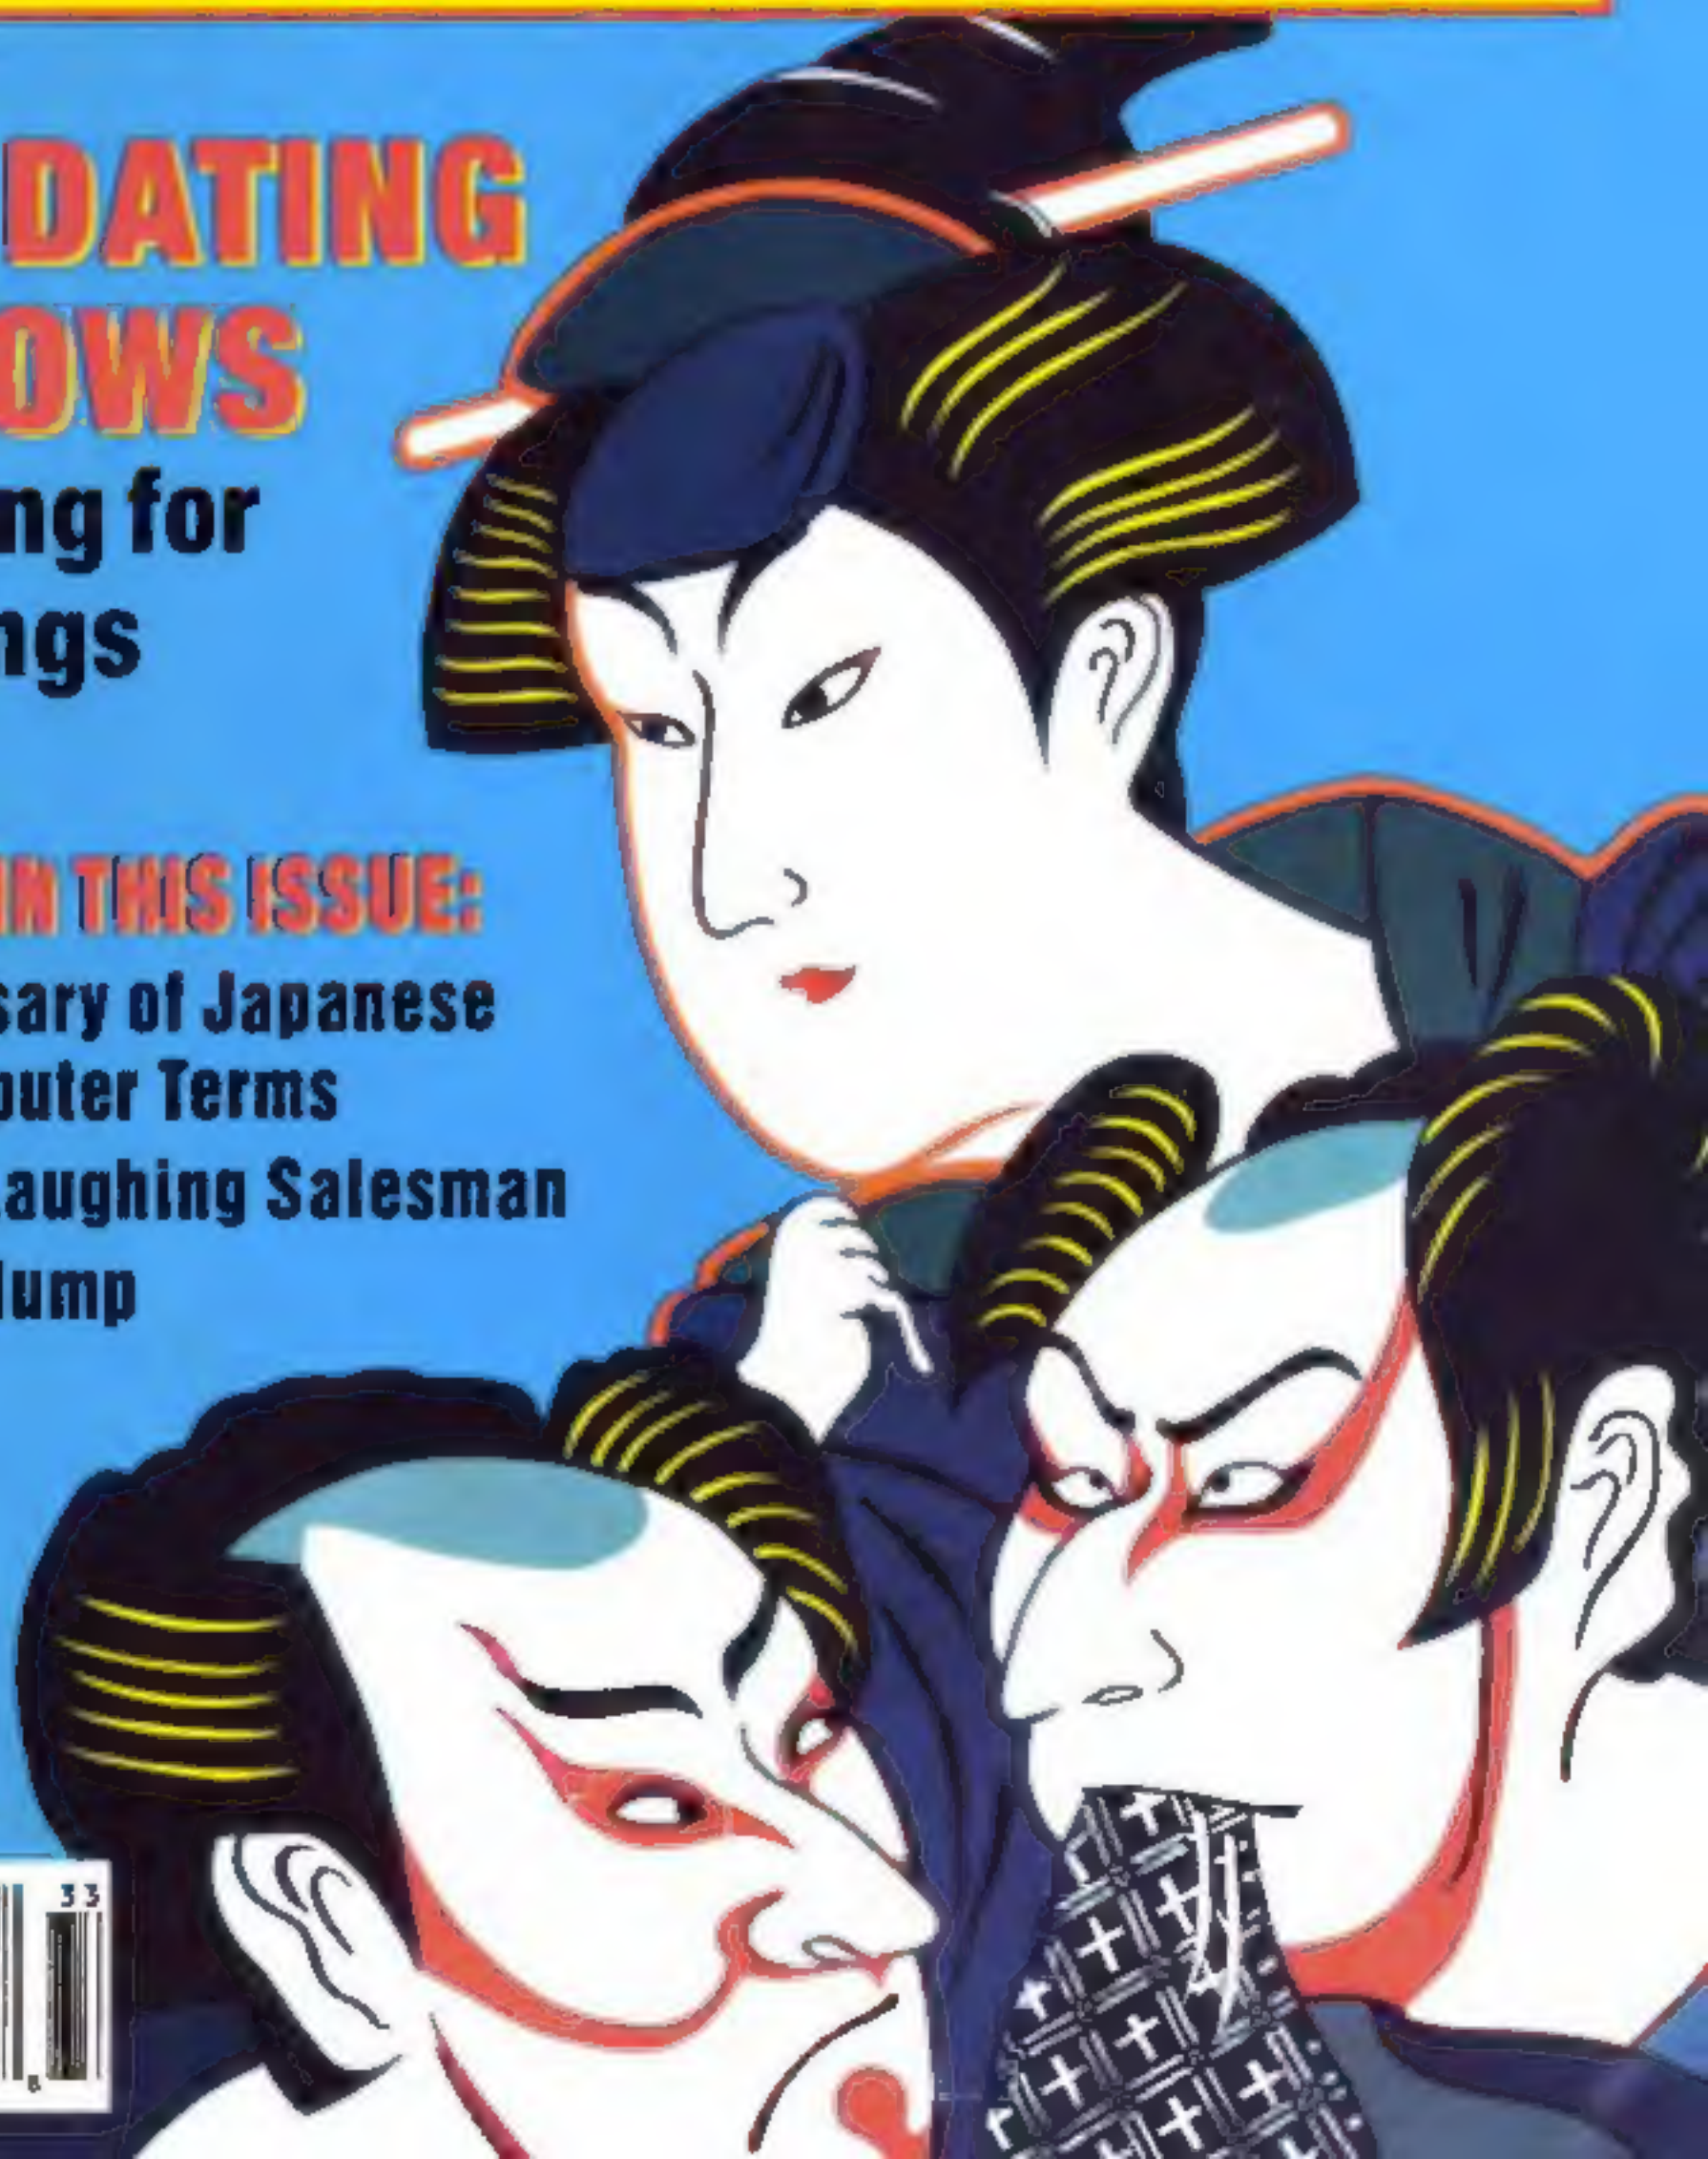

No. 33

TV DATING SHOWS

Mating for Ratings

ALSO IN THIS ISSUE:

- Glossary of Japanese Computer Terms
- The Laughing Salesman
- Dr. Slump

CONTENTS

page 10

page 65

page 19

FEATURES 特集 tokushū

10 TV Dating Shows

Japanese women no longer need to get married. They have to be persuaded, and Japanese men are finding this increasingly difficult. TV dating shows portray this contemporary social drama and even help some young singles to find a mate.

DEPARTMENTS 連載/コラム rensai/koramu

4 Letters & Bloopers The readers write.

7 Brand News (Innovative uses of the Japanese language)

It was once fashionable and sexy to blacken your teeth in Japan. This ad for a cigarette filter-pipe refers to that practice in its punning slogan.

18 Book Reviews Japanese Jive, by Caroline McKeldin; Bill Emmon's Japanophobia and Dennis Encarnation's Rivals Beyond Trade.

22 Computer Corner: A Glossary of Japanese Computer Technology

Computer terminology is hard enough in your native language! The jargon is evolving so quickly that computer dictionaries are out of date in just a few years, but we provide you with a glossary of over 180 terms and error messages (may you never have to read them).

30 Basic Japanese: Iya

Although Iya can be used to express strong negative feelings, it's employed in a variety of other situations. (The variant Ya da is one of the most widely-used expressions among Japanese high school girls.) Mangajin gives you the complete scoop through manga examples.

44 Warning & Pronunciation Guide

84 Vocabulary Summary

86 Classifieds

MANGA 漫画 manga

26 Calvin and Hobbes, by Bill Watterson

27 The Far Side, by Gary Larson

36 Take'emon-ke no Hitobito • タケエモン家のひとびと, by Satō Take'emon

38 Selected Works of Ishii Hisaichi • いしいひさいち選集

40 OL Shinkaron • OL進化論, by Akizuki Risa

45 What's Michael • by Kobayashi Makoto

56 A Visual Glossary of Modern Terms • 図説現代用語便覧, by Deluxe Company

65 Warau Sērūsuman (Part I) • 笑ウセえるすまん, by Fujiko Fujio (A)

73 Dr. Slump (Part II) • Dr. スランプ, by Toriyama Akira

Mangajin is a made-up word combining manga ("comics/cartoons") and jin ("person/people"). It sounds almost like the English word "magazine" as rendered in Japanese—magajin. All of the Japanese manga in Mangajin were created in Japan, by Japanese cartoonists, for Japanese readers.

漫画人 MANGAJIN

Editor & Publisher
Vaughan P. Simmons

Translation Editor
Wayne Lammers

Advising & Contributing Editors
Peter Goodman, Karen Sandness
Frederik L. Schodt, Jack Seward

Contributing Writers/Editors
Kim Eastham, Douglas Horn, Okuyama Shuko, Daryl Shadnick, Mark Tilton

Associate Editor
Ben Belshine

Editorial Assistant
Virginia Murray

Art & Graphics
Ashizawa Kazuko

Business Manager
Kathy Saltas
Tel. 404-590-0092 Fax 404-590-0890

Subscription/Office Manager
Mary Ann Beech
Tel. 404-590-0091

Marketing Manager
Greg Tenhover
Tel. 404-590-0270

Advisory Board
Doug Reynolds,
John Slead, William Yamaguchi

Cover by Kazuko

Printed in U.S.A.

Mangajin (ISSN 1051-8177) is published 10 times a year, monthly except January and July, by: Mangajin, Inc., 200 N. Cobb Pkwy., Suite 421, Marietta, GA 30062.

Second class postage paid at Marietta, GA 30060 and additional offices. Postmaster: Send address changes to: MANGAJIN, P.O. Box 7119, Marietta, GA 30065. USPS # 006137.

Subscription prices:
$35/year in US, US$50/year in Canada.
Overseas (except Japan) subscriptions:
US$80/year
Exclusive agent in Japan:
Sekai Shuppan Kenkyu Center,
Minami Aoyama 2-18-9, Minato-ku, Tokyo
Tel. 03-3479-4434, Fax 03-3479-5047.
Subscriptions in Japan: ¥9,000 and ¥8,000/year

Editor's Note

What good is being an editor if you can't use a prime spot in the magazine for your own message? My message is that Mangajin is searching for a Feature Editor. This person would work on the magazine as well as various other publishing projects. The most important skills are: 1) writing & editing (must be a native speaker of English), 2) ability to plan projects and work with recalcitrant freelance writers, 3) layout skills. The ideal candidate would also have the ability to do top quality translation, but maybe not the temperament to become a full-time translator. Does such a person actually exist? Does he or she want to see the 1996 Olympics in a new hometown, Atlanta? Please write to the Editor's address shown on page 4.

Marketing Mangajin has always been a challenge, but I have to say I enjoy that side of the business, too. We are so specialized that even if we had the money, we couldn't use the mass marketing techniques that the big magazines do. We rely heavily on word-of-mouth, and one of our favorite ways of encouraging you, the subscriber, to pass the word is through our Free-to-a-Friend campaign (a card is enclosed in all subscriber copies of this issue). The basic idea is that we will extend your subscription by two issues if you introduce us to one of your friends who subsequently subscribes, plus we enter your name in our drawing for a Canon WordTank electronic dictionary, held twice a year. Which brings us to our next item.

The winner of our 1993 year-end drawing for a WordTank is Zdenka Seiner Griswold of New York City. Her friend, Daniel Shklair, also of New York, duly entered a subscription, so Ms. Griswold's subscription has been extended by two issues to boot. Congratulations and happy WordTanking!

Vaughan P. Simmons

The name Mangajin is registered in the U.S. Patent & Trademark Office.

Copyright © 1994 by Mangajin, Inc. All rights reserved.
• Calvin and Hobbes, by Bill Watterson, from The Authoritative Calvin and Hobbes, copyright ©1990 Universal Press Syndicate. All rights reserved. Reprinted/translated by permission of Editors Press Service, NY. • The Far Side, by Gary Larson, from The Far Side Gallery 4, copyright ©1993 Universal Press Syndicate and The Chickens are Restless, copyright ©1993 Universal Press Syndicate. All rights reserved. Reprinted/translated by permission of Editors Press Service, NY. • Take'emon-ke no Hitobito, by Sato Take'emon, first published in Japan in 1993 by Futabasha, Tokyo. Publication in MANGAJIN arranged through Futabasha. • A Visual Glossary of Modern Terms, by Deluxe Company, first published in Japan in 1993 by Futabasha, Tokyo. Publication in MANGAJIN arranged through Futabasha. • Ishii Hisaichi Senshū, by Ishii Hisaichi, first published in Japan in 1992 by Futabasha, Tokyo. Publication in MANGAJIN arranged through Futabasha. • OL Shinkaton, by Akizuko Ritsu, first published in Japan in 1990 by Kodansha, Tokyo. Publication in MANGAJIN arranged through Kodansha. • What's Michael, by Kobayashi Makoto, first published in Japan in 1991 by Kodansha, Tokyo. Publication in MANGAJIN arranged through Kodansha. • Warau Senjimon, by Fujiko Fujio (A), first published in Japan in 1969 by Chuo Koronsha, Tokyo. Publication in MANGAJIN arranged through Chuo Koronsha. • Dr. Slump, by Toriyama Akira, first published in Japan in 1980 by Shueisha, Tokyo. Publication in MANGAJIN arranged through Shueisha.

Japan And The Art Of Landing Feet First.

The Ukiyo (浮世) is a Japanese woodblock print, but it is not a book to read, it is a book to see. To see it is to see you paint it. One of the eyes. When the artist is a young girl, she paints the other eye. This is the most beautiful side of Japan you need to know in order to understand the world. At the Ukiyo you need to know the real Japan, and you need to know the real Japan, and you need to know the real Japan. (Kobunshu no Ukiyo) — in English and Japanese.

KINOKUNIYA BOOKSTORES

The Largest Japanese Bookstore Chain in The U.S. and Japan

San Francisco
(415) 767-7625

San Jose
(408) 252-1300

Los Angeles
(213) 607-4400

Portland
(503) 327-6577

Costa Mesa
(714) 434-6606

Seattle
(206) 507-2477

New York
(212) 763-1461

New Jersey
(201) 941-7500

Illustration: Kiyomasa Nishikawa, 17th century

LEX Japan • Korea EXCHANGE 1994

Summer
homestay and travel with host families for students 12
and older, adults or families. 4 or 6 weeks.
Qualified English-speaking support staff and leaders.
Since 1981.

Contact:

LEX America

68 Leonard St., Belmont,
MA 02178
617-489-5800

Learn Japanese on Your Own!

Audio-Forum — the Language Source — offers comprehensive self-instructional audio-cassette/book courses for learning
Japanese:

- Beginning Japanese (by Eleanor Harz Jordan). 8 cassettes (11-1/2 hr.) and 409-page text, $182.50 postpaid.
- Fast-Track Japanese: 6 cassettes (6 hr.) and 367-page text, $122.50 postpaid.
- Executive Japanese: (3 volumes): Each volume (1-1/2 - 2 hr.) and 160-168 page text, $60.50 each postpaid.
- Reading Japanese: 17 cassettes (15 hr.) and 607-page text, $232.50 postpaid.
- Japanese for Busy People: A Video Guide to Essential Spoken Japanese: 3 VHS cassettes (120 min.) and 3 study guides, $354. postpaid.

Also Japanese foreign-language feature films, authentic music on cassette and CD, and courses in ESL and 90 other languages. Call or write for free 56-page catalog.

Audio-Forum, Room G247, 96 Broad St.
Guilford, CT 06437 • 1-800-243-1234

Letters

Letters to the Editor

MANGAJIN welcomes comments by letter or fax, although we reserve the right to edit for clarity or length. Please address correspondence to: Editor, P.O. Box 7119, Marietta, GA 30065-1119. Fax: 404-590-0890.

日本語の投書も大歓迎です。
日本在住の方は世界出版研究センターへ送っていただいて結構です。〒107東京都港区南青山2-18-9, Fax: 03-3479-4436

More tai-yaku

I'm very serious about learning Japanese, and since I have already finished all the classes offered in this area, I'm using Mangajin as one of my textbooks and working with tutors. Mangajin is great! I especially liked the recent interview with Ishinomori Shōtarō. Having material like this presented in both English and Japanese is helpful, and I'd like to see more material in that style.

ROBIN SWENY
Paradise, CA

The style of presenting the original text and translation on facing pages, or facing columns on the same page, is called tai-yaku (対訳, "facing translation"), and we like it too. Sometime in 1994 we'd like to add a few pages of contemporary fiction and/or interviews in this style.

Hawaiian Delivery

I appreciate the detailed work you and the Mangajin staff do each month. Thanks for keeping the subscription rate down as well.

I just received the Christmas issue (No. 31) yesterday, January 14. I'm used to receiving my copy of Mangajin after it has already appeared in the local bookstores, but your "Editor's Note" indicated that No. 31 should have arrived in late November. I thought you should know there may be a distribution problem.

GINA HARA
Aiea, HI

(Our business manager, Kathy Saitas, replies:) The Christmas issue (No. 31) was mailed out a little later than expected due to the onset of the holiday season—it didn't leave our printer until November 30th [the old "blame-it-on-the-printer" routine – Ed.].

Still, most readers should have received their copy during the first week of December. Subscribers in Hawaii can add an extra week to the usual delivery time of one week (this is punishment for living so far from Marietta, Georgia)—so you should have received No. 31 by the middle of December. Obviously, something went wrong with your copy; since yours is apparently an isolated case, we can only blame it on the Post Office [the old "blame-it-on-the-Post-Office" routine – Ed.].

Subscriber copies are always mailed before distributor copies are shipped to bookstores. On the mainland, the US Postal Service usually gets subscribers their copies before UPS-ground delivers to distributors, bookstores and newsstands. BUT, shipments to our Hawaiian distributors go by UPS 2nd Day Air so your bookstore gets its Mangajin before you.

If you'd like to keep track, this issue, No. 33, will be mailed on February 18th. If you don't receive it by around March 4th, call, write or fax and let me know. (In fact, any of you readers who haven't written to us recently: write us, tell us when you got your copy, and tell us how we're doing. – Ed.)

— Correction —

We inadvertently added an 's' to the name of author Norma Field in the review of America and the Four Japans, appearing in Mangajin No. 32. Special apologies to reviewer Ginny Skord Waters who had spelled the name correctly in her draft.

— Notice —

The Hey Publishing Company, whose "A-Kanji-A-Day" calendar is often advertised on this page, sustained severe damage in the recent L.A. earthquake. Owner Marjorie Hey announces that all orders will be fulfilled and asks that customers contact her at 805-295-5905 to reconfirm their orders.

BLOOPERS

Kids what? special

While eating at a Japanese restaurant during the first few weeks of my semester in Japan last spring, I noticed the menu item お子様ランチ (O-kosama ranchi, "Kids' Lunch") and wondered what it was. Mistaking the katakana ラ ra for a hiragana う u, I asked the waitress "O-kosama unchi wa nan desu ka?" and she burst into laughter. She eventually explained that unchi is a child's word for "poop."

THOMAS BRYCE
Belle Harbor, NY

You don't smell your age

As a member of the Singing Boys of Pennsylvania, I have toured Japan twice for about a month each time. After our concerts, we often go in pairs to host-homes. While at a homestay in Chikugo-shi, one of the other boys [Sure, sure - Ed.] introduced himself and, intending to say that he was nine years old, added "Watashi wa ku-sai desu (I am smelly)." Everyone started laughing, and I explained that, while the number nine can be read as ku or kyū, he should have said "Watashi wa kyū-sai (I am nine years old)."

RICHARD MARIANA
East Stroudsburg, PA

We'll send you a Mangajin T-shirt if we publish your language (Japanese or English) blooper. Send to: Bloopers, PO Box 7119, Marietta, GA 30065

Canon Wordtank

It isn't any bigger, but it sure is better

The new Wordtank from Canon. The world's most sophisticated electronic dictionary, period. Features more than 640,000 entries in three basic dictionaries, English-to-Japanese, Japanese-to-English and, of course, kanji and jukugo. Search for radical or stroke words in katakana, hiragana and romaji. Enter words by count. Enter words by kana, hiragana and romaji. Two models, more info.

1-800-JAPAN-07

CLN Japanese Software

Free English-Japanese Dictionary Incl.

TwinBridge Ver 3.2

Works with:
Word Processing
Spreadsheets Database
Graphics
DTP

$29

Supports:
Shift-JIS Code
All Printers
Katakana
Hiragana
Kanji

"You've gotta have this!"

$69

English-Japanese Translator

英和翻訳ソフト

"Software like this once sold for over $1,000!"

Multilingual Word Processor

Japanese, Chinese, Korean
South-East Asian, Russian
Middle-Eastern, European, etc.

$159

"SPECIAL OFFER!! We just slashed the price!!"

Specialist in Multilingual Software

CALL 1-800-569-2099 FREE CATALOG

CLN 2130 Sawtelle Blvd. 300B / Los Angeles, CA 90025

Navigate The Kanji Jungle With The Click Of A Mouse

KanjiWorks displays the stroke-order for each kanji. Click on any contained element in the diagram for animated brush strokes.

Search for kanji by selecting any contained element or the stroke count.

Windows display all groups of kanji that fit the search pattern. Use the On/Off index to reference any kanji at the touch of a button, or build entire lists of grouped kanji.

* All pictures are reduced size.

KanjiWorks is a new language learning aid and kanji dictionary designed to make mastering kanji faster and easier than ever before. With over 2200 characters, 6200 compounds, and 3000 example sentences in both Japanese and English, stroke-order diagrams for every kanji, and animation, KanjiWorks is the most complete kanji learning aid available for Macintosh.

Custom lists permit you to concentrate only on the kanji you want to study. Kanji recognition tests drill you on the characters you want to master. Fast reference by reading, meaning, stroke count, radical, or contained element will help make reading Japanese much easier.

Floating windows and search palettes make KanjiWorks fun and easy to use. One click of the mouse brings up all the kanji with a given element, reading, or stroke count.

introducing

Kanji Works

Or type in the reading or English meaning of a Japanese character, and put the power of a computer dictionary to work.

The wealth of information contained in KanjiWorks make it a useful program you'll never outgrow. There are enough characters, compounds, and example sentences in KanjiWorks to satisfy the needs of most college-level students of Japanese. And future upgrades to larger data-sets will help your dictionary grow into a complete desk-top reference set and tutor.

KanjiWorks does not require the Japanese Language Kit, KanjiTalk, although it is recommended for superior performance), or any other software. 1 Mb RAM and 2-3 Mb of disk space required depending upon your system configuration.

New through February 15, EastWest Software is selling KanjiWorks intermediate, with 1000 kanji, over 1500 compounds and 1500 example sentences for only $45. The complete KanjiWorks, with all 2200 kanji, 6200 compounds, and 3000 example sentences is only $45. Call or write for a free brochure, or send $10 for a demo disk.
Asia West Software • 225 Park Place, Suite 1A • Brooklyn, NY 11238 • Orders: 800 575 ASIA • Inquiries: 718 636 6726 • Fax: 718 636 6723

All Major Credit Cards Accepted

Innovative uses of the Japanese language

ヤニなっちゃう。

Yani natchau.

"They Become Disgusting (with Tar)"

Small cigarette filter "pipes" called yani-tori paipu ("tar/nicotine-removing pipes") are popular in Japan as a way of reducing the harmful effects of smoking. This ad from Kamaya for their Super 25 Mini-Pipes shows a woman looking in the mirror at her blackened teeth. The practice of blackening teeth, called o-haguro (お歯黒), was a cosmetic measure (thought to enhance beauty and sex appeal) practiced from as early as the mid-Heian period (794-1185). With the arrival of western influences, the practice mostly died out by the end of the 19th century, but in some areas persisted well into the 20th. Today, however, no one wants blackened teeth, hence the popularity of the yani-tori paipu.

The caption in this ad, Yani natchau, is a wordplay based on the fact that the expression iya ni natte shimau (嫌になってしまふ, "It becomes unpleasant/disgusting" → "It gets to you/bugs you") is often colloquially shortened to yu ni natchau. Since the word yani (煙) can mean "tar/nicotine," yani natchau ("becomes nicotine"), while not a grammatically complete sentence, also suggests a build-up of tar/nicotine. For more on the word iya, see our Basic Japanese column on page 30.

Send us your examples of creative product names or slogans (with some kind of documentation). If we publish your example, we'll send you a MANGAJIN T-shirt to wear on your next shopping trip. In case of duplicate entries, earliest postmark gets the shirt. BRAND NEWS, P.O. Box 7119, Marietta, GA 30065

Make studying Japanese easier...Order your language texts, tapes, dictionaries, kanji charts and more from

SASUGA

JAPANESE BOOKSTORE

At Sasuga, we stock a full selection of language tools, and we are ready to help you find the right combination of materials to suit your level and interests.

Sasuga Japanese Book Store
 7 Upland Road
 Cambridge, MA 02140
 (617) 497-5460 • (617) 497-5362

Call for a free copy of the 1994 Sasuga catalog

(Mention Mangajin with your first order and get free shipping to anywhere in the U.S.)

CHAMINADE UNIVERSITY OF HONOLULU

Earn a Master's degree in one year by enrolling in Chaminade's exclusive

Master of Science in Japanese Business Studies Program

Study in Honolulu (9 months):
 Learn Japanese language, culture, and business practices and theory.

Study in Japan (2 months):
 Serve an internship, work with Japanese management, and gain hands-on experience.

Applications are now being accepted for the fall 1994 entering class which starts September 22.

For Enrollment Information

Write or Call:

Director-MSJBS/WSJM
 Chaminade University
 3140 Waiālae Avenue
 Honolulu, HI 96816-1578

Phone (808) 739-4689/4677
 Fax (808) 735-4734

FREE WORKSHOP in Washington, D.C.

The Technical Requirements for Access to Japanese Information: Problems and Solutions

Friday, March 18, 1994
 Library of Congress, Madison Building

Workshop features Ken Linde, author of Understanding Japanese Information Processing and Douglas Horn, editor of Mangajin's computer column. Papers will be presented by leading experts on Japanese programming solutions, unicode, electronic media, software, and networking.

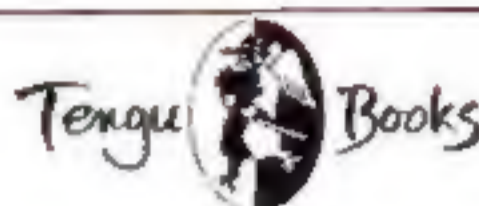

Attendees will receive a briefing book and copy of Mr. Linde's book.

Sponsored by the
Japan Documentation Center of the U.S. Library of Congress

For more information contact:
THE JAPAN INFORMATION ACCESS PROJECT
 1700 R Street, N.W. • Washington, D.C.
 Tel: 202-332-5224 • Fax: 202-332-6841

Weatherhill

PUBLISHERS OF FINE BOOKS ON ASIA AND THE PACIFIC

A NEW WEATHERHILL IMPRINT

BUTTERFLIES OF THE NIGHT MAMA-SANS, GEISHA, STRIPPERS, AND THE JAPANESE MEN THEY SERVE by Lisa Louie

A fascinating tour of Japan's infamous mitu shubo—the nightlife industry that caters to the sensual needs of Japanese men. From cabarets to the most refined geisha houses, Lisa Louie exposes a complete portrait of Japanese nightlife. Wide-ranging interviews paint a surprising picture of the women of this world, the men they serve, the mob connections, and the mitu shubo's crucial role in Japanese life and business.

224 pp. 6 1/4 x 9 1/4. ISBN 0-8348-0249-X $19.95 (HARDCOVER)

JAPANESE STREET SLANG

by Peter Constantine

The only comprehensive compendium of Japanese slang as it is used on the streets of Japan today. A useful tool to help non-native speakers of Japanese understand the colorful and colorful twists and turns of "street" Japanese, which also offer the general reader amusing and informative insights into Japanese thought and speech.

216 pp. 5 1/4 x 8. ISBN 0-8348-0290-3 $9.95 (SOFT)

ESSENTIAL KANJI by P.G. O'Neill

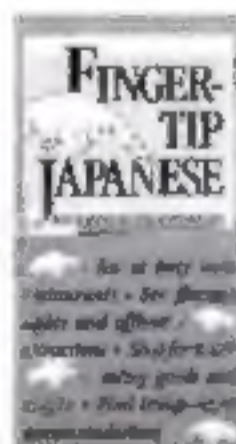

The classic guide to learning kanji, expertly revised and refined by years of use in university classes. An integrated course for learning to read and write the 2000 basic Japanese characters now in everyday use, a mastery of which makes it possible to read most modern Japanese.

326 pp. 5 1/2 x 7 1/4. ISBN 0-8348-0222-6 $16.95 (SOFT)

THE PRACTICAL ENGLISH-JAPANESE DICTIONARY by Noah S. Brannen

A pocket-sized dictionary containing nearly 8000 entries both in romanization and Japanese characters. Introduces up-to-date, colloquial, and natural-sounding expressions to meet the needs of students, residents of Japan, and visitors. Includes a guide to Japanese grammar and pronunciation, a date conversion table, a listing of suffixes used in counting, and verb conjugation tables.

216 pp. 6 1/4 x 9 1/4. ISBN 0-8348-0249-X $19.95 (SOFT)

JAPANESE NAMES by P.G. O'Neill

The problems of reading Japanese names sometimes confound even the Japanese themselves. Japanese Names is a comprehensive dictionary of some 36,000 Japanese names by character and reading. "Indispensable. Easy to read and commendably exhaustive."—Times Literary Supplement.

412 pp. 3 1/4 x 6. ISBN 0-8348-0187-6. Appendices. $12.95 (SOFT)

FINGERTIP JAPANESE edited by Loren, Ltd.

Don't let the language barrier keep you from having fun! The right word or expression to get you where you want or to where you want to go is now at your fingertips. Easy-to-follow, situation-based chapters will help you to: find inexpensive accommodations; eat at tasty local restaurants; see famous sights and offbeat attractions; shop for local crafts; enjoy Japan as the Japanese do; and much more.

192 pp. 3 1/4 x 6. ISBN 0-8348-0270-8 $9.95 (SOFT)

420 Madison Avenue, 15th Floor, New York, New York 10017-1107 Tel: 212-223-3008 Fax: 212-223-2584

To receive a catalogue or place an order: 41 Monroe Turnpike, Trumbull, CT 06611 1-800-437-7840

Weatherhill

PUBLISHERS OF FINE BOOKS ON ASIA AND THE PACIFIC

A NEW WEATHERHILL IMPRINT

SECRETS OF JAPANESE ASTROLOGY

The Science of Kigaku

by Takai Mori and Urogen Mikimoto

Before making any decision, the Japanese consult horoscopes, determined by kigaku, the "science of the spirit." This is the first book in English to explain the fascinating ancient science of Japanese astrology. With a wealth of charts, diagrams, and clear explanations to help you understand your sun, star, color, element, and animal sign, you'll be able to discover—and control—your destiny.

144 pp., 5 x 7 1/2. ISBN 0-8348-0290-2 $9.95

(SOFT)

JAPANESE JIVE WACKY AND WONDERFUL PRODUCTS FROM JAPAN

by Caroline McKay

English is widely used in Japanese product names and packaging, often with hilarious results. Is this simply mere copying from the West? Or is it a genuine but misguided bid for sensibility? Regardless, if any truth about Japan can be gleaned from its advertising, Japanese Jive will provide abundant grist for the analysis mills of Japan watchers, linguists, and pop psychologists.

60 pp., 8 1/2 x 5 1/2. ISBN 0-8348-0248-1 $9.95

(SOFT)

SUSHI MADE EASY by Noriko Yando

Sushi can now, with this book, be made easily at home by anyone, anywhere. Here are easy-to-follow instructions for cleaning and filleting fish. Includes 42 recipes with full-color illustrations demonstrating attractive serving suggestions. "A useful primer for sushi lovers interested in preparing it at home."—Publisher Weekly

216 pp., 8 1/2 x 9 1/2. ISBN 0-8348-0249-X $19.95 (SOFT)

ZEN FOR CATS by Alfred Birnbaum and Rita Karmel

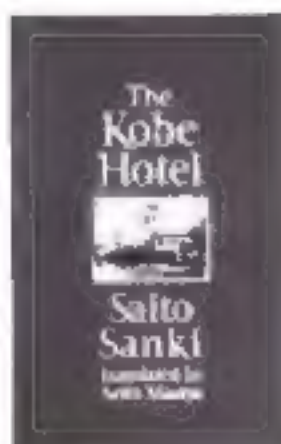

"Does a cat have a Buddha nature?" "Mew!" "Door open—stay in! Door closed—go out!" These are just a few of the Zen riddles that any cat solves with an instantaneous flick of the tale, as he pads down the path to enlightenment. Zen for Cats will delight all those who've survived the strict master-disciple relationship that cats use to lead us humans to the truth. Soft ink-wash paintings capture the Zen essence of cats.

96 pp., 5 1/2 x 6 1/2. 70 ink paintings. ISBN 0-8348-0255-8 $9.95 (SOFT) $12.95 (HARD)

STONE CATS by Yoshimi Nagata

Yoshimi Nagata's stone cats are every bit as bewitching and entertaining as the furry felines who share our homes and lives. Choosing stones with accommodating shapes, he draws, paints, and varnishes, to construct a collection of cats droll and daffy, mysterious and majestic. Easy-to-follow instructions help you to create your own family of fossil felines.

48 pp., 9 x 8. 60 photos in full color. ISBN 0-8348-0279-1 $14.95 (HARD)

THE KOBE HOTEL by Sanki Saitoh Translated by Mitsuyo Saitoh

Sanki Saitoh, one of the leading hokoku poets of the twentieth century, was also a writer of brilliant short stories. The stories in Kobe Hotel are based on the author's experiences during WWII, when he lived in a run-down hotel in the city of Kobe. Wartime Japan is recreated in the adventures of colorful group of Japanese expatriates stranded in the hotel during the war. The final stories are set in the postwar days: a visit to Hiroshima, and to a brothel built for occupation soldiers.

224 pp., 5 1/2 x 8. ISBN 0-8348-0274-0 $12.95 (SOFT)

420 Madison Avenue, 15th Floor, New York, New York 10017-1107 Tel: 212-223-3008 Fax: 212-223-2564

To receive a catalogue or place an order: 41 Monroe Turnpike, Trumbull, CT 06611 1-800-437-7840

TV DATING

MATING for RATINGS

The shots above are from "That's Wedding Bells" (on TBS — Tokyo Broadcasting System) a show in which the participants are unabashedly intent on matrimony

by Kim Eastham

Pity the marriage-minded young Japanese man. Not only are there fewer women per man these days, but Japanese women are asking more from life than just marriage, and they're asking more from a marriage partner than just a stable income and a good family background.

As of 1990, there were about 6.7 million single men between the ages of 20 and 29 and just 5.2 million single women in that age group. And it gets worse for men in their 30s: there were only about 535,000 single women in that age group in all of Japan when the 1990 census was taken, compared with about 1.2 million single men.

Looking at the numbers from another angle, in 1990, 85 percent of women between the ages of 20-24 and 40.2 percent of women between the ages of 25-29 remained unmarried. That's up from 68 percent and 18.9 percent, respectively, in 1965.

Behind these trends are changing social and economic values. Over 50 percent of Japanese women now work at least part-time, and the penetration of women into the middle management of corporate Japan is accelerating, albeit slowly. Given the shrinking labor pool and the increasing academic accomplishments of Japanese women, neither of these facts is surprising.

These changing demographics and the growing independence of contemporary Japanese women have led to a basic shift in the balance of power in the age-old war of the sexes. The fact is that many women no longer need to get married. They've got to be persuaded, and this, the men are finding, is no easy task.

The first obstacle, of course, is the smaller pool of available women. Another is that those who do choose to get married are making the leap for different reasons than they have in the past.

In the peak years of the bubble economy, survey results depicted Japanese women as rather materialistic in their criteria for evaluating potential marriage partners. The popular catch phrase san-kō, ni-ryō, ni-mochi (三高、二良、二持ち, "three highs, two goods, two haves"), said to describe the ideal man, summed it up neatly: san-kō, the three "highs," refers to physical height, high level of education and high income; ni-ryō, the two "goods," are

(continued on page 12)

• mating for ratings = 視聴率のための婚活 shichōritsu no tame ni en, ikun • unabashedly = 恥ずかしくないで断然と huzukashigaramai de heizen to • matrimony = 結婚 kekkon • albeit = (although) - ではあるが de wa aru ga • academic accomplishments = 学歴 gakureki

O-miai: the Video Version

O-miai (お見合い) refers to a formal face-to-face meeting between a prospective bride and groom, usually arranged by their parents or an intermediary. A generation ago this was the most common road to marriage in Japan. If love blossomed following the subsequent marriage, so much the better. But the traditional o-miai was a stiff and formal affair, and many loveless matches resulted.

In recent times, "love marriages" (恋愛結婚, ren'ai kekkon) have become more prevalent than o-miai kekkon, but love matches can be tough to find in a megalopolis like Tokyo.

"Men today, especially those who aren't Tokyotes, don't know what to do with young women who are becoming stronger—financially, in their lifestyle, and in their appearance"—says Takahashi Yujin, founder of ZELM, the "Zone of Experience for Love & Marriage."

In response, Takahashi has set up a real-time, video-based "o-miai system" that gives singles a chance to meet and learn about like-minded people of the opposite sex.

Here's how it works: the candidate must offer proof of identity and fill out an application. ZELM then conducts a quick background check to make sure the candidate isn't pretending to be something or someone he or she isn't. Takahashi says only a few candidates have been rejected for lying about their age or occupation.

Upon acceptance, participants pay a fee—¥10,000 for women and ¥15,000 for men. That covers the cost of up to 20 screen-based encounters and a party afterwards for all who care to attend.

Participants are divided into four different age groups with a separate group for men over 50 and women over 47.

Men and women in each age group are told when to appear, and at that time are directed to a row of private booths on two floors of ZELM's building in Shinjuku, one stop outside Shibuya on the Inokashira Line.

Once inside the booths, they're ready to meet their prospective partners. Interviews are three minutes long, conducted via two-way video monitors. A sub-monitor displays the other person's name, occupation, hobbies and other personal data. Over the course of the next hour or two, ZELM clients interview up to 20 possible mates.

After each encounter, they're asked to answer a short series of questions so that even people who fail to meet anyone they like (or anyone who likes them) can find out what kind of impression they made on the opposite sex. They rate each interview partner on grooming, speaking skills, "optimism," strength of character and other personal attributes.

After the interviews are over—candidates describe them as tiring, even grueling—all participants can choose up to three people they'd like to get to know better. If the choices match up, the computer sends them a congratulatory message.

Match-up or no, everyone is invited to attend a party in the building with plenty of food and drink where, Takahashi says, a good number of those who failed in the first round find dates.

Takahashi says his clients rate the service favorably against more conservative matchmaking services, which focus on personal and family history and offer less room to interact with potential partners. "We think the feelings that emerge between people in a relaxed atmosphere are more important than personal history," he said.

A School for Bridegrooms

Japan Youth Hall (日本青年館, Nihon Seinen-Kan) is a matchmaking service (結婚相談所, kekkon sōdan jo, literally "marriage consultation center") located in Shinjuku. They began offering a "Bridegroom Class" (花婿教室, hanamuke kyōshitsu) in 1989 for men over 18 years of age. Most students are single, but married men who want to improve relations with their spouses are also welcome.

They offer classes on four themes: "What's marriage" focusing on the legal ramifications of marriage and marriage in Japanese history; "The Intersection of Men and Women," about relationships between husbands and wives, and between them and their families; "Human Relationships" in general; and "Sex," not just physical affection, but also discussion of rape and abuse.

Tokyo Kasei University professor Higuchi Keiko, freelance journalist Saitō Shigeo, and Itamoto Yōko, director of the marriage counseling section of Nihon Seinen Kan teach the course.

Itamoto says: "Japanese men are becoming like robots. Examination hell has influenced them from their childhood and the corporate world grabs them after that, not only during working hours but also their private time.

"On the other hand women are becoming aware of the importance of finding real meaning in their private lives. They are developing much more self-awareness.

"Unfortunately, our most popular classes are 'Sex' and the 'Intersection of Men and Women.' That suggests our students don't realize what's really important yet. But we do have 300 students enrolled now."

• intermediary = 仲人 nakōdo • prevalent = 一般的 ippanteki • encounter = 出会い deai • attributes = 性質 seikaku • grueling = へとへ
と、疲れさせる hetohe-to tsukaresaseru

(continued from page 10)

a good personality and good family; and ai-mochu, the two "haves," means having a nice car and nice house.

A floundering economy combined with the march of time has brought changes, and today's woman is more concerned with subtler qualities, at least according to the monthly magazine Zesky (ゼスキ). In its recent survey of 336 men and 470 women, over 80 percent of both men and women rated "common values" as the most important quality in a good match. "Shared feelings" came in second among both women and men, but then differences emerged. Women considered "Purchasing Power" third most important, while "Appearance" was third among men ("Appearance" ranked seventh among women).

Meanwhile, Japan's bachelors continue to be raised in an atmosphere of juken jigoku (受験地獄, "education hell"), a social wasteland of cram schools and home study. What little free time they do have is devoted to sports or other types of all-male activities. Their ambitious pursuit of positions in good universities and prestigious companies, which once would have guaranteed success in matrimony, seems to have left them without the communications skills necessary for today's dating game.

The fathers of these hapless bachelors, raised in the post-war days when marriage was every woman's goal and men were in short supply, never had to try very hard at romance; they can hardly serve as role models for courtship. Nor does it help that along with all the other changes has come a marked decline in o-miai—arranged by parents, relatives, superiors at work, or professional matchmakers—as an avenue to marriage.

The problems of the Japanese man in wooing today's independent Japanese woman has become a popular topic in the media. One result has been the emergence of a new breed of TV matchmakers who seem determined to lend these struggling young lads a helping hand, and provide their viewers with some entertainment in the process.

Although there are some similarities to American dating shows like "Love Connection" or "The Dating Game," the Japanese version has some unique characteristics.

"Neruton Beni-Kujira-Dan"

The oldest and most popular of the TV matchmaking programs is "Neruton Beni-Kujira-Dan," (ねるとん白鯨団), or just

"Neruton" to the hordes of faithful viewers. Produced by Kansai TV, the program airs every week for a half hour on the Fuji TV network. Given the direction the comedy often takes, it seems appropriate that the name borders on nonsense: Neruton is a reference to the comedy duo "Tunnels" (トンネルズ, Kinashi Noritake and Ishibashi Takaaki), who host the show. Beni-Kujira-Dan means "Red Whale Party/Group," a name which producer Ochi Takehiko concedes, is just for fun.

But Ochi and other producers insist there's a serious side to all this comedy—getting young men and women together for life, for love or maybe just for a brief romance.

After the long juken jigoku, young men are finally free of the pressures of constant testing," Ochi said in a recent interview with Manga-jin. "Now they have time to think about girls, but they don't seem to know how to go about meeting them."

"Girls are stronger than ever," Ochi laughed. "That's why TV shows like this are so popular. 'Neruton' attracts about 15 percent of the audience during its time slot, he added, high for a late night show.

"I don't think a group dating show like this would have the same appeal in the States or other western countries," he said. "Most young men in the U.S. are comfortable in party situations. There are lots of parties going on, even in high school. In Japan, teenagers just study study study, shooting for a good college."

The people at "Neruton" seemed strangely reluctant to provide photos. This scene is from a more recent entry, "Kiss Kiss" (TV Asahi)

Not that a man's troubles are necessarily over once he appears on the show. Far from it. The majority are rejected, painfully, on the air. And the hosts show little mercy to aspiring romances of either sex. One plump but good-natured woman on a recent program had to put up with the nickname "Shelly Fish" (the hosts used the names Kai-chan |かいちゃん| and Sazae |さざえ, a kind of shellfish sometimes called "Turkish Shell") when one of the Tunnels asked her if she was wearing a sazae in her collar.

Much of the show's appeal and humor comes from the women contestants, who tend to outshine the men.

"Women who want to be on this show are often very good looking, and maybe they want to brag to their friends about how many boys were interested in them, and how many they rejected," said Ochi. "Men and women who want to be on this show take a playful attitude toward the opposite sex, and I think

• floundering = 迷える kurumeru suru = subter = 下の微妙な neru bisoku-na • bachelor = 独身男性 dokushin danshi • hapless = 不幸な fukukinshi rai/fukun-shi • woo = ひとくち好きになる hitojikan/aiqisu suru • bid = ひと男性 hitotai danshi • horde = 大勢 taishu • concede = 認める mitomeru • time slot = 時間帯 jikan-tai • culture = 文化 kumijyuu that's OK. If they can match up with somebody that's even more OK."

The odds are good enough to encourage young men to keep showing up and risking abuse from the girls who reject them, and from the hosts who tease them before and after rejection. Of the forty young men and women who appeared on a recent Saturday night, four couples emerged.

"Neruton" claims to have scored 1,600 pair-ups in its six years on the air. At least 18 couples have married. Ochi said, adding that "Neruton" hasn't done a formal study of its success rate.

A recent show aired on Seijin no Hi (成人の日, "Coming of Age Day"), January 15, featured 10 girls in kimono. On this holiday, young people who have turned 20 in the past year dress up—elaborate kimono for the women and dark suits for the men—and attend seijin-shiki, "coming of age ceremonies." The women were joined by 10 young men who confessed a soft spot for girls prettied up in traditional garb. In keeping with the occasion, all contestants were 20 years of age. The show was filmed in the popular disco Tengoku (天国, "Heaven").

The Tunnels kicked off the show with a rapid-fire series of spot interviews: "What do you want to be able to do after age 20?" the girls were asked. Answers ranged from the saucy ("I want to be able to drink without throwing up") to the seductive ("I want to take very good care of my new boyfriend").

Another question for the girls: "Why did you break up with your last boyfriend?" The answer from one giggling young reluctant temptress: "Because he asked me to dress up in my high school uniform!"

After the introductions, both sexes are asked to pick someone in the opposing line-up to whom they've taken an early fancy. The comedians and a studio audience have ample opportunity to chuckle at the contestants' expense here, as well as during the next phase of the show, the "free time," when the two sides are given a chance to talk and mingle for the first time.

This phase, incidentally, has given rise to the "Neruton Party" (ねるとんパーティー), a gimmick used by a growing number of travel agencies and matchmakers to attract singles.

Finally, the big moment arrives. It's Kokuhaku Taimu (告白タイム, "Confession [of Love] Time"). The aspiring young Romeos are challenged to approach the girl they fancy most and pitch their best line. Each girl steps forward in turn and one or more of the young Romeos then steps, shambles or runs forward, heart on his sleeve. The pitch is usually pretty lame, as are the rejections.

"Motto hanashi ga shinau desu (I'd like to talk some more)

• seductive = 誘惑的な yuuwaku-teki na • reluctant = 気が進まない ki ga shinanai • temptress = 誘惑する女性 yuuwaku suru josei • mingle = 交わる maijwaru • gimmick = 花り出し neruton-shiki • lame = 落ちる ochiru

The Japanese-language word processor for Microsoft Windows

漢字ワード

KanjiWORD™

- Use your current English-language Windows 3.1 system.
- Print to any Windows compatible printer.
- Import and export text files for use with other Japanese word processors.
- Enter Japanese words phonetically and convert to Kanji.
- Bilingual screens and documentation support.

Last chance for special $199 pricing! - until March- Demos also available

KanjiWORD is a trademark of Pacific Software Publishing, Inc.
14405 SE 36th St., Suite 300, Bellevue, WA 98006
1-800-232-3989 fax 1-206-562-0811

Pacific Software Publishing, Inc.
14405 SE 36th St., Suite 300, Bellevue, WA 98006
1-800-232-3989 fax 1-206-562-0811

ASSOCIATION FOR ASIAN STUDIES

The Association for Asian Studies is a scholarly, non-political and non-profit professional association open to all persons interested in Asia and the study of Asia. It seeks through publications, meetings, and seminars to facilitate contact and exchange of information among scholars and to increase understanding of Asia.

AAS is the largest society of its kind in the world. AAS's 7,000 members include scholars, teachers, business people, diplomats, journalists, and interested laypersons.

AAS publications include The Journal of Asian Studies, the Bibliography of Asian Studies, Doctoral Dissertations on Asia, the Asian Studies Newsletter, and the Monograph Series.

Membership dues are based on gross income. Please call 313-665-2490 for more information on becoming an AAS member.

The AAS Annual Meeting

Over 300 papers and sessions with paper and book reviews. The AAS Annual Meeting is a major event for scholars and students of Asian studies. It provides a unique opportunity for scholars to present their research and to meet with other scholars in their field. The meeting also includes a variety of social activities and a book fair.

For further information on the AAS Annual Meeting contact:

K.F. Fricke
AAS Conference Coordinator
1 Lane Hall
University of Michigan
Ann Arbor, MI 48109
Tel: 313-665-2490
Fax: 313-665-3801

Onegai shimasu," gasps one young lad. "Gomen nasai (I'm sorry)," his intended whispers back, glancing away. An offscreen howl, a chorus of laughter, and it's over.

The next young fellow pulls out all the stops. "Horemashita (I've fallen in love)!" he bellows. His reward? Another mumbled "Gomen." The next guy: "Zutto kinchō shite-kimashita (I've been nervous all day). Tomodachi kara onegai shimasu (Let's start as friends/from friendship)!" Another rejection, but he smiles philosophically: "Mata, hoka no ai o sagashimasu (I'll look for another love somewhere else)."

Finally: "Kondo, doko ka tanoshii tokoro e ikimashō (Let's go someplace fun next time/sometime)." Bingo. A tiny "Hai," and he's in the money. His reaction: "Shinjirarenai (I can't believe it)."

"That's Wedding Bells"

For older and more scrupulous-minded men and women, Tokyo Broadcasting System (TBS) and producer Hayashi Yutaka have an answer: "That's Wedding Bells," which focuses on people in their mid-twenties to late thirties. The men are mostly mid-career salarymen and professionals; the women, office ladies or young professionals. For most, the goal is marriage rather than a romantic fling.

"We used to have relatives or neighbors who took pleasure in helping young people find a good match," Hayashi told Manga. "That was the basis of the traditional o-miai system, but now a traditional o-miai is the exception. Still, people want to be able to select the best partner from a variety of possibilities. I think it's great to have this kind of program where you can meet people from totally different backgrounds."

"Princess Masako's wedding last June caused a lot of women, even career women, to think about marriage," Hayashi said. "But they're very serious and want to make a successful marriage. That's where we come in."

Though this show keeps a running onscreen scorecard based on comments from participants, there's also a greater attempt here than in "Nervon" to gauge participants' attitudes about love and marriage. Pop psychology is applied to answers from a series of questions to try to determine, for example, whether a man is inclined toward teishu kanpaku (亭主関白, a household in which the husband reigns supreme) or whether he will be willing to help out with the household chores.

For women, questions are geared to draw out their thoughts on child-rearing and what it takes to make a successful marriage. Of special interest to the men are hints about whether a woman will be kind and understanding of their problems.

Because "Wedding Bells" is marriage-oriented, Hayashi encourages men and women who fail in their first attempt on the air to come back and try again. And he encourages couples who met on the air to come back and inspire others. He takes pleasure in telling the story of one 25-year-old graduate student who presented an engagement ring to his future bride on the air.

Of course even "Wedding Bells" must keep an eye on the

(continued on page 56)

*mumble = つぶやく tsubuyaku • romantic fling = 遊び半分のロマンス asobi-hanpun no roman • household chores = 家事 kaji • child-rearing = 育児 ikugi

JAPAN

An Illustrated Encyclopedia

THE MOST COMPLETE REFERENCE BOOK ON TODAY'S JAPAN IN ENGLISH

From the publisher of the renowned nine-volume
Kodansha Encyclopedia of Japan

- 12,000 entries covering Japan's history, culture, economy, politics, science, technology, food, literature and performing arts
- 4,000 full-color photographs and illustrations
- 1,964 pages, with over 2 million words of text
- Eye-catching pictorial essays and feature articles
- 24-page timetable tracing the history of Japan
- 20 pages of full-color maps
- 14-page bibliography
- Easy-to-use reader's guide to entries
- Bilingual index of entry titles
- Two volumes, 9" x 12", clothbound hardcover

Japan: An Illustrated Encyclopedia is based on the acclaimed nine-volume Kodansha Encyclopedia of Japan. Published in 1983 and hailed as a landmark in English-language scholarship on Japan, the first encyclopedia has been updated, revised and abridged into a practical new compact version that now contains 10% entirely new material—including many changes that have affected Japanese society over the past decade. This crucial reference not only provides significant data on Japanese politics, government and economics but it is at once a magnificent treasury of the nation's art and history, and a lively guide to its popular and traditional culture. Concise in format yet comprehensive in scope, Japan: An Illustrated Encyclopedia is the definitive reference on today's Japan.

$200.⁰⁰ UNTIL MARCH 31, 1994; $250.⁰⁰ THEREAFTER

AVAILABLE OCTOBER 1, 1993.
CALL OR SEND CHECK OR MONEY ORDER TO

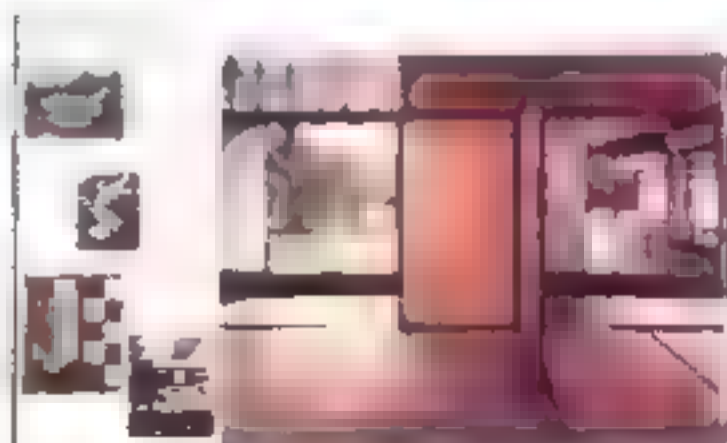

KODANSHA
114 Fifth Avenue
New York, NY 10011
212-727-6460

PLEASE ADD $8.50 PER SET FOR SHIPPING & HANDLING, PLUS APPLICABLE SALES TAX (NY RESIDENTS ONLY)

OR CALL

1-800-788-6262

PLEASE MENTION CODE K-1

やっどでました！
Yatto Demashita!

It's Finally Here!

The first 24 'Basic Japanese Lessons' from Mangajin, compiled in book form.

Basic Japanese Through Comics is the ideal supplement to learning Japanese from textbooks. The book uses lifelike situations from real manga to explain linguistic and cultural points quickly and memorably. Each chapter on a specific concept of basic Japanese—a phrase, word, or hard-to-grasp idiom—is carefully examined and explained. The lessons cover a wide array of Japanese expression and illustrate usage and cultural context, providing insights into not only the language, but the way the Japanese behave, think and see the world as well.

Learn essential expressions and get a slice-of-life look into Japanese society at the same time!

“...a delightful volume that both educates and entertains. This is ‘real’ Japanese as spoken by the natives...I highly recommend this book to those who wish to study real ‘live’ Japanese in its genuine socio-linguistic context.”

—Glen Fukushima,
 Director, AT&T Japan, and former U.S. trade negotiator

“Basic Japanese through comics presents the reader with enjoyable material as well as valuable information on Japanese language and culture. I recommend it highly as a reference book for learners of Japanese.”

—Professor Akira Mura,
 U. of Wisconsin, and author of Japanese Words and Their Uses

Each chapter gives you an average of six pages of illustrations from manga covering:

- | | | |
|--|------------------------------------|-----------------------------------|
| 1. Yorushiku o-nagai shimasu | 9. Dōzo | 17. Baby Talk |
| 2. Sumimasen | 10. Baka , The Basic Insult | 18. Informal Politeness |
| 3. Feminine Speech | 11. Shitsurei | 19. Introductions |
| 4. Gaijin Bloopers | 12. Ei , The “Good Word” | 20. “—sama” Words |
| 5. Hiragana, Katakana and Manga | 13. Yatta! The Exclamation | 21. Hesitating with Anō |
| 6. Ohayō & Omedeto Gozaimasu | 14. Saying Goodbye | 22. The Wide World of Desu |
| 7. Creative Kanji Readings | 15. The Concept of Komaru | 23. Hai (Part 1) |
| 8. Domō , The All-Purpose Word | 16. Counters and Classifiers | 24. Hai (Part 2) |

Order Yours Today!
Only $14.95/¥2500 in Japan

► In the US, order through *Mangajin*Tel: 800-552-3206/Fax: 404-590-0890
 ► In Japan, order through SSKCTel: 03-3479-4434/Fax: 03-3479-5047

You don't have to sacrifice great service for a low price when you travel

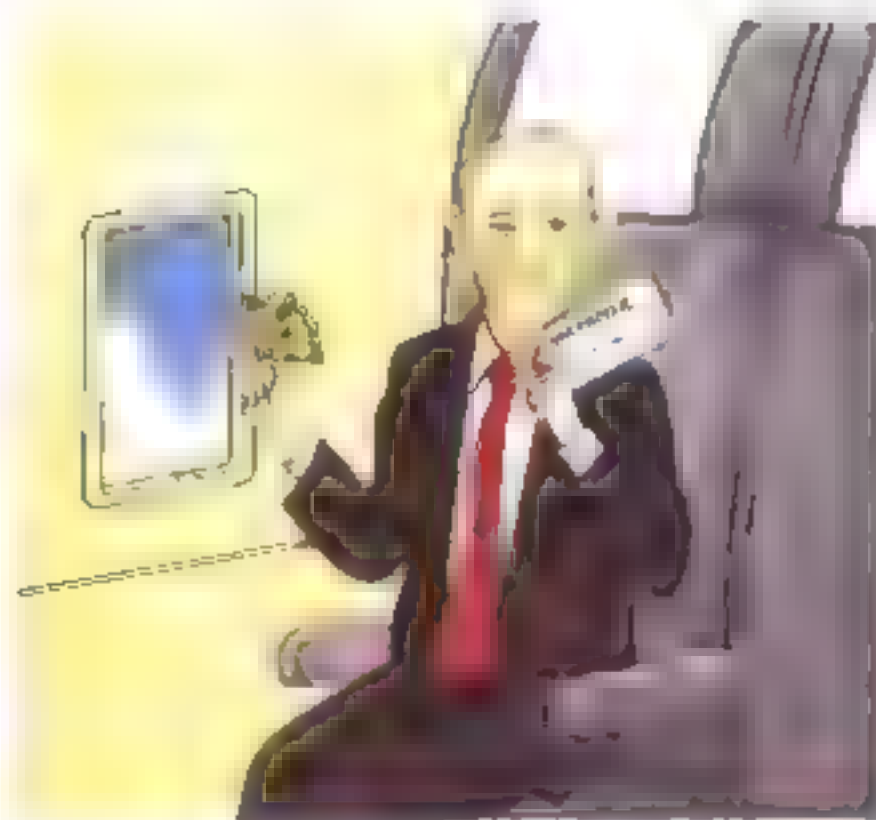

- Need an expert to handle all your business travel needs?
- Want to know who has the lowest airfare this week?
- Confused by the hotel's minimum night stay restrictions?
- Puzzled by the airline's long list of purchase restrictions?
- Need advice on where to take your family for vacation?
- Want to get information on that perfect get-away?

NTA PACIFIC is the one-stop agency for all your travel needs. Fast, expert service. Over 25 years experience in business, leisure, and group travel. And the lowest fares around.

Call us toll free at
1-800-USA-NTA1 (872-6821)
from anywhere in the United States for all of your travel needs

NTA PACIFIC's highly-trained agents are waiting to serve you.

◆ CORPORATE HEAD OFFICE
Tel: 213-896-0341 / Fax: 213-624-8289

◆ ATLANTA
Tel: 404-640-9292 / Fax: 404-640-9627

◆ CHICAGO
Tel: 708-228-5655 / Fax: 708-228-5677

◆ DALLAS
Tel: 214-702-0517 / Fax: 214-702-8156

◆ HONOLULU, ALA MOANA
Tel: 808-951-4000 / Fax: 808-955-1181

◆ HONOLULU, BISHOP SQUARE
Tel: 808-545-1122 / Fax: 808-528-0533

◆ LOS ANGELES-DOWNTOWN
Tel: 213-683-1613 / Fax: 213-624-8289

◆ LOS ANGELES-SOUTH BAY
Tel: 310-329-1130 / Fax: 310-329-7383

◆ LOS ANGELES, ORANGE COUNTY
Tel: 714-757-0230 / Fax: 714-757-0237

◆ MANHATTAN
Tel: 212-944-8660 / Fax: 212-944-8973

◆ NEW JERSEY
Tel: 201-420-6000 / Fax: 201-420-1515

◆ SAN FRANCISCO BAY
Tel: 415-991-9402 / Fax: 415-591-7634

Japanese Overseas Investment: Is it fair?

Japanophobia:

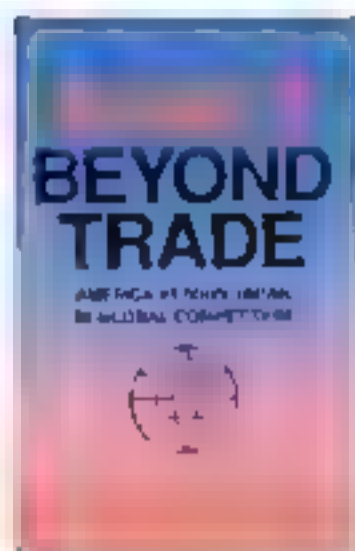

The Myth of the Invincible Japanese

Bill Emmott. New York: Times Books, 1993. 261 pages, $25.00 (hardcover)

Rivals Beyond Trade:

America Versus Japan in Global Competition

Dennis Encarnation. Ithaca, NY: Cornell University Press, 1992. 222 pages, $12.95 (paperback)

In the late 1980s an economic "bubble" inflated by rapidly rising stock and land prices, gave Japanese companies a mountain of cash, much of which they invested overseas. Many people in Europe and the US resented this tidal wave of investment, perceiving it an unfair takeover of their economies.

According to Japanophobia, by Bill Emmott, editor-in-chief of The Economist and formerly its Tokyo bureau chief, this fear of Japanese investment is mistaken. The reason Japanese firms are disliked overseas is that most people do not like big corporations in the first place, especially foreign ones. In fact, American companies faced the same hostility in Europe in the 1960s. Emmott argues that economic takeover is no more the goal of Japanese corporations than of American or German ones. Japanese investment, like that of any other country, provides jobs and economic growth and should not be discouraged. While Japanese companies keep ultimate control in the hands of their own nationals in their home offices, so do other multinationals.

Emmott's discussion of Japanese mistakes in overseas investment is quite interesting. Flush with cash, Japanese corporations hurtled themselves into enormous investments they were not equipped to handle. For example, neither Sony nor Matsushita knew what they were getting into when they paid enormous sums to purchase, respectively, Columbia Pictures and MCA. Both were rash investments initially explained by vague hopes of some kind of synergy between electronic hardware and entertainment software. But neither company knew anything about making American movies, and they were forced to turn over their operations to Hollywood insiders who, in Emmott's words, "mugged them" for fat salaries and commissions.

Likewise, Bridgestone Tires blundered in 1967 when it outbid Italy's Pirelli by 30 percent to buy Firestone. It paid too much for the troubled company and wound up with a money-losing albatross. Japanese banks made similar mistakes by jumping headlong into overseas markets in Britain and the US and making excessively risky loans.

Far from giving Japanese firms leverage in the US, Emmott says the giant takeovers wasted money that is now sorely missed in recession-plagued Japan. The debts from frivolous investments are forcing firms like Sony to cut back on research and development.

Emmott describes these Japanese mistakes in overseas investment to underscore his point that Japanese firms are like those of any other nation. He argues, nevertheless, that Japanese overseas manufacturing investment has largely been successful because most firms have expanded methodically and carefully.

Emmott acknowledges that foreign investment is beneficial to the home country. Companies, be they American or Japanese, tend to keep key technological research at home, and overseas subsidiaries bring in large volumes of imports from the home country. While Emmott compares the fairness of Japanese overseas investment to Western investment in the US and Europe, he does not ask whether Western firms have enjoyed reciprocal access to the benefits of investment in Japan. That is precisely the question addressed by Dennis Encarnation's Rivals Beyond Trade.

Encarnation, a professor of business administration at Harvard, agrees with Emmott that Japanese and American multinationals are similar and pursue global strategies based on setting up majority-owned subsidiaries. But while US firms have been able to invest heavily in Europe and other regions, they have had only limited success setting up such subsidiaries in Japan. This is because foreign investment in Japan was limited by government controls that were not completely lifted until 1980. Although US investment has since expanded greatly, it is still relatively small partly because of the legacy of earlier controls and partly because private controls on majority takeovers of firms have continued. For example, to guard against foreign takeovers keiretsu groups exchanged stocks among themselves in the 1960s and agreed not to sell each others' stocks to outsiders.

Thus, although GM and Ford obtained large minority stakes in Isuzu and Mazda respectively, keiretsu groups headed off majority control. Encarnation argues that majority-owned subsidiaries abroad, while replacing some exports from back home, actually increase overall American export volumes by creating markets and distribution channels. His conclusion is that the consequence of restricted access to investment in majority-owned subsidiaries in Japan has been to limit opportunities for American exports.

Although Japanophobia presents a good, readable discussion of the financial bubble and the mistakes in overseas investment it led to, Rivals Beyond Trade puts the fairness of Japan's overseas investments in perspective by reminding us that access to investment between Japan and Western countries has been less than equal.

Mark Tilton is a professor of political science at Purdue University and author of the forthcoming book Restrained Trade.

• Japanophobia = 日本恐怖症 Nihon-kofushō • invincible = 無敵の mukōshi no • resent = 憎る kirau • surge force = ぶく然とした勢力 bokugen to shita kikan
 • mugged = 鼻し pinazaru shau • blunder = 大失態 daishitai • export = 輸出 shutoku • take over = 占領する take yoru tokei ni de mairigatai suru
 • recession-plagued = 不況に苦む fukyō ni kurumu • frivolous = 軽率な keisatsu na • reciprocal access = 相互アクセス shūgo ni kyōkai no akessu

Japanese Jive

Wacky and Wonderful Products from Japan

Caroline McKeldin. New York: Tengu Books, 1993.
80 pages, $9.95 (paper)

"Just like regular White Water but without all the frills."

"If you're really in a hurry, you can have your coffee on your toast."

All foreigners who have lived in Japan have at one time wanted to write this book—a playful collection of peculiar products and product names from Japan. The problem is, after a few weeks of exposure to Crunky Kids candy bars, Royal Barrel Ice Cream, and Jive Coffee, a certain immunity sets in. Before long those same foreigners look perplexed when some greenhorn laughs at the idea of Suntory's Banana Beer Cocktail (conveniently available in cans). And they are downright snobbish about Choco Mushu Bread, knowing as they do that mushu (蒸し) means "steamed."

Most foreigners, however, eventually move back home and regain their perspective on the English language. For them, and for those who haven't yet experienced the wonder of product names like WhizzMan and Yodel Water, there is Japanese Jive, an album of English atrocities which will amaze friends and family, providing solid proof that those unbelievable stories about "Japlish" are indeed true.

Author McKeldin provides tongue-in-cheek commentary for each product that is usually amusing without being overly condescending. Less successful are the occasional multiple-choice "quizzes" ("Super Winky. This product: A) renews energy to tired eyelids, B) is the baby doll that winks, C) is a funky brake-light attachment for your car; D) is a brand of condom"). The real answers are so surprising that the made-up joke answers seem a little anti-climactic.

Most of the products are convenience store and vending machine fare, but McKeldin also reveals unexpected restaurant offerings (such as Curry Pizza, laden with onion, green pepper, boiled egg, potato salad, and Italian sausage), some department store surprises (Amnesty International "Human Rights Now" pajamas), magazine titles, cigarettes, and beauty products.

Japan marketing guru George Fields provides a brief explanation for the use of nonsensical English names, but this book isn't aimed at scholars. With nearly 200 illustrated examples, many in color, Japanese Jive is just plain fun to have around. Super Winky, by the way, is a condom—or did you already know that?

*immunity = 免疫 men'ei • greenhorn = 新来の(外国人) shinnu no (gaikokujin) • English atrocities = めちゃくちゃな英語 mechakucha-na Eigo • tongue-in-cheek = ひにくっぱいリス hikupparisu • seem anti-climactic = かえってつまらなくさせる kaette tsumaranaku saseru • guru = 師匠 shisa / 専門家 senmonka

"If you were to graphically represent a colon in the form of candy, wouldn't it look like this?"

"For people who are just nuts about seafood"

More facts about seals

When a person is buying a personal or corporate seal, known in Japan as inkan 印鑑, the first thing to be considered is the material used to make the seal. In the last installment, we discussed the pros and cons of tusks, horns, stone, and metal as seal materials. There are two more categories: wood and synthetic materials.

Wooden seals

The main woods for making seals are boxwood, sandalwood, and ebony. Boxwood is an excellent material. It is a tough wood suited for intricate craftsmanship. Since it has a fine texture, its grain does not show on the surface of the seal. It also resists chipping. A large proportion of wood seals are made from boxwood because of these characteristics. Many large seals, such as company seals, are also made with it.

Sandalwood (byakudan 白檀) is fragile compared to boxwood but appreciated for its fragrance. Another name for sandalwood is sendan 檀木, known in an adage: 楠樹は叔葉より芳ばし (Sendan wa futaba yori kanbashi). This adage, literally translated, "Sandalwood gives a fine fragrance from when it is a bud," connotes "Genius displays itself even in childhood."

Ebony is jet black and sturdy, however the surface of seals made from it is easily broken. Bamboo is another kind of seal material. Most bamboo is hollow; the komachi-dake 小町竹, from the northernmost bamboo-growing region, has a composition similar to wood and is suitable for carving seals. Such seals are used more as gain 雅印 (seals for pen names) rather than for the registered ritsun 実印.

Synthetic seals

Synthetic materials for inkan include lacteal material, plastic, and condensed wood chips. Comprised of milk as its main component, lacteal material in its white form is used for imitation ivory seals. Seals made of black-colored lacteous material become an imitation of the kind made from a water buffalo's horn. Mass-produced mitomein 認印 are made of plastic. Another synthetic material, condensed wood chips, is often made from laminated wood used in construction and has a hardness adequate for shaping into seals.

Inkpads

Inkpads (inniku 印肉) are indispensable for seals.

The inniku is also called indei 印泥, or shuniku 朱肉. It is produced by combining a mixture of mercury oxide and sulfur to a mixture of moxa and sulfur, then adding castor oil and essence. Inkpads made in China are generally high quality. From a bright red with a yellowish sheen to a dark red bordering on black, inkpads come in an almost infinite variety. Ready-made inkpads are also available but they lack grace.

Rebellion by ringisho

氣に食わぬ案紙書に逆さ印 | (Ki ni kuwanu ringisho ni sakasa-in), "An upside-down stamp on a revolving draft referendum," is a poem satirizing the Japanese system of ringisho 環紙書. Ringi ni kakoru 環紙掛ける refers to circulating a draft of a plan, prepared by the staff in charge, through the company to related departments or sections to obtain their agreement, then submitting it to the executives for their sanction. This system gathers counsel while making a matter known to everybody. Each individual involved affixes his or her seal on the ringisho as an indication that he or she affirms or confirms it.

Not all drafts are necessarily approved enthusiastically by all parties, however. Some may point their thumbs down to a certain draft. In a case where a person strongly disagrees with a given measure, but the majority approves it or due to circumstances he or she cannot oppose it, he or she can put the seal mark upside-down on the draft as in the poem above. Actually doing this takes as much resolve as crossing the Rubicon. The person runs the risk of being branded as being incapable of stamping his or her own seal correctly.

The future of seals

If a ringisho were passed around in society to continue or abolish the convention of using inkan, what would happen? Many may respond with an upside-down seal on the draft. There have long been advocates, in fact, of replacing the practice of seals with written signatures as the mark of approval on documents, as is done in many places in the world. This issue was even debated in the Diet.

The arguments against signatures were varied. "Signatures by different people are sometimes difficult to tell apart." "Even one person in different moods can sign his or her name quite differently, so it is even hard to verify that two signatures allegedly by the same person are indeed the same." It was therefore decided that the practice of using a seal should continue, but those in favor of using signatures have not given up their cause. Uncertain about their future, seal manufacturers have declared October 1 of each year to be "Seal Commemoration Day" in Japan.

by Sawane Fumitoshi

暮らしして知る日本の素顔

金沢で日本語と日本文化

Eurocentres courses receive the generous support and close cooperation of the Ishikawa Prefectural Education Board.

The programme provides opportunities to experience Japanese culture, history, tradition along with intensive language instruction.

Optional programmes include calligraphy, zen practice, industrial/cultural visits, and weekend excursions, to name a few.

Learn Japanese ways of life while staying with a Japanese family.

Luxcentre Kanazawa is a small cosmopolitan world with participants from many countries. Together they learn the Japanese language and culture, and also about each other.

A course unit lasts 4 weeks, more than one may be taken at a time.

Eurocentres is a non-profit Foundation devoted to the teaching of languages to adults. We teach English, French, Italian, Spanish, German, Russian and Japanese where they are spoken.

For a brochure please write to:

ヨーロッパセンタージャパン

EUROCENTRES JAPAN

〒101 東京都千代田区神田駿河台2-12 深井ビル4F

Fukai Building 4F 2-12 Kanda Surugadai

Chiyoda ku, Tokyo 101 Japan

Phone: (03)3295-5441

Fax: (03)3295-5441

EUROCENTRES HEAD OFFICE

Seestrasse 247 CH-8036 Zurich, Switzerland

Phone: 01/485.50 40 Fax: 01/481.61 24

EUROCENTRE ALEXANDRIA

101 N. Union Street, Alexandria, VA 22314, USA

Phone: (703)684-1494 Fax: (703)684-1495

A Glossary of Japanese Computer Terminology

by Douglas Horn

The biggest problem facing Americans trying to use Japanese software used to be finding an operating system and programs that would run on a standard Macintosh or PC. Hopefully, Mangajin's software special [Mangajin #29] eased that difficulty, but now that you've loaded Japanese software on your computer, the problem still remains—how do you read the manual and menus?

Unfortunately, few companies are including bilingual manuals and command menus with their software. The most popular method of reading menus is referring to the English version of the program since the commands and shortcut keys are generally the same. When this is impossible, most people just guess.

Exacerbating the problem is the fact that the items on computer menus are frequently non-standard Japanese, so even those who read the language fluently may have problems. Japanese-to-English computer dictionaries can provide some help, but are generally aimed at technical translators, and may be difficult to use. Also, computer jargon is evolving rapidly, and a dictionary just a few years old may be hopelessly out of date.

The glossary included in this issue is designed for computer users, rather than translators. Instead of listing entries alphabetically, we have grouped related terms. The most current terms have been employed—for example, where a few years ago central processing unit would have been translated as 中央処理装置 (chūō shori sōchi), the simpler “CPU”

(read shū-pū-yū) is currently favored. Commands are divided into groups that reflect popular menu structures. Common error messages are also included.

Many terms have synonyms, in fact some programs even use several different translations of the same term. Hopefully, future programmers will standardize terminology where possible—after all, how many different ways does a computer need to say “Cancel”?

For those who want to look further into Japanese computer terms or consult another source, there is a “computer related words” file on KiCompWare's YoZakura BBS (612-779-0886).

General Computer Terms

ハードウェア (hādo-uea) Hardware—often shortened to ハード (hādo)

スペック (spekku) Specifications/Specs

CPU/クロック (shū-pū-yū/kurokku) CPU/Clock Rate

メモリ (memori) Memory [RAM]

キャッシュ (kyasshu) Cache

モニタ (monita) Monitor

マウス (mausu) Mouse

解像度 (kazōdo) (Screen) Resolution

表示色 (hyōji iro) (Number of) Colors Displayed

ネットワーク (nettawōku) Network

ソフトウェア (sofuto-uea) Software—often shortened to ソフト (sofuto)

起動システム (kidō shisutemu) Operating System

オペレーティング・システム (operētingu shisutemu) Operating System

～対応 (～taiō) For . . . Operating Systems/Platforms [e.g. Mac/DOS/Windows]

アプリケーション (apirikēshon) Software Applications

ワープロ (wāpuro) Word Processor

表計算 (hyōkeisan) Spreadsheet (Program)

グラフィックス (gurafikusu) Graphics (Program)

マルチメディア (maruchimedia) Multimedia

ユーティリティ (yūritiri) Utility Program

言語 (gengo) (Programming) Language

電子メール (densha mēru) Electronic Mail

スクリーンセーバー (sukurin sēbā) Screen Saver

アイコン (aikon) Icon

アップルメニュー (appuru menyū) Apple Menu

環境設定 (kankyō settei) Environment Setup/Preferences

かな漢字変換 (kana-kanji henkan) Kana to Kanji Conversion

かな入力 (kana nyūryoku) Kana Entry

クリック (kurikku) Click [on mouse button]

ダブルクリック (daburu kurikku) Double Click

ディスク (disaku) Disk

ドライブ (doraibu) Disk Drive

フォント (fonto) Font

全角 (zenkaku) Full-width [Double Byte] Characters

半角 (hankaku) Half-width [Single Byte] Characters

入力/出力 (nyūryoku/shutsuryoku) Input/Output

読み込む/書き込む (yomikomu/kakikomu) read/write

画面 (gamen) screen

カーソル (kāsuru) Cursor

メニュー (menyū) menu

General Commands

実行/了解 (jikkō/rōkai) OK/Enter 確認 (kakunin) OK/Confirm 中止 (chūshi) Cancel/Stop
 取消 (torikeshi) Cancel
 キャンセル (kyanseru) Cancel
 終了 (shuryū) Exit/Quit/Cancel
 標準 (hyōjun) Default/Normal
 設定 (settei) Setup/Setting
 ヘルプ (herupu) Help

Menu Commands

ファイル (fai ru) File
 新規作成 (shinku sakusei) New 開く (hiraku) Open
 オープン (ōpun) Open
 移動 (idō) Move
 保存 (hozon) Save
 別の名前(で)保存... (hetsu no namae [de] hozon) Save As 新規保存 (shinku hozon) Save As ファイル削除 (fai ru sakujo) Delete File
 印刷 (insatsu) Print
 終了 (shuryū) Exit
 編集 (henshu) Edit
 やり直し (yari-naoshi) Undo

繰り返し (kuri-kaeshi) Repeat
 切り取り (kiri-tori) Cut
 カット (katto) Cut
 複写 (fukusha) Copy
 コピー (kopi) Copy
 削除 (sakujo) Delete
 貼り付け (hari-tsuke) Paste
 ペースト (pēsto) Paste
 検索 (kensaku) Find
 次の検索 (tsugi no kensaku) Find Next
 (検索) 置換 ([kensaku] chukan /okikae) (Search and) Replace ブロック保護 (bunokku hogo) Block Protect

Printing

プリンタ設定 (purinta settei) Printer Setup
 ページ準備 (pēji junbi) Page Setup
 改頁 (kai pēji) Page Break
 改ページ (kai pēji) Page Break
 頁振り直し (pēji furi-naoshi) Repaginate/Renumber Pages
 ページ番号 (pēji bangō) Page Numbers
 ページ数 (pēji sū) Page Numbers/Number of Pages
 部数 (busū) Number of Copies
 全ページ (zen pēji) Whole Document/All Pages

(continued on page 38)

SystemSoft is Your One-Stop Source For Japanese Software on Macintosh and Windows Computers

■ We Support and Stock: ■

Apple JLK, Kanji-Talk 7.1
 Adobe Fonts & Apps • Aldus Apps
 Ambassador, Shasta
 Claris Apps • Deltagraph Pro
 Deneba Canvas • ErgoSoft Apps
 Microsoft • Nisus
 Quark ExpressJ • Turbowriter
 MacroMedia Director
 Various software upgrades... and much, much more.

For our full range of products see MangaJin's
 "Definitive Guide to Japanese Application Software in the U.S." in issue #29.

■ The SystemSoft Advantage: ■

- Great prices.
- Full support for all of the products we sell.
- Bilingual support staff.
- Most packages available immediately.

Call SystemSoft for more information on these and other Japanese software products, or for the dealer nearest you.

 SystemSoft
1-800-882-8856

HELLO, LANGUAGES!

Network Series

ImagerPlus 12™

Pro Series

Personal Series

B Series

Quality Solutions for International Communications

Pacific Rim Connections

1838 El Camino Real, Suite 109 Burlingame, CA 94010-3105 Phone (415) 697 0911 Fax (415) 697 9439

TOLL FREE ORDER LINE: 1 (800) 745 0911

Creating a Better Tomorrow With Trustworthy Technology

FUJI
ELECTRIC

For almost 70 years, Fuji Electric Co., Ltd. has maintained its position as a leader in Japan's electric equipment industry by supplying high-quality, highly reliable products throughout the world.

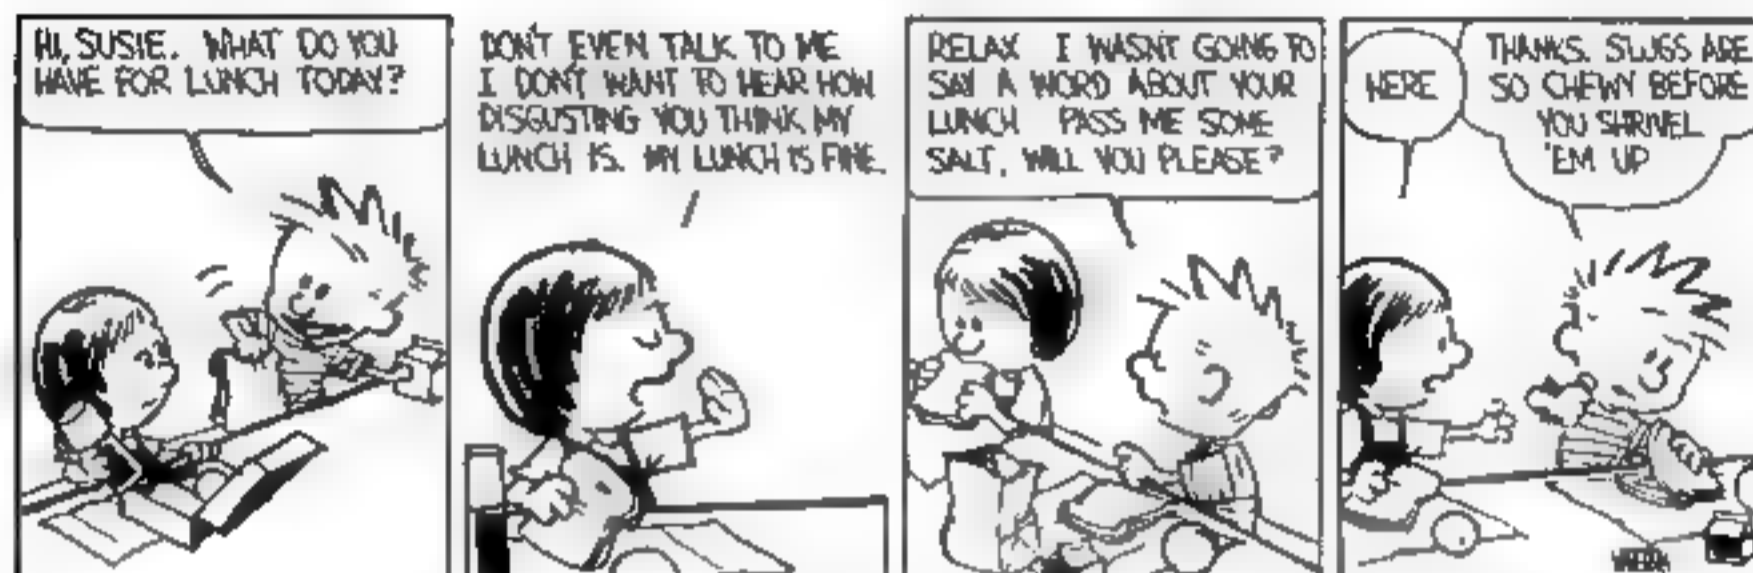

Fuji Electric's advanced technologies have enabled it to hold top shares of markets for such products as magnetic contactors, bipolar power transistors, high-voltage silicon diodes, cast resin transformers, uninterruptible power supplies, and vending machines. As the 21st century approaches, Fuji Electric has given a great deal of thought to its future development. The company is confident that its new management philosophy will further invigorate its operations and lay a firm basis for vigorous corporate growth into the next century.

Fuji Electric Co., Ltd.

12-1 Yurakucho 1-chome, Chiyoda-ku, Tokyo, 100
Japan Phone: 03-3211-7111

Calvin and Hobbes

by NATHAN

1

2

3

4

Calvin: "Hi, Susie. What do you have for lunch today?"

→ よう、スージー。今日のお弁当はなに？

Yō, Sūji. Kyō no o-bentō wa nani?
hi (name) today 's (hon-) lunch as-for what

- lunch = 「お弁当、お昼(ご飯)、ランチ」。
- we considered using ランチ (ranchi) a katakana rendition of the English word, as a translation for "lunch," but since the Japanese word (o) bentō refers to any kind of take-along or "box" lunch, we went with it instead.

Susie: "Don't even talk to me. I don't want to hear how disgusting you think my lunch is."

→ 何も 話かけないでちょうだい。私のお弁当のことを、

Nani mo hanashikakenai de chōdai. Watashi no o-bentō no koto o anything at all please don't say (to me) I/me 's (hon-) lunch about (obj.)

あなたがどんなにおぞましいと思っているかなんて、聞きたくもないわ。
Anata ga donna ni ozomashi to omotte iru ka nante, kikitaku mo nai wa.
you (subj) how much disgusting are thinking (?) (quite) don't even want to hear (1st. colloq.)

"My lunch is fine."

→ 私のお弁当は申し分ないわ。

Watashi no o-bentō wa mōshibun nai wa.
I/me 's (hon-) lunch as-for perfect/fine (1st. colloq.)

- don't even talk to me は「話かけることすらするな」の意。
- disgusting = 「いやな/おぞましい」。

Calvin: "Relax. I wasn't going to say a word about your lunch."

→ おちんきなよ。君のお弁当については、何もいうつもりはないよ。

Ochinsuki na yo. Kimi no o-bentō mitsuite wa, hitokoto mo iu tsumori wa nai yo.
calm down (emph.) you 's (hon-) lunch about as-for one word even say intention as-for not exist (emph.)

"Pass me some salt, will you please?"

→ 塩をとってくれる？

Shio o totte kureru?
salt (obj.) take/pass for me

- relax = 「まあまあ」/「落ち着けよ」、など、相手をなだめるときに使う表現。
- I wasn't going to say は過去進行形で、「言うつもりではなかった」、の意。
- pass me = 「...をとってください/回してください」の意で、食卓などで良く使われる表現。
- will you please = 「どうぞ...してください」、ていねいな依頼。

(continued on following page)

The Authoritative Calvin & Hobbes, copyright © 1990 Universal Press Syndicate. All rights reserved. Reprinted/translated by permission of Editors Press Service, N.Y.

THE FAR SIDE by Gary Larson

ザ・ファー・サイド ゲリー・ラースン

Popeye on the dating scene

Woman:

"My God! ... He's got something green stuck between his teeth."

あらまあ、彼 ったら、歯 の 間 に
Ara ma! Kare t tara, ha no aida ni (exclam.) he if speak of teeth 's between at 何か 緑色 の もの がくっついてる わ。 nanika midori-iro no mono ga kutsuite-ru wa.

something green (=) thing (sub.) is stuck (item, colloq)

- My God = 「あらまあ」、「おやま」などと、感嘆の表現だが、God という言葉を避けるため、発音の似た、my goodness という表現もよく使われる
- "stuck between his teeth" は「歯の間にはさまっている」のほうが決定的な訳だが、この場合は言うまでもなくほうれん草がくっついている状態を示している。
- "stuck between" is more literally hasamatte-iru, but in this case, kutsuite-ru (literally "sticking to") seems more natural in Japanese.

Caption:

Popeye on the dating scene

デート世界 での ポパイ
Date sekai de no Popai
date world/area in/on (=) Popeye

- この "scene" の使い方はちょっとスラングっぽくて「シーン」とは別の意。例えば、"the pop music scene" = 「ポップ音楽の世界」の意。

The Chickens Are Restless, copyright © 1993, Universal Press Syndicate. All rights reserved. Reprinted/translated by permission of Editor Press Service, N.Y.

Calvin and Hobbes

(continued from previous page)

4

Susie: "Here"

→ ほら。 Horo.
here/look

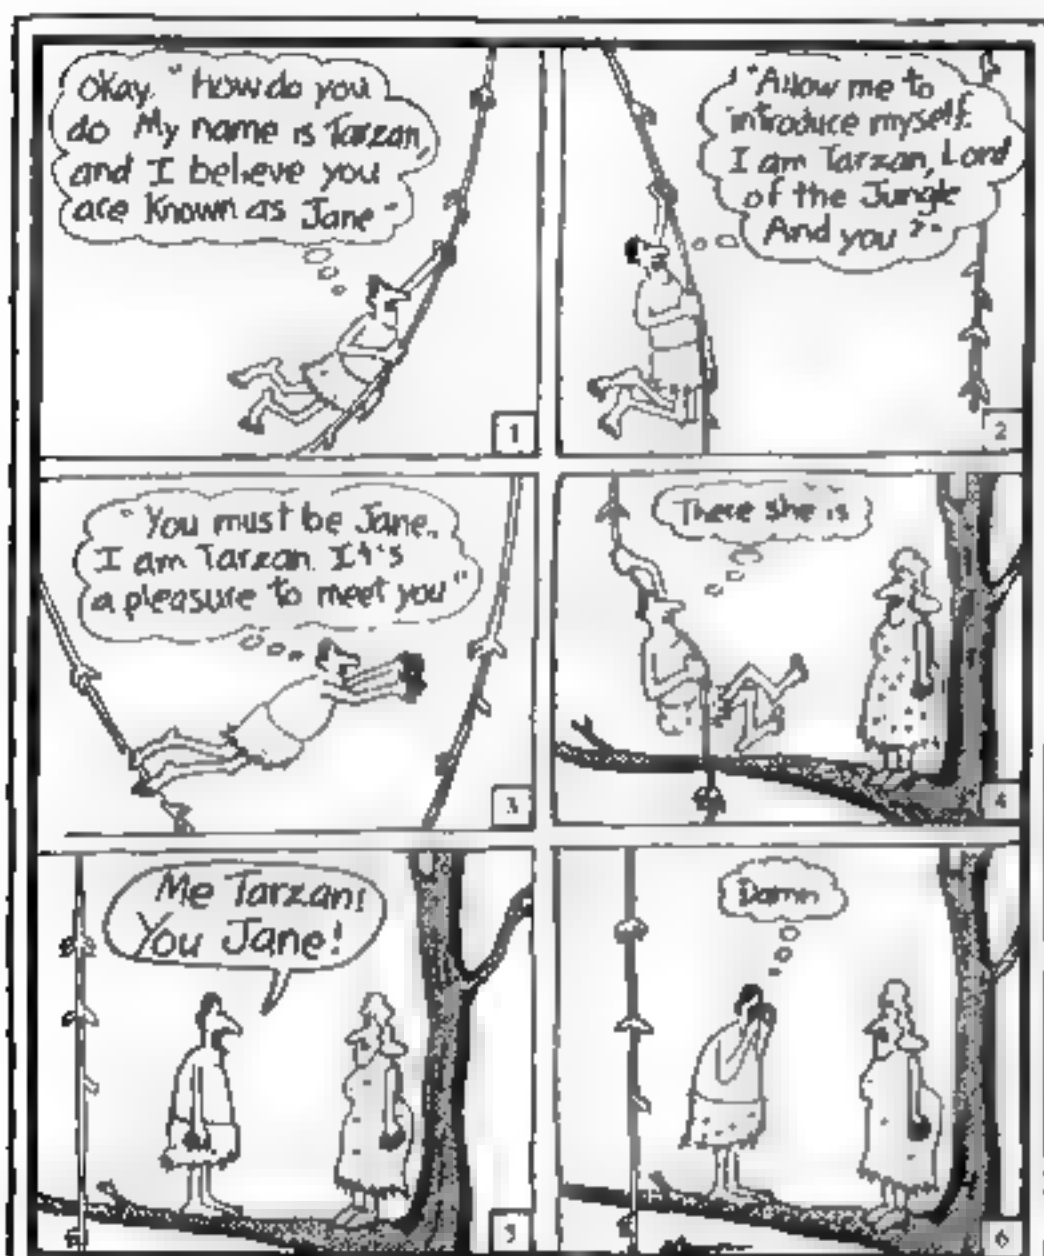

Calvin: "Thanks, Slugs are so chewy before you shrivel 'em up."

→ ありがとう。ナメクジって、縮まじる 前 ほ ひとくクチャクチャするんだ よ ね。 Arigatō. Namekaji te chijimaseru mae wa hidoiku kucha-kucha suru nda yo ne thanks slug(s) (quote) make shrivel/shrink before as-for terribly are chewy (explan.) (emph.) (colloq.)

- Here = 「ほら、ここよ/はい、どうぞ」の意。
- slug(s) = ナメクジ
- chewy = クチャクチャする。チューインガム、イカやタコの刺身、筋の多い肉などのように噛み切りにくかったり、クチャクチャすること。
- shrivel 'em up の 'em = them; ここではナメクジのこと。shrivel = しぼむ、しなびる。shrivel (something) up = しなびさせる、しぼませる
- kucha kucha is an onomatopoeic word that can represent, for example, the sound of smacking chewing gum.

THE FAR SIDE by Gary Larson

ザ・ファー・サイド ゲリー・ラースン

1

"Okay... How do you do. My name is Tarzan, and I believe you are known as Jane."

よし。はじめまして。私はターザン
Yoshi. Hajimemashite. Watashi wa Tāzan
(exclam.) nice to meet you I/me as-for (name) と申します。あなたはジェーンさん to moshimasu. Anata wa Jēn-san (quote) am called you as-for (name-hon.)

でいらっしゃいますね。」

de irasshaimasu ne.
is/am (hon.) (colloq.)

- I believe you are known as Jane を直訳すると「あなたはジェーンとどう名前が知られている方ですね」となる。
- In its most literal sense, hajimemashite means "for the first time."
- de irasshaimasu is a "polite"/honorific equivalent of desu.

2

"Allow me to introduce myself. I am Tarzan, Lord of the Jungle... And you?"

「自己紹介をさせてください。」

Jiko-shūkai o sasete kudasai.
self-introduction (obj.) please allow/have me to do

私はジャングルの王者、ターザンです
Watashi wa janguru no ōja, Tāzan desu.
I/me as-for jungle (a) king (name) am あなたは？」 Anata wa?

you as-for

- allow (person) to (do)... (人)に(事)を許す/させる。let me introduce myself より、allow me to introduce myself の方がいねいでフォーマルな印象を与える。

3

"You must be Jane. I am Tarzan. It's a pleasure to meet you."

「あなたがジェーンさんですね。」

Anata ga Jēn-san desu ne.
you (subj.) (name-hon.) is/are (colloq.)

はく、ターザンです。

Boku, Tāzan desu.
I/me (name) is/am

お会いできて嬉しいです。」

O-ai dekite ureshii desu.
(hon.) meet can happy/joyous am

- It's a pleasure to meet you をよりフォーマルな日本語に訳せば「お目にかかれて光栄です」となる。

4

"There she is."

ここにいる。
Koko ni ita.
there at is

- ita is the past form of iru ("exist" for animate objects), but in this sense means that she was and still is there

5

"Me Tarzan! You Jane!"

ボク、ターザン! 君、ジェーン!

Boku, Tāzan! kimi, Jēn!
I/me (name) you (name)

- our cinema experts claim this line was never used in any of the Tarzan movies. Watashi Tāzan, anata Jēn would make Tarzan sound like a foreigner learning Japanese; boku-kimi makes it sound like he has reverted to simple, childish speech.

6

"Damn."

クソッ!
Kuso!
(exclam.)

- Damn 代表的なののしり言葉。くそっ、ちくしょう、など。

KANJI BASE[™]

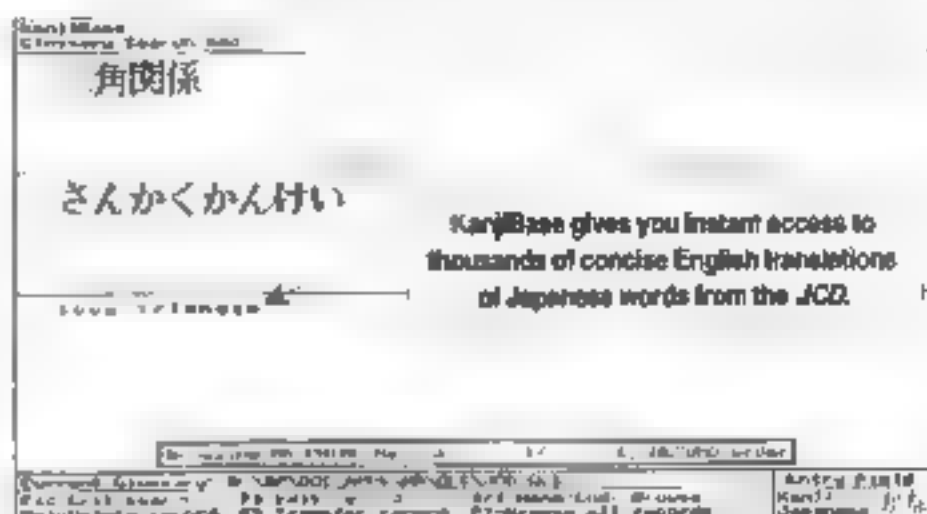

KanjiBase is a new program for students, translators, interpreters, or anyone who needs to look up Japanese words fast. Containing the complete Hadamitzky and Spahn Japanese Character Dictionary it also has a glossary maker that lets you create, keep, and manage your own unlimited list of expert words on-line. Plus you can quickly look up kanji and compounds by radicals or any other graphical element, by pronunciation, or by English definition. If you translate as you travel, take KanjiBase and leave your heavy dictionaries at home!

SELECTED FEATURES

- operates on ordinary PCs; DOS/V not required
- contains JIS level 1, 2 plus additional kanji (total 8,000)
- over 56,000 dictionary entries
- search by kanji, reading, or English definition
- symbol editor for custom kanji creation
- unlimited custom glossary size, multiple glossaries OK
- in-line romaji to kanji converter
- print glossaries in English or siuuo order on standard dot matrix and laser printers
- runs under DesqView or Windows
- paste Japanese and English into English WordPerfect documents

a product of Siegrist Software

ELECTRONIC JAPANESE-ENGLISH DICTIONARY WITH CUSTOM GLOSSARY "MAKER & MANAGER"

KanjiBase gives you instant access to thousands of concise English translations of Japanese words from the JCD.

$245 includes JCD and glossary maker/manager

Requires IBM PC, PS/2 or 286, 386, 486, or Pentium-based compatible with 640K memory. Additional 2MB disk cache recommended. Dos 3.1 or later. EGA/VGA or Hercules monitor. Hard disk space: 7MB for KanjiBase + 32MB for JCD.

ORDERING IS EASY!

toll-free 800-947-7271
via fax 510-524-8711

- request our fax brochure
- credit cards welcome

Stone Bridge Press
P.O. Box 8208
Berkeley, California 94707

The best of both worlds

Japan Related

A CROSS-CULTURAL TRADE JOURNAL

Japan Related is an effort to correct the knowledge imbalance among people who need to know about Japan the most—Americans working day-to-day with Japanese bosses, colleagues, subordinates, suppliers and customers. Japan Related's mission is to provide Americans with the information they need to relate comfortably to the Japanese and succeed in a Japanese management environment.

- Interviews
- Case Studies
- Cultural Problems and Solutions
- Communication Tips
- Intercultural Manners and Advice
- Book Reviews
- Information about Japan, its people and the language

Send in this form for a free copy of Japan Related

Name _____

Address _____

Apt. No. _____

City _____

State _____

Zip _____

Send to:

Japan Related
1046 Vance Ave. NE
Atlanta, GA 30306

BASIC JAPANESE through comics

Lesson 33 • Iya

Iya is actually three separate words. The first iya (which can be written with the kanji 嫌) means “disagreeable” or “unpleasant.” Iya desu (or the shorter and blunter ya da), expresses distaste for a thing, idea, or situation. Iya-na is the adjective form, describing the chosen noun as distasteful, and the verb form, iyagaru, means “dislike,” or “act as if something were unpleasant/disagreeable.”

The second iya is an interjection or sort of verbal warm-up, which in itself has no negative implications at all—though it can introduce a negative statement.

The third iya means “no,” and is a variation or corruption of ie, the standard textbook word for “no.”

All three “iyas” are commonly found in everyday speech—including, of course, manga dialog.

Disagreeable/Don't like

Garcia-kun's little neighbor isn't too happy about living next to a gaikokujin (“foreigner”) who looks like a gorilla (namely Garcia), and she lets her mom know it in no uncertain terms.

© Takeuchi Akira / Garcia-kun, Futabasha

Girl (off panel): ママ〜 やっぱり この アパート イヤ ダー〜
 Mama— yappari kono apāto iya da—mom of course/after all this apartment disagreeable is “Mo-o-om, I really do ha-a-ale this apartment!” (PL2)

- yappari means “after all/as expected,” and in this case implies that some earlier feeling/statement is now (re)-confirmed. (See Basic Japanese #27)
- apāto is abbreviated from apātomento, the cumbersome katakana rendering of the English word “apartment.”
- the girl has omitted the topic/subject-marker wa that would normally follow apāto.

Don't want to

Amuro thought he had a bright future in sumo when he first started training because he easily beat the more experienced wrestlers. He soon found out that they were just letting him win as a way to tease him, and is now depressed. The sumo stable's okami ("proprietress", in the case of a sumo stable, the wife of the owner) is making sure he's OK.

Okami-san: みんなとちゃんこ食べない?
Minna to chanko tabenai?
 everyone with (name of dish) won't (you) eat いやなら帰ってもいいけれど。
Iya nara kaette mo ii keredo.
 disagreeable if is all right to return/go home but "Won't you come have some chanko with everyone? If you don't want to, it's OK to go home." (PL2)

- chanko is a stew-like dish consisting of seafood, meat, and vegetables in a broth. It is the traditional food of sumo wrestlers, and is supposed to help them put on weight.
- ending a sentence in keredo (lit. "but") softens it by leaving it open to other possibilities.

© Ichimaru / Okamisan, Shogakukan

Refusal

At age fifteen, Amuro has quit school to train as a sumo wrestler. His school counselor, Ms. Nakagawa, has been trying to convince him to at least finish high school while continuing his training at a less vigorous pace. To show her that sumo is the right thing for him, Amuro asks her to come watch him in practice, and arranges to have an opponent throw the match so he'll look good. The idea backfires when his opponent doesn't follow the plan and clobbers him mercilessly. Although we have translated iya as "no" in this and the following example, these usages still have the feeling of "disagreeable" and are not examples of iya as a replacement for ie ("no").

© Ichimaru / Okamisan, Shogakukan

Nakagawa: 先生、やっぱり進学
Sensei, yappari shingaku teacher/ of course/after all advance in school した方がいいと思うわ。 shita hō ga ii to omou wa.
 would be better to (quite) think (fem. colloq.)
 "I really think that you'd do better to stay in school." (PL2)

Amuro: いやです。 / 今日は、たまたま
Iya desu. / Kyō wa, tama tama disagreeable is today as-for by chance 調子が悪かっただけなんだから。 chōshi ga warukatta dake nan da kara.
 condition (subj.) was bad only (explan.) is because
 "No, I don't want to. I just happened to be off today." (PL3; PL2)

- Nakagawa is referring to herself when she says sensei, a fact that is not obvious without context. She has left out the topic marker wa that would normally follow sensei.
- ...-ta hō ga ii is a pattern meaning, "it would be better to ..."

Distasteful

Mrs. Suzumoto is having complications with her pregnancy, and is worried that the treatment for her will kill the unborn baby. As was the case in the previous example, this usage of iya can be translated as "no," but it is still iya in the sense of "disagreeable/unpleasant," (somewhat stronger here). The iya which is an equivalent of ue ("no") is shown in the last example.

© Nobu Jun'ichi Gekka no Kishi, Shogakukan

Suzumoto: いや!! いや!! 向こうへ行って!!
Iya!! Iya!! Mukō e itte!! abhorrent/unwelcome (emph.) other side/over there to (please) go
 "No! Go over there!"
 "No! Get away from me!"

いや!! いや!! 赤ちゃんを、殺さないで!!
Iya!! Iya!! Akachan o, korasanai de!! abhorrent abhorrent baby (obj.) (please) don't kill
 "No! No! Please don't kill the baby!"

- In both sentences, the -te/-de form of a verb is used as a strong request, more like a command in this case. Adding kudasai (see below) makes a polite request.

Forget it

This man's job has prestige, high pay and plenty of vacation time, but he has just finished explaining to his friend that he still feels there is some job out there better suited to him. Garcia's job has none of those things, so he gladly offers to trade places with the man.

© Takachi: Akira / Garcia-kun, Furubasha

Garcia: じゃ、代って下さい。
Ja, kawatte kudasai.
 well exchange please
 "Well then, let's trade (jobs/ places.)" (PL3)

Man: やだよ。
Ya da yo.
 disagreeable is (emph.)
 "Forget it/No way." (PL2)

- shortening ya da to yo da is quite common.
- the plain form da and the emphatic yo make the refusal blunt.

Iya as a modifier

Adding -na to iya makes it a modifier. In this scene, Kyōko, who has fought a humbling bout with a malignant tumor, is thinking back about the way she used to act when she was more carefree but also selfish and irresponsible. She used to try to get admirers to do silly or dangerous things and delighted in humiliating people and then laughing at them.

Kyōko: 嫌な女だったわ。
hya-na onna datta wa.
 distasteful woman was (fr-m. colloq.)
 "I was a horrible woman."
 (PL2)

© Saitama Puji / Asunaro Matsuko, Shogakukan

Iya ni naru

Literally "become distasteful," iya ni naru means "come to dislike/grow tired of." In this story, a man is explaining that he loves his wife so much that he wants to tell her that he'll find her a better mate. He is willing to make this sacrifice for her happiness, but realizes that she'd take it the wrong way.

© Nakazaki Tatsuya / Jimihen, Shogakukan

Wife: 私 が いやになった の ね。
Watashi ga iya ni natta no ne.
 I/me (subj.) became distasteful (explan.) (colloq.)
 "You're tired of me, aren't you?" (PL2)

それとも 他に好きな人が
Sore mo hoka ni suka-na hito ga or is it in addition liked person (subj.)

できた の?
dekita no?
 came into existence (?)

"Or is it that you've found someone else you like?" (PL2)

Narration: なんて 誤解する だろう
Nante gokai suru darō
 (quote) misunderstand probably/surely
 She'd probably misunderstand it as something like that. (PL2)

- dekita is the plain past form of dekiru ("can/finish/make"), and can be used like the "make" in the English expression "make a friend."
- in this usage nante is a colloquial nado to, ("things like" + quotative to), indicating that the preceding "quote" is how his wife would misunderstand.

A light-hearted response

Iya (da) can be used for feigned displeasure in situations where you are not really offended. In this example, Aki's father, who still treats her like a young girl, wants her to come sit on his lap. She has a little girl visiting, so she is a touch embarrassed at the way her father treats her, although she isn't really upset.

© Akayama Jōji / Higuragano, Shogakukan

Aki: や だあ、お友達 が いる のに。
 Ya da-, o-tomodachi ga iru no ni.
 disagreeable in (hon.)-friend (subj.) is here even though
 "Oh, stop it! I have a friend here!" (PL2)

- extending the da in (i)ya da adds emphasis

Father: はい、お秋ちゃん いらっしやい。
 Hai O-Aki-chan irasshai
 yes/OK (name) come
 "OK, O-Aki-chan, come here." (PL3-4)

- irasshai is a polite way to ask someone to come along or to come to where the speaker is. Parents frequently use polite speech forms when speaking to small children.
- adding honorific o- to a girl's name is an old-fashioned touch that indicates a sense of familiarity

We don't know exactly what Mr. Ogawa has just told Miss Onuki in this scene from Manga Business Manā, but we can tell by her reaction that she is amused, even though she says iya da.

Onuki: や だーっ
 Ya da-!
 disgusting is
 "Oh, yu-u-uk!" (PL2)

Ogawa: ほんとほんと ハハハハ
 Honto honto ha ha ha ha really really (laugh)
 "It's true, it's true (laugh)." (PL2)

- honto is a colloquial honto ("real/true").

© Deguchi & Muragawa / Manga Business Manā, Sunmark

Iya as an interjection

As a verbal “warm-up,” iya has no particular meaning and is simply used like “Well,” “You know,” or a variety of other interjections in English. Such usage is illustrated in this scene, where Shōsuke and his supervisor Takeshita have taken a business trip to Thailand, hoping to find some food products made from Thai rice that would appeal to Japanese consumers. They have made a stop in a Thai Chinatown.

© Hijiiri Hideo / Dakara Shōsuke, Shogakukan

Shōsuke:

いやあ おいしいですよ。
Iya-aa oishii desu yo.
 well/you know delicious is (emph.)
 “Ahh, this is good.” (PL3)

Takeshita:

さすが、チャイナタウンの朝がゆですね。
Sasuga Chaintaun no asa-gayu desu ne
 as expected Chintown 's (name of dish) it (colloq.)
 “As you’d expect of Chinatown’s asa-gayu.” (PL3)

- asa-gayu is from asa (“morning”) and kayu (“gruel;” the ka changes to ga for euphony). (O)kayu is rice cooked with more water than regular steamed rice, so that it has a soupy consistency. In Japan, okayu is usually associated with being ill—something like chicken soup in the US. In China, however, asa-gayu (lit. “morning kayu”) is apparently a common breakfast food, without the “chicken soup” image. We have heard that this Chinese breakfast has recently achieved trendy status among young Japanese people.

Iya = No

This is an example of the iya which is a variation or corruption of the word ie (“no”). Kōsuke, the hero of Dai-Tokyo Binbō Seikatsu Manryūaru (“A Manual for Cheap Living in Greater Tokyo”), has elevated cheap living to an art form, and he makes full use of the belongings of the student next door. His girlfriend has cooked him a spaghetti dinner, and now he is giving her a ride to the train station, using his neighbor’s bicycle.

© Maekawa Tsukasa / Dai-Tokyo Binbō Seikatsu Manryūaru, Kodansha

Hiroko: これあなたの自転車？
Kore anata no jitensha?
 this you 's bicycle
 “Is this your bicycle?” (PL2)

Kōsuke: いや Iya
 no
 “Nope...” (PL2)

Sign: 平和荘
Heiwa Sō
 Peace Apartments/Peace Villa

- Hiroko has left out the topic/subject marker wa that would normally follow kore.
- Kōsuke is a man of few words, and this terse response is not typical usage. Most people would offer an explanation after iya.
- the suffix -sō is commonly used in the names of apartment buildings (usually Japanese-style). It’s also used in compounds to mean “house/cottage” (bessō = “a second house in the country”).

タケエモン 竹右衛門家の
ひとびと

Take'emon-ke no Hitobito The Take'emon Clan

- The title of this manga series contains an interesting case of a silent kanji character in the name Take'emon (竹右衛門). The first character, take (竹, "bamboo") is straightforward, but the combination 右衛門, read here as emon, is actually short for uemon, which means "Right Gate Guards." In the Imperial Guards of the pre-modern period, there was a group called the

(continued on facing page)

by 佐藤竹右衛門 / Satō Take'emon

© Satō Take'emon. All rights reserved. First published in Japan in 1993 by Futabasha, Tokyo. English translation rights arranged through Futabasha.

(continued from facing page)

"Gate Guards," and these were divided into "Right Gate Guards" (右衛門, uemon), and "Left Gate Guards" (左衛門, saemon). There were two or three other categories of Imperial Guards as well, but for some reason uemon and saemon came to be commonly used in male names of the samurai class (and eventually non-samurai, too), typically with another character or two before them. When there's something else before it, uemon generally gets shortened to emon; saemon remains in its full form, but often becomes -zaemon (e.g., Gorōzaemon).

The two e's in Take'emon are pronounced separately, with a slight "catch" in the throat between them, differentiating the sound from a single long e.

As for the rest of the title, 家 -ke means "house/family/clan," and ... のひとびと (... no hitobito) is "the people of ...". Altogether, the title means "the people/members of the Take'emon family" or just "the Take'emon clan."

1

Dog: パソコンに 付ける ハードディスク ありますか?

Pasokon ni tsukeru hādo disuku te arimasu ka?

PC to attach/affix hard disk/drive (quote) have (?)

"Do you carry hard disks for (hooking up to) PCs?" (PL3)

Salesman: これは すごい よ。 400メガバイト だから ね。

Kore wa sugoi yo. Yonhyaku megabaito da kara ne this as-for amazing/awesome (emph.) 400 MB is because (colloq.)

"This one's really awesome. (Because) it's 400 megabytes." (PL2)

外付け よ。

Sotozuke yo attached outside (emph.)/is

"It's an external (drive)." (PL2)

- pasokon is shortened from パーソナル コンピュータ pāsonaru konpyūta, the cumbersome katakana rendering of English "personal computer."
- pasokon ni tsukeru is a complete thought/sentence ("attach/hook up to a PC") modifying hādo disuku.
- hādo disuku is from English "hard disk," and megabaito is from "megabyte" メイバイト with a small katakana i is read di rather than dei. The use of foreign words rendered in katakana is especially widespread in computer terminology.
- te is a colloquial version of quotative to, here being used essentially like the topic marker wa ("as for"), and arimasu is the PL 3 form of aru ("have" → "have/carry for sale"): hādo disuku wa arimasu ka = "Do you have/carry hard disks?"
- the emphatic particle yo directly after an adjective or verb is mostly masculine; a female speaker would sound rough or very informal unless she said wa yo. Yo is especially used for emphasizing things you think your listener doesn't know or has some particular need to know.
- sotozuke is a noun referring to the type of hard drive, formed from soto ("outside") and tsukeru ("attach/affix", tsu changes to zu for euphony) → "external drive." Yo after a noun (low intonation = masculine; rising intonation = feminine) can by itself function as da/desu yo ("is/are/will be" + emph.) in informal speech.

2

Dog: なんだ よ、コレ?

Nan da yo, kore?

what is (emph.) this

"What's this?" (PL2)

ハードディスク なんつっても けっこう ソフトな 作り だ ね。

Hādo disuku nantsutte mo kekko sofuto-na tsukuri da ne hard disk/drive even if say/call quite/pretty soft build/construction is (colloq.)

"Even if it's called a hard disk, it's a pretty soft construction, isn't it?"

"It may be called a hard disk, but it's actually built pretty soft, isn't it?" (PL2)

Salesman: あ!

A!

(interj.)

"Up!"

Sound FX

ガシャ

Gasha

Crash (effect of something hard but fragile breaking)

- nan da is literally "what is it?" but it's often used idiomatically to belittle the item being spoken of. In normal syntax kore would come first.
- nantsutte mo is a contraction of nante itte mo, a colloquial equivalent of nado to itte mo ("even if you say/call it something like ..."). Itte mo is a conditional ("even if/when") form of iu ("say"). to iu often means "called ..."
- sofuto-na is from the English adjective "soft," here being used to mean "flimsy/fragile." Adding -na is the standard way to turn foreign/katakana adjectives into Japanese adjectives.
- tsukuri is the noun form of tsukuru ("make/build/construct").

いいひさいち選集

Ishii Hisaichi Senshū

SELECTED WORKS of ISHII HISAICHI

OL: 結婚する としたら、田中さんと 山口さんと Kekkon suru to shitara, Tanaka-san to Yamaguchi-san to get married suppose If you did (name-hon.) and (name-hon.) and 立花くん を あわせたような 男性 よね。
Tachibana-kun o awaseto yō-na danshi yo ne (name-hon.) (obj.) combined is like male (emph.) isn't it?right?
 "If I were going to get married, it'd be (to) a man who's like Mr. Tanaka and Mr. Yamaguchi and Tachibana put together." (PL2)

Another OL: ね。
Ne
 "But of course!" (PL2)

Tachibana: ん?
N?
 "Hunh?" (perking up ears to listen)

Arrow: 立花くん
Tachibana-kun
 (name-hon.)
 Tachibana

- * kekkon = "marriage," and kekkon suru = "get married."
- * ... to shitara follows verbs for the meaning "supposing that (I/you/he did the action)," or "if (I/you/he) were to (do the action)."
- * awaseto is the plain/obrupt past form of awaseru ("combine/put together"). Yō-na makes the entire clause before it, ending in awaseto, into a modifier for danshi ("man/male"): "a man who is like ..."
- * in informal situations, the emphatic particle yo by itself can function as desu yo ("is/are/will be" + emph.), especially in female speech.
- * the responding ne from another OL: essentially expresses agreement, and the long vowel makes it emphatic agreement → "of course!"

OL1: 田中さんは 早稲田の 政経 で 英語 ベラベラ だし
Tanaka-san wa Waseda no Seikei de Eigo perapera da shi (name-hon.) as-for (name) 's pol-econ m-& English is fluent in and
 "Mr. Tanaka is a Pol-Econ graduate of Waseda University, and is fluent in English, (and...)" (PL2)

OL2: 山口さんは ルックス バツグン だし
Yamaguchi-san wa rakkusu batsugun da shi
 (name-hon.) as-for looks outstanding what and 180 以上 ある もん ねー。 hyaku hachijū jū aru mon ne
 180 cm more than has/have because (colloq.)
 "(And because) Mr. Yamaguchi is a real looker, and he's over six feet" (PL2)

- * seikei is an abbreviation of 政治経済 seiji keizai, "political science and economics," which in this case would refer to the name of the department from which he graduated at Waseda University.
- * de is a continuing form of da/desu ("is/are"): "is/are and"
- * shi is an emphatic "and/and moreover" for connecting two clauses
- * 180 refers to his height in centimeters; strictly speaking it's a little under 6 feet, but she says jū ("more than"), so "over 6 feet" makes a better translation.

OL: そして 立花くん みたいに
Soshite Tachibana-kun mitai ni
 (name-hon.) like (manner)
 "And like Tachibana,..."

- * mitai directly after a noun means "is like."

OL: 独身 で ねー。 dokushin de ne
 single/bachelor is (colloq.)
 "... he'd be single." (PL2)

- * the final ni in the third frame makes Tachibana-kun mitai ("is like Tachibana") function as an adverb modifying dokushin de in this frame, a continuing form of dokushin da/desu ("is single/a bachelor").

いいひさいち選集

Ishii Hisaichi Senshū

SELECTED WORKS of ISHII HISAICHI

Hirooka: あー、広岡達三 だが、
A-, Hirooka Tatsuzō da ga, uhh (name) is but
"Uhh, this is Hirooka Tatsuzō, but"

「月刊朝説」の安田くんはおるかね?
"Gekkan Hyōsetsu" no Yasuda-kun wa oru ka ne?
monthly (name) of (name-hon.) as-for be present? (colloq.)
"Is Yasuda of the Monthly Hyōsetsu there?" (PL2)

- gekkan = "monthly publication," while hyōsetsu is a pun on two words: 悪説, which means either "rumors/talk of the town" or "critical commentary," and 剽窃, which means "plagiarism/stealing." 月刊朝説 would be a perfectly good name for a magazine, but the homophonous 月刊朝説 is humorous.
- men in positions of authority/respect often use oru in place of iru ("exist/be [in a place]" for people/animate things). Asking questions with ka ne is also mostly reserved for superiors speaking to subordinates.

Hirooka: 送ったファクスはちゃんと届いたかね?
Okutta faksu wa chan-to todota ka ne?
sent fax as-for properly/successfully arrived? (colloq.)
"Did the fax I sent arrive safely?" (PL2)

Yasuda: あー、ハイハイ、
A-, hai hai,
"Oh, yes, yes." (PL3)

Sign: 編集部
Henshu-bu editing department
Editorial Department

• okutta is from okuru ("send") and todota is from todoku ("be delivered/arrive").

Yasuda: たしかに届きました。ありがとうございます。
Tashika ni todokimashita. Arigatō gozaimashita.
certainly/assuredly arrived thank you very much
"It has indeed arrived. Thank you very much." (PL3-4)

Hirooka: じゃ、あとはたのむヨ。
Ja, ato wa tanomu yō.
then/as that case the rest/remainder as-for (I) ask/request (emph.)
"Then as for the rest, I ask you to take care of it."
"Then I'll count on you to take it from here." (PL2)

Wife: やれやれ。
Yare yare.
(interj. of relief)
"What a relief!" (PL2)

Yasuda: こりゃ派手にかみ込んだなア。
Korya hade ni kamikonyatta nā.
as-for this grandly/spectacularly jammed (regret) (colloq.)
"He jammed it up something spectacular, didn't he?" (PL2)

Editor: 短気だからねエ。
Tandō da kara ne.
short tempered is because (colloq.)
"(Because) he's so short tempered, you know." (PL2)

Delivery Man: どうも。 Dōmō.
"Thank you." (PL3)

• korya is a contraction of kore wa ("as for this"), which here serves mainly as emphasis

On Shirt: 宅配 Takuhai home delivery
Delivery Service

• kamikonyatta is a contraction of kamikonde shimatta, from kamikomu, combining kamu ("bite/chew") with komu, which follows other verbs to indicate the action is/was directed inward. Shimatta implies the action was undesirable/regrettable.

OL1 やっぱし 一流企業 につとめてないとね。
Yappashi ichu ryuusei ni tsutometenai to ne after all/really first rank company at must be working (colloq.)
"He really has to be working for a top-ranked company, don't you think?" (PL2)

OL2 身長 175 以上 は ほしい。
Shinchou hyaku-nanajūgo ijō wa hoshii.
physical height 175 cm more than at least want/desire
"I'd want (him to be) over 175 cm [5'9"] tall." (PL2)

OL3 スポーツマン が いい な
Supōtsu-man ga ii na.
sportsman (subj.) good/preferable (emph.)
"I want a sportsman." (PL2)

- yappashi is a colloquial yappari/yakari, here in the sense of "after all/as you might expect (it really has to be so)."
- tsutometenai to is short for tsutometenai to ikenai, one of the "must/have to" forms of tsutomeru ("serve/work for [a company]"). Ne solicits agreement.
- wa after a number/amount can mean "at least."

Salaryman A まったく近ごろの女の子はあれですもんねー
Mattaku chugoro no onna no ko wa are desu mon ne (exclam.) recent times of girls as-for that is (expl) (colloq.)
"Geez, because the girls recently are that way (it's exasperating)."
"Geez, (what can a guy do when) all the young women these days are like that?" (PL3)

Salaryman B あいつら まだ 腹がへってないんだ な。 Aitsu-ra mada hara ga hette-nai na da na.
they/those gals still not hungry (explan.) perhaps/I guess
"I guess they just aren't hungry (enough) yet." (PL2)

- mattaku, literally meaning "completely/entirely," is often used as an exclamation of exasperation. It can occur at either the beginning or end of the sentence, or entirely by itself.
- aitsu comes from ano watashi ("that guy/person"), a rather rough way of referring to someone. -ra makes it plural.
- hara ga hette-iru is the negative of haru ga hette-iru ("is/are hungry"), from haru ga heta ("get hungry").

Salaryman A はあ?
Ha?
"Uh? (What might you mean by that?)" (PL3)

Salaryman B だから ビフテキ が 食べたい
Dakara bifuteki ga tabetai for that reason beef steak (subj.) want to eat とか 言うんだよ to ka iu nda yo.
or something say (explan.) (emph.)
"That's why they say they want to eat steak." (PL2)

Salaryman A ホントに 腹がへりゃ ノリ弁当でも食うよ。なっ。
Honto-ni hara ga herya nori bentō de mo kuu yo. Na!
really/truly if/when get hungry even seaweed lunch will eat okay?
"When they really get hungry, they'll even eat a seaweed lunch. (So huck up,) okay?" (PL2)

Sound FX ポン
Pon (slap on shoulder)

Salaryman B あたしゃ ノリ弁 ですか
Atasha nori-ben desu ka?
as for me seaweed lunch am I?
"So I'm a seaweed lunch, am I?" (PL3)

- hara ga herya is a contraction of haru ga hereba, a conditional ("if/when") form of haru ga heta ("get hungry").
- na! here has the feeling of "so don't let it get you down, okay?"
- a bentō is an inexpensive box lunch; a nori bentō (often abbreviated as nori-ben) is one of the cheaper varieties.

Buchō: 業務、うちの部の佐藤に縁談
Jōmu, uchu no bu no Satō ni endan managing director our dept. 's (name) for marriage talks/match を お世話して いただけますか?
o o-sewa shite itadakemasu ka?
(obj.) (hon.)-help/arrange could you please (?)
"Sir, could you please arrange a match for Satō (here), from my department?" (PL3)

Jōmu: ああ、いいよ。
Aa, ii yo
yes is good/okay/fine (emph.)
"Sure, that'd be fine." + "Sure, I'd be glad to." (PL2)

- endan refers to "marriage talks," aimed at introducing prospective partners and their families to one another and establishing a match.
- sewa means "help/ad/good offices," and sewa shite is the -te form of sewa suru, which means to use one's good offices to help another in some way. Endan o sewa suru = "use one's good offices to arrange a marriage/match."
- itadakemasu ka after the -te form of a verb is a polite way of making a request: "could you please..."

Jōmu: 今まで 部下の結婚を 100組 以上
Ima made buka no kekkon o hyakkumi ijō until now subordinates 's marriages (obj.) 100 couples more than まとめたんだ。まかせなさい。 matometeta nda. Makasenasai arranged (explen.) leave it to me
"I've already arranged more than a hundred marriages for my subordinates. Leave it to me." (PL2)

Satō: はあ、100組もですか?
Hā, hyakkumi mo desu ka?
(inter.) 100 matches (emph.) is it?
"Is that right. More than a hundred!" (PL3)

- kumi is a counter for "sets/pairs/couples."
- matometeta is the plain/abrupt past form of matomeru ("bring together/settle/complete/settle"). kekkon o... matomeru = "arrange a marriage/match."
- makasenasai is a relatively gentle command form of makaseru ("leave/en trust to"). + hā shows polite interest
- mo after a number implies that number is "a lot." Satō's statement is more an exclamation than a question.

Jōmu: しかも その後 離婚した 者は ゼロ!!
Shikamo sono go rikon shita mono wa zero!
furthermore after that divorced persons as for zero
"And furthermore, not a single one has gotten divorced afterwards." (PL2)

- rikan = "divorce," and rikan shita is the past tense of its verb form, rikan suru. Sono go rikon shita is a complete thought/sentence ("got divorced after that") modifying mono ("person[s]").

Jōmu: ああ、一人 いた けど 退職した な。
Aa, hitori ita kedo taishoku shita na
oh/ah one person existed/there was but resigned (colloq.)
"Oh yeah, there was one, but he resigned." (PL2)

Sound FX: わははは ははは
Wa ha ha ha ha ha ha
(boisterous laughing)

FX: ぐいっ
Gui! (effect of grabbing hold of something/his jacket firmly)

- ita is the plain/abrupt past form of iru ("exist/be" for people and animate things), so hitori ita = "there was one (person)."
- kedo is a colloquial keredo ("but").
- taishoku = "retirement/resignation" and taishoku shita is the past tense of its verb form, taishoku suru.
- na here implies a kind of self-check/confirmation; it gives the feeling that upon further reflection he recalls/confirms an exception.

1

Woman: おいしい! 料理上手なのね。
Oishii! Ryōri jōzu nano ne tasty/delicious cooking skilful (explan.) (colloq.)
"It's delicious. You're good at cooking, aren't you?"
"It's delicious! You're a good cook!" (PL2)

Man: 一人暮らし 長いからね。
Hitori-gurashi nagai kara ne
one person living is long because (colloq.)
"(Since) I've been living alone for a long time." (PL2)

2

Woman: お部屋 もキレイ。
O-heya mo kirei.
(hon.)-room/apartment also clean/neat "And your apartment is neat, too." (PL2)

Man: 掃除 とか キライじゃないんだ。
Sōji to ka kirai ja nai n da cleaning and such don't dislike (explan.)
"I don't dislike cleaning and such." (PL2)

- heya is literally "room," but it's also often used to refer to one's whole apartment, whether it has only one room or more.
- kirei can mean either "pretty/beautiful" or "clean/neat," and context tells us that in this case it's the latter.
- to ka between two nouns can mean "or," but when only one item is mentioned it means "and such/and the like/etc."
- kirai da = "dislike," and kirai ja nai = "don't dislike"

3

Woman: ずっと 共稼ぎ 続ける には
Zutto tomokasegi tsuzukeru ni wa a long time both earning continue for purpose of この人 って いい パートナー かもしれない。 kono hito te ii pātonā kamo shirenai this person as-for good partner may be
"For continuing to both work for a long time, this person might be a good partner."
"This man might be a good partner if we both have to go on working for a long time." (PL2)

- tomokasegi refers to both husband and wife working outside the home for income. Tomo = "both/together" and kasegi is a noun form of kasegu ("earn").
- the colloquial quotative te sometimes serves to mark the topic, like wa.

4

Narration: その後 Sono go later after
Later

Woman: えいっ! / このうそつき。
Ei! / Kono usotsuki!
(inter.) this liar
"Take that, you liar!" (PL1-2)

Man: そりゃ 結婚前 は いい かつこ する よ。
Sorya kekkon-mae wa ii kakko suru yō.
as for that before marriage as for good appearance do/make (emph.)
"(Anyone will try to) make himself look good before he gets married." (PL2)

Sound FX: ガーッ
Ga-i
Vrrroooun (sound of vacuum cleaner)

- ei! is an interjection/shout uttered when thrusting/swinging/striking at someone or something with a weapon/tool.
- uso = "lie/falsehood" and usotsuki = "liar"; kono is literally "this," but kono usotsuki corresponds to English "you liar."
- sorya is a contraction of sore wa ("as for that"). Sorya + V yō implies the action mentioned is a matter of course/to be expected/what everyone does.
- -mae after an action noun means "before the action takes place."
- kakko (often shortened to kakto in colloquial speech) refers to external appearance. Kakko ii = "looks good/cook/dashing," and ii kakko (o) suru means to "(try to) make oneself look good/strut one's best stuff."

1

Narration: 女の買い物にだまってつきあう男
Onna no kaimono ni damatte tsukiau otoko woman's shopping during quietly accompany man
 A man who silently accompanies a woman during her shopping
 A man who goes shopping with a woman but keeps his mouth shut

- no here is most easily thought of as possessive: onna no kaimono = "a woman's shopping." Kaimono ("shopping") is a noun formed from kau ("buy") and mono ("thing[s]").
- damatte is the -te form of damaru ("fall silent/shut up"), so when it's used as an adverb it means "silently/without comment/without questioning." The implication here is that the man leaves the woman alone/doesn't butt in with her shopping.
- tsukiau = "accompany/go along with/attend"; onna no kaimono ni damatte tsukiau is a complete sentence ("[he] silently attends/goes along with a woman during her shopping") modifying otoko ("man").

2

Narration: いっしょに あれこれ 言う男
Issho ni are-kore iu otoko together this & that say man
 A man who together (with you) says this and that A man who joins right in the shopping and offers his comments

- issho ni are-kore iu is a complete thought/sentence ("[he] says this and that together [with you]") modifying otoko.

3

A どっちが いい?
Dochi ga ii?
 which (subj.) is good/preferable
 "Which do you prefer?" (PL2)

B そーだ なー
Sō da na
 "I let's see..." (PL2)

- dochi ga ii literally looks like "which is good?" but it means either "which is better?" or "which do you prefer?"
- sō da na is a phrase used when pondering an answer/response. Though we often think of na as a masculine equivalent of ne, female speakers can use it in very informal situations. Sometimes this can sound a bit rough, but that's not the case when the speaker is pondering/thinking out loud.

4

A だまって 買って くれる男かな、やっぱり。
Damatte kate kureru otoko kana, yappari silently buy for me man is it perhaps after all
 "When it comes right down to it, I guess (I prefer) a man who keeps his mouth shut and buys me (things)." (PL2)

"Sound" FX スッ
Su! (effect of a smooth, quick action, here the action of getting out his billfold)

B よかったね、「ブリーティー・ウーマン」。 Yokatta ne, "puritī ūman."
 was good (colloq.) pretty woman
 "Well, aren't you the lucky one, 'pretty woman'." (PL2)

- kate is the -te form of kau ("buy"), and kureru after a -te form implies the action is done for the benefit of the speaker (or someone close to him/her). Again, damatte kate kureru is a complete thought/sentence ("[he] silently buys things for me") modifying otoko.
- yappari is a colloquial yahari, "as you might expect/after all/in the end." It often comes close to the feeling of "in the final analysis/when it really comes down to it."
- yokatta is the plain/abrupt past form of ui/oi ("good/fine"). Yokatta ne (lit. "that was good, wasn't it?") is often used idiomatically to congratulate someone on his/her good fortune/luck.

Politeness Levels

The politeness levels found in Japanese frequently have no counterpart in English. This can cause problems for translators. The words suru and shimasu would both be rendered simply as "do" in English, but in Japanese there is a very clear distinction between the "politeness" levels of these two words. In a more extreme case, shiyagaru would also be translated simply as "do" in English, but in Japanese this word is openly offensive. To avoid confusion or embarrassment, we label our translations using the codes on the left.

Learning Japanese from manga is a good way to get a "feel" for these politeness levels. You see words used in the context of a social setting.

The danger in "picking up" Japanese is that even though most Japanese people appreciate the fact that you are interested in learning their language and will give you "slack" as a beginner, misused politeness levels can be pretty grating on the Japanese ear, even if they do not reach the point of being truly offensive.

How can I be safe? Politeness Level 3 can be used in almost any situation. Although it might not be completely natural in a very formal situation, it will not cause offense. If you want to be safe, use PL2 only with friends and avoid PL1 altogether.

These levels are only approximations: To simplify matters, we use the word "politeness," although there are actually several dimensions involved (formality, deference, humility, refinement, etc.). While the level of respect (or lack of it) for the person spoken to or spoken about can determine which words are used, verb forms are determined largely by the formality of the situation. Thus, it is difficult to label the verb irasshaya (informal form of an honorific verb) using this simple four-level system. In such cases we sometimes use combined tags, such as (PL4-3).

Rather than trying to develop an elaborate system which might be so confusing as to actually defeat the purpose, we feel that this system, even with its compromises, is the best way to save our readers from embarrassing situations.

Codes used in MANGAJIN

(PL4) Politeness Level 4: Very Polite

Typically uses special honorific or humble words, such as nasaimasu or itashimasu.

(PL3) Politeness Level 3: Ordinary Polite

Typified by the verb desu, or the -masu ending on other verbs.

(PL2) Politeness Level 2: Plain/Abrupt

For informal conversation with peers.

- "dictionary forms" of verbs
- adjectives without desu

(PL1) Politeness Level 1: Rude/Condescending

Typified by special words or verb endings, usually not "obscene" in the Western sense of the word, but equally insulting.

Pronunciation Guide

Pronunciation is probably one of the easier aspects of Japanese. Vowel sounds don't vary as they do in English. While English uses the five letters a, e, i, o, u to make 20 or so vowel sounds, in Japanese there are 5 vowels and 5 vowel sounds—the pronunciation is always constant. There are only a few sounds in the entire phonetic system which will be completely new to the speaker of English.

The five vowels in Japanese are written a, i, u, e, o in rōmaji (English letters). This is also the order in which they appear in the Japanese kana "alphabet." They are pronounced:

- a like the a in father, or ha ha!
- i like the i in macaroni
- u like the u in zulu
- e like the e in get, or extra
- o like the o in solo

The length of time that a vowel sound is held or sustained makes it "long" or "short" in Japanese. Don't confuse this with what are called long or short vowels in English. The long vowel in Japanese has exactly the same pronunciation as the short vowel, but it's held for twice as long. Long vowels are designated by a dash over the vowel (dōma, okāsan), or by repeating the vowel (imassu).

The vowels i and u are sometimes not fully sounded (as in the verb desu or the verb ending -mashita). This varies between individual speakers and there are no fixed rules.

Japanese consonant sounds are pretty close to those of English. The notable exception is the r sound, which is like a combination of the English r and l, winding up close to the d sound. If you say the name Eddie and touch the tip of your tongue lightly behind the upper front teeth, you have an approximation of the Japanese word eri ("collar").

Doubled consonants are pronounced by pausing just slightly after the sound is formed, and then almost "spitting out" the rest of the word. Although this phenomenon does not really occur in English, it is somewhat similar to the k sound in the word bookkeeper.

The n sound: When it is not attached to a vowel (as in na, ni, nu, ne, no), n is like a syllable in itself, and as such it receives a full "beat." When n is followed by a vowel to which it is not attached, we mark it with an apostrophe. Note the difference between the word for "no smoking," kan'en (actually four syllables: ku-n-e-n) and the word for "anniversary," kinen (three syllables: ki-ne-n).

The distinctive sound of spoken Japanese is partly due to the even stress or accent given to each syllable. This is one reason why pronunciation of Japanese is relatively easy. Although changes of pitch do occur in Japanese, in most cases there are not essential to the meaning. Beginners are probably better off to try for flat, even intonation. Rising pitch for questions and stressing words for emphasis are much the same as in English.

Punctuation Notes

Most manga artists are very creative with punctuation, and many omit punctuation at the ends of lines, or choose to use no punctuation at all. We sometimes alter the punctuation used by the artist or add punctuation as an aid to comprehension.

In our 4-line format in which the Japanese text (kanji and kana) is reproduced in the notes, we may add standard English punctuation to the first (Japanese) line, if it clarifies the structure of the sentence. For example, if a complete thought is followed by . . . , we usually replace the . . . with a period.

In the second line of our 4-line format (rōmaji), we generally follow standard English punctuation. In written Japanese, a small tsu (フ or ヲ) is sometimes placed at the end of a word to show that it is cut off sharply. We usually indicate this with an exclamation mark in English.

In the third line (word-for-word literal translation), we generally use no punctuation, except periods for internal abbreviations and (?) to indicate the function of the "question marker" か.

The punctuation used in our final translations is actually an integral part of the translation. We may add an exclamation mark, question mark, or other punctuation to express the content and feel of the original Japanese.

ホワッツ

マイケル

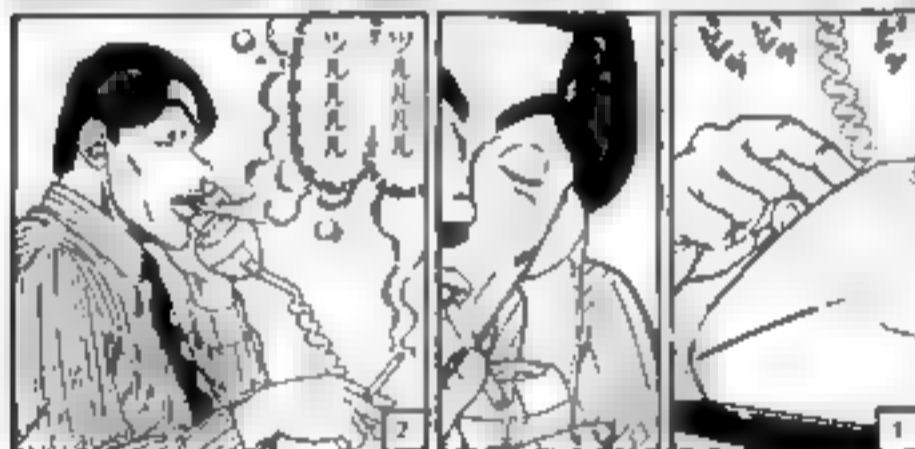

What's Michael?

by 小林まこと

Kobayashi Makoto

Title: Vol. 163 デートのお願い
Volume: Hyaku-rokujusan, Dēto no O-sasoi volume/episode 163 date of (then)-invitation
Episode 163: Asking for a Date

- dēto is a katakana rendering of the English "date." This katakana word is used only for the kind of date you go on, not for the date of an event.
- sasoi is the noun form of sasou ("invite [to come/go along]").

1

Sound FX: ピッ ピッ ピッ
Pi! pi! pi!
 (tones from punching the buttons on a touchtone phone)

2

Sound FX: フルルルル フルルルル
Tsu ru ru ru ru tsu ru ru ru ru
Ringring ringing (sound of phone ringing on the other end of the line)

3	Sound FX: ガチャッ Gacha! (sound of phone being picked up roughly) Keiko: はい、土屋 ですが。 Hai, Tsuchiya desu ga. yes/hello (name) is but "Hello, this is Tsuchiya." (PL3)	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • gacha-gacha represents small, hard objects "clattering" together repeatedly, and gacha! represents a single, abrupt "clatter" of the same kind. Gacha represents a harsher sound than its close cousins kachu and kacha, so it suggests the phone handset is being picked up somewhat roughly/hurriedly • hai is an appropriate way to say "hello" when answering the phone. It's also considered polite to immediately identify yourself. Adding ga (lit. "but") "softens" the greeting, and implies she is waiting for the caller to identify himself or state his business.
4	Norio: あ、圭子ちゃん? 石川 です けど。 A, Keiko-chan? Ishikawa desu kedo. (interj.) (name-dim.) (name) am/is but "Uh, Keiko? This is Ishikawa." (PL3) Keiko: あー、お健康? 元気い〜? A-, Norio-kun? Genki-? (interj.) (name-fam.) well/healthy "Oh, Norio? Are you doing OK?" (PL2)	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • -chan is a diminutive equivalent of -san ("Mr./Ms.") used with first names or abbreviations of family names for children and close friends. • kedo (a colloquial keredo, "but") again serves as a "softener;" it has a less formal feel than ga. • genki is a noun referring to good spirits or a vigorous state of health/energy, and genki? serves as an informal "How are you?" (lit. "Are you well?").
5	Norio: ハハハハ うん、まあね! Ha ha ha ha Un, maa ne! (laugh) yes/uh-huh sort of/pretty much "Ha ha ha, yeah, pretty good." (PL2) Keiko: どう した の、突然? Doo shita no, totsuzen? what/how did (explan.) suddenly "What's this about, all of a sudden?" (PL2)	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • maa ne affirms what the other person has said in a vague way: "Yes, in a way/Yes, sort of/Well, yes." • dō is "how/what" and shita is the past form of suru ("do/make"), but dō shita is an expression meaning "What's wrong?/What's the matter?/What happened?" • "What's up?/What's this about?"
6	Norio: いやー、実は ついに 僕 も 車 を 買って さあ。 Iya-, jitsu wa tatsuni boku mo kuruma o kate sa. well actually finally I/me also car (obj.) bought-and (pause) "Well, actually, I finally bought a car, and..." Norio: ルノー って いう 小さい けど 一応 外車 なんだ。 Runo Sanku te iu chiisai kedo ichō gaisha nanda. (name) (quote) say/called (explan.) but still/at least foreign car (explan.-w). "It's called a Renault Cinq and it's small, but it is an import," (PL2) Keiko: え〜? ほんと〜? E? Hontō-? what?/huh? true/real "No! Really?" (PL2)	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Iya or iya often serves as a kind of "warm-up" word, like "well" (See this issue's Basic Japanese column.) • jitsu = "truth/fact," so jitsu wa is literally "in fact/actually/to tell the truth." It's often used on the phone and in letters to bring up the "true/actual" purpose of one's call or letter. • kate is the -te form of kau ("buy"), here being used conjunctively, "buy, and..." The -te form of a verb does not have its own tense, but gets its sense from the context. • sa or sã is a particle used colloquially as a kind of verbal pause to draw attention to the preceding word or phrase. • Ichō often means "tentatively/for the time being" but here it carries more the sense of "still/at least/at any rate," or it can simply be thought of as giving emphasis. "It is a foreign car (at least/at any rate)." • Hontō means "truth," but with the intonation of a question it becomes "Is that true?/really?"
7	Keiko: 実は 私 も ついに 猫 を 飼いだした の よー。 Jitsu wa watashi mo tatsuni neko o kaidashita no yō. re: ally I/me also finally cat (obj.) started to keep as pet (explan.) (emph.) "Actually, I have finally gotten a cat myself." (PL2) Keiko: マイケル って いう んだけど 国産 の 猫 なの。もー かわいくってー! Maikeru te iu nda kedo kokusan no neko nano. Mō- kawaikutte-! (name) (quote) say/called (explan.) but domestic make/breed of cat (explan.) (emph.) cute/darling "He's called Michael, but he's a domestic breed. He's just so-o-o da-a-aring!" (PL2) Norio: ほんと〜。よかった ねえー。 Hontō-, Yokatta ne-. truth/real was good (colloq.) "Really? That's great!" (PL2)	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • koi is from kau, which when written 飼う means "keep/have as a pet." -Dashita is the plain/abrupt past form of -dasu, which is used as a verb suffix to mean "begin (doing the action)." • kawaikute is the -te form of kawaii ("cute/darling"). Using the -te form in an exclamation like this implies something like "He's so cute I can hardly stand it." Making it kawaikutte, with a small tsu, adds more emphasis. • mō can be used as an emphaticizer at the beginning of an exclamation. • yokatta is the past form of u/yoi ("good/fine/agreeable"); yokatta ne (lit. "that was good/nice, wasn't it?") is often used to congratulate a person on their success/good fortune/new acquisition/etc.

(continued on following page)

(continued from previous page)

8	Norio: それで さあ 来週の 日曜日 Sore de sā kondo no nichi-yōbi that with like/you know next Sunday "And so, like, this coming Sunday..."	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • sore de, literally "with that," is used as a conjunction to mean "and/and so/because of that." • the particle so or sō in the middle of a sentence is often like the colloquial English pause words, "like/you know."
9	Norio: まいちゃん ヒマ ある？ Maichan hima aru? (name-dim.) free time have/exists "...are you free?" (PL2)	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • in Japanese, the listener's name or title is often used in situations where English speakers would say "you." • hima aru is literally "free time exists" or "[I/you] have free time," and spoken with the intonation of a question it becomes "Do you have free time?/Are you free?"
10	Keiko: こらあ !! Korā-!! hey/stop that "Cut that out!" (PL2)	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • kora (or korā) is an interjection for scolding, appropriate only for superiors (parents/teachers/bosses/pet owners) speaking to subordinates (children/students/underlings/pets). It's spoken like a sharp "Hey!/Stop that!/No!/Cut it out!" to make the offender "freeze" in his/her/its tracks.
11	Keiko: それは 私の チクワ でしょ！ Sore wa watashi no chikwa desho! that as for I/me & chikwa is probably "That's MY chikwa!" (PL2-3)	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • chikwa is a roasted form of surimi, a paste made out of fish, now increasingly familiar to American palates as an ingredient in imitation crab sticks. Surimi appears in scores of different forms in Japanese cooking.
12	Keiko: よこしなさい まて！まて！まて！ Yokoshinasai mate! Mate! Mate! give it to me/hand it over wait/halt wait/halt wait/halt "Give it back! Stop! Stop! Stop!" (PL2) Sound FX: ダダッ Da da! (effect of starting to run)	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • desho (or desho) literally expresses a conjecture, but it is strictly a rhetorical one. Her sentence actually feels something like "That's mine, and you know it!" • yokoshinasai is a relatively gentle command form of yokasu ("give/hand over [to me]"). • mate is the abrupt/rough command form of matsu ("wait"). the abrupt command usually means "stop!/halt!" rather than merely "wait."
13	Sound FX: ダダダダダダダ Da da da da da da da (sound of feet pounding on floor as she chases after Michael the cat) Norio: もしもし Moshi-moshi "Hello?" (PL2)	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • the smaller and smaller kana represent the diminishing volume of her pounding feet as she moves away from the phone. • mo shi-moshi is most familiar as the word used for "hello" at the beginning of a phone call by the person initiating the call. It can also be used by either party when the conversation is disrupted for any reason, as a way of trying to re-establish the connection or regain the other party's attention.
14	Sound FX: ダダダダダダダダ Da da da da da da da da (sound of feet pounding on floor as she runs back to phone)
15	Sound FX: ガチャッ Gachai (sound of handset abruptly being picked up again) Keiko: ハアハア、ごめんなさい マイケルか 私の おかずを盗ろうとしたのよ Hā hā, gomeninasai Maikeru ga watashi no okazu o torō to shita no yo- (heavy breathing FX (apology) (name) (dim.) I/me & side dish (obj.) tried to take/steal (explan.) (emph.) "(Breathing hard) I'm sorry. Michael tried to steal my food." (PL2) Norio: ハハハ、なんだ、そうだったのかー。 Ha ha ha, nan da, sō datta no ka- (laugh, (relief) that way was (explan.) "(Laugh) Oh, so that's what it was." (PL2) <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • gomeninasai is one of the most common ways to express an apology. • rice and soup make a basic meal in Japanese cuisine. any other dish added to the meal for variety/flavor/texture/color is okazu. A minimal okazu is a few slices of a pickled vegetable. more typically a meal will include several okazu items. Okazu is sometimes translated as "side dish" although meat or fish, which would be called the "main dish" in English, would be classified as okazu. • torō is the volitional ("let's/I shall") form of toru ("take"), which is often written with the kanji 取る when "take" implies "steal." To shita is the past form of to suru. A volitional verb + to suru means "try to (do the action)." • nan da at the beginning of a sentence implies something was not as good or bad as expected, so it can express either disappointment or relief, here the latter
16	Keiko: それで、なあに？ Sore de nāni? with that/and so what "So, what was it?" → "So, you were saying?" (PL2) Norio: あ うん A un "Um... yeah..." (PL2)	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • nāni is a colloquial elongation of nani ("what"). It feels softer and less abrupt when elongated this way. But be careful: if you elongate the final i and say nanii, it becomes a rough, fighting word.

(continued on following page)

(continued from previous page)

17	Norio: その車なかなか快適でさあ Sono kuruma naka naka kaiteki de sā- that car quite/very nice/wonderful is you know "The car's really nice, you know..." (PL2) • naka naka = "very/considerably/highly" The word usually implies "more than expected" so it needs to be used with caution when speaking of other people or their accomplishments. Just you imply you had a low estimation of them before.
18	Norio: 今度、景色のいい所でもいきた Kondo, keshiki no ii tokoro demo ikita- next time/someday scenery (subj.) good/beautiful place or someplace want to go "(I was wondering if you might) like to go to (see) some scenic spot sometime..." (PL2) Keiko: いてえええっ! Itetee-! "Ow-w-w-w!" • kondo is literally "this time/opportunity," but it can variously mean "recently," "now," "soon/next time" or "someday," depending on the context. • keshiki no ii tokoro = "a place where the scenery is good/beautiful" + "a scenic spot" • demo means "or something/someone/someplace" depending on context. • we're assuming he was in the midst of saying something like iketakunai ka to omotte from the negative of ikita, the "want to" form of iku ("go") and nau ka to omotte ("wonder if it isn't/wonder if you don't")
19	Keiko: こらー、あいたた、いたあーい! Kora-, itata, ita-! hey/stop! oh! ouch [it] hurts "Hey, stop that! Ouch!" "That hurt-r-rts!" (PL2) • it? or ittee (previous panel) and aitata are both exclamatory variations of itai ("something, hurts").
20	Keiko: 突然背中へ飛び乗らないでよー。んもー Totsuzen senaka ni tobimoranai de yō. N mō- suddenly back on (please) don't jump onto (emph.) (exasperation) "Don't jump onto my back all of a sudden like that! Sheesh!" (PL2) • tobimoranai is the negative te form of tobu, from tobu ("fly/leap") and noru ("get onto"). Using the negative te form makes an informal negative request/demand, "(please) don't." • nno (or just mō) is sometimes used as an interjection expressing exasperation/frustration/disgust.
21	Keiko: あ、ごめんなさい。それで景色がどうしたの? A, gomen nasai. Sore de keshiki ga dō shita no? (interr.) (apology) with that/and so scenery (subj.) what/how did (explan.?) "Oh, I'm sorry. So what (were you saying) about a scenic spot?" (PL2)
22	Norio: へ... / ああ N... aa "Yeah... um..."
23	Norio: だから / 今度 Dakara kondo because is so sometime/soon "Like I say, sometime..." • dakara is a conjunction that literally means "for that reason/because it is so" (from da, "is/are" + kara, "because"). In response to another person's statement/question it often means "That's why/what I'm trying to tell you..." or, if one is about to repeat something, "Like I said."
24	Norio: ドライブでも donaribu demo a drive or something "(I wonder if you'd like to go for) a drive or something?" (PL2) Keiko: だめえええっ! Dame-! "No-o-o-o!" (PL2) • dame ("no good/useless/vain/unacceptable") is commonly used by itself as a word of prohibition ("No/You mustn't/You may not").
25	Keiko: そのイスはツメとぎじゃないのよ! Sono isu wa tsume-togi ja nai no yo! that chair as-for claw sharpener is not (explan.) (emph.) "That chair is not a scratching post!" (PL2) Sound FX: タタタタタタ Da da da da da da da (sound of feet pounding on floor as she chases after Michael) • tsume = "claws/fingernails/toenails" and togi is a noun form of togu ("sharpen/hone"), so tsume-togi = "scratching post."
26	Sound FX: タタタタタタ Da da da da da da da (sound of feet pounding on floor as she runs back to phone)

27	Sound FX: ガチャッ Gachai (sound of handset abruptly being picked up again) Keiko: ごめんなさい。それで 何でした っけ? Gomennasai. Sore de nan deshita kke? (apology) and so what was it (recollection) "I'm sorry. So, what were you saying?" (PL2) <ul style="list-style-type: none"> nan is a shortened nani ("what"), and deshita is the past form of desu ("is/are"). kke at the end of a sentence means the speaker is thinking back and trying to recall something. Here she's in effect asking him to repeat what he said, but the kke implies she's also trying to recall it for herself
28	Norio: ああ Aa "Lhh..."
29	Norio: 今度 の 日曜日 Kondo no nichiyoubi- next time s Sunday "Next Sunday—" Keiko: あぶな〜い!! Abuna-i! dangerous "Watch out!" (PL2) * abunai is an adjective for "dangerous," but as an exclamation it means "Watch out!"
30	Sound FX: ダダダダダダ Da da da da da da da (sound of feet pounding on floor as she goes to "rescue" Michael)
31	Sound FX: ダダダダダダ Du da da da da da da (sound of feet pounding on floor as she runs back to phone)
32	Sound FX: ガチャッ Gachai (sound of handset abruptly being picked up again) Keiko: ハアハアハア、ごめんなさい。マイケル ったら テレビ の 上 から 落ちた の よ〜。 Hā hā hā, gomennasai. Maikeru t tara terebi no ue kara ochita no yo (heavy breathing) (apology) (name) (quote) TV of top from fell (explan.) (emph.) "(Breathing hard) I'm sorry. Michael fell from on top of the TV." (PL2) でも ケガ は なかった みた いだ わ。 Demo kega wa nakatta mita da wa. but injury no-for didn't have looks like/appear (item.) "But it doesn't look like he got hurt." (PL2) Norio: そお〜。 Sō "Is that so." (PL2) <ul style="list-style-type: none"> itara is a contraction of to itara, a conditional "if/when" form of to iu ("say"), so it literally means "if I speak of..." In colloquial speech, itara is sometimes used in place of wa to mark the topic, usually with a feeling of disapproval/beratement. no ue = "above/on top of" * ochita is the plain/abrupt past form of ochiru ("fall"). no indicates that she is making an explanation. This explanatory no can literally be thought of as "it is the case that..." but no is used much more frequently than such a phrase would be used in English. In informal situations, the emphatic particle yo by itself can function as desu yo ("is/are/will be" + emph.), especially in female speech. nakatta is the past form of nai ("not have/not exist"). mita da can be used after nouns, adjectives, and verbs to imply "that's the way it looks/seems to be." After a negative, it becomes "doesn't look like... /doesn't seem to be..." wa is a feminine particle for emphasis. そお is a non-standard spelling for そう sō, short for sō desu ka, "Is that so?/I see."
33	Keiko: それで 何でした っけ? Sore de, nan deshita kke? and so what was it (recollection) "So, what was it you were saying?" (PL2) Norio: うん Un "Yeah..." (PL2)

34	Norio: 今度の日曜日!! Kondo no nichiyōbi "Next Sunday!!" (PL2)
35	Norio: ドライブに!! dorību ni a drive to "For a drive!!" (PL2)
36	Norio: 行かない?! ikanai? not go "How would you like to go?!" (PL2) <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • ikanai is the negative form of iku ("go"). Negative questions are often used when making invitations/suggestions. Depending on context, they correspond to English expressions like "Won't you ...?", "Wouldn't you like to ...?", or "Why not/why don't we ...?" • in English, the phrases in these three panels really need to be in a different order: "How would you like?" "To go for a drive!" "Next Sunday!" — each phrase being punctuated with exclamation points to reflect how hard he's trying to get through to Keiko.
37	Michael: ウニャ。 Unya "Meow," (PL2) <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • unya is a less conventional variation on the Japanese "meow", nyā, nyao, and nyan are more common variations.
38	Keiko: ねえ、ねえ、聞こえたー? NE, nē, kikoeta-? hey/hey hey/hey heard "Say, say, did you hear that?" (PL2) Norio: え? ē? "Huh?" (PL2) <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • nē at the beginning of a sentence is used to get the listener's attention, like "say/hey/look here." Doubling it up makes it feel more urgent/pressing. • kikoeta is the plain/abrupt past form of kikoeru ("can hear"). Here she says it with the rising intonation of a question: "Were you able to hear (that)?" → "Did you hear that?"
39	Keiko: 今のがマイケルの声よー!! かawaiiでしょー。 ima no ga mākeru no koe yō!! kawaii desho? now 's (subj.) (name) 's voice (emph.-in) cutel/darling isn't it "That just now was Michael's voice! Isn't it/he cute?" "That was Michael's voice! Doesn't he sound cute?!" (PL2-3) Norio: あ ああ.. はんとだねえ。 A aa... honto da nē. ah eh truth is (emph.) "Uh urr that's really the truth" → "U'h... urr... he certainly does." (PL2) Narration: 彼はだんだん猫が嫌いになってきたのであった。 Kare wa dan dan neko ga kirai ni natte kita no de atta. he as for gradually/increasingly cat (obj.) grow to dislike began to (explan.-way) He had begun to develop an increasing dislike for cats. (PL2) <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • here, ima no = ima no koe = "the voice just now." No is used to modify one noun with another (the first modifies the second), but sometimes the noun being modified can be left understood, and not explicitly stated. Ima no – is often used to refer to something "just seen" or "just heard" moments (or at most a few minutes) ago. • kawaii = kawaii = "cute/darling", desho or deshō literally makes a conjecture but here it would be spoken with the intonation of a question, and essentially solicits agreement/confirmation of what she has said: "isn't it?/don't you think?" • kirai ni natte is the -te form of kirai ni naru, "come/grow to dislike." For kirai, the person who dislikes something is marked with wa, and the object disliked is marked with ga (instead of the usual object marker o). • kita is the plain/abrupt past form of kuru ("come"). A -te form followed by kuru can mean "begins to/begins gradually to (occur)," so kirai ni natte kita is literally "began to grow to dislike" + "began to develop a dislike for." • no is the explanatory no, and de atta is the plain/abrupt past form of de aru, a more formal/"literary" equivalent of da/desu ("is/are"). Using no de atta at the end of a narrative gives it a bit of a heightened literary feel and an additional note of finality.

(continued from page 14)

ratings. "I don't want a depressing show, so I tend to select attractive people capable of expressing themselves on the air," said Hayashi. "If a man is shy and not so handsome but has character, I want him to be on the show. But we don't want people who have no personality or are depressing types. The show has to be enjoyable for the viewers, too."

"Kiss Kiss"

A discussion of Japan's TV mating games would not be complete without a word about TV Asahi's "Kiss Kiss." The show gets its name (and much of its audience) from a unique twist in the final minutes of each segment: the lucky guy or guys get to kiss the girls.

Like "Neruton," the hosts are comedians who try to lighten things up by cracking a few jokes at the expense of the participants. But unlike either of the other two shows, there's no studio and no studio audience. The show is set in a popular bar in Roppongi with typical '90s Tokyo glitz: laser light show, neon logos, plastic tropical plants and the like.

"I want a casual atmosphere where people can relax and meet someone," producer Uemura Shunji told MangaJin. "It's not aimed so much at marriage."

Uemura said shows like his succeed in part because young people, especially men, seem to have trouble expressing themselves around the opposite sex. "They're intimidated by strong women," he said. "The women look good, they might have more education, maybe even a higher income."

An exchange during a recent filming confirms his point. When asked by one young lady how he'd respond if her ex-boyfriend showed up and wanted her back, the hapless soul at the receiving end of her query lamely stammered, "Hanashite wakatte moraimasu (I'd talk to him and get his understanding... I'd try to talk him out of it)." The next fellow wasn't much more convincing. "Nan de mo hutsuyō-na koto wa shimasu (I'd do whatever's necessary)!" he offered.

"They weren't brave enough to tell her it was her problem," laughed Uemura. "They might have told her to solve her personal problems first and then come to this show."

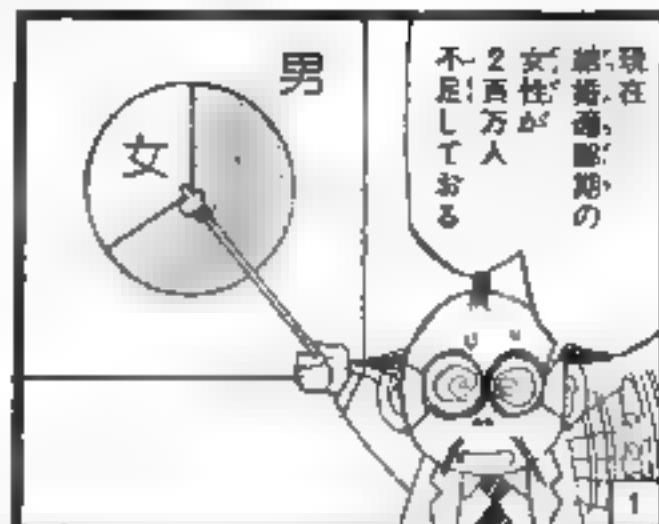

One dental hygienist rang up high marks on the laugh meter after she told a young man who had struck her fancy that she'd like to practice on his mouth. "What would you do if I hurt you?" she asked. Perhaps hoping to impress her with his macho side, he stood firm: "Yorokonde gaman shimasu (I'd gladly endure that)!" came his good-natured reply.

It's guys like that who make this kind of TV show popular.

Kim Eastham is a free-lance writer in Tokyo.

* be intimidated = おどけつく odokerazu • query = 質問 shitsumon • stammered = どもも C しゃべり kuchagoinatte hanasu • dental hygienist = 歯科衛生士 shika elsei gishi • macho side = 男らしさ otokorashisa

図説現代用語便覧 Zusetsu Gendai Yōgo Binran A Visual Glossary of Modern Terms

© Deluxe Company. All rights reserved.
First published in Japan in 1991 by Futabasha, Tokyo.
English translation rights arranged through Futabasha.

1

Professor: 現在 結婚 適齢期 の 女性 が 2百万人 不足している。
 Genzai kekkon tekirei-ki no josei ga nihyakuman-nin fusoku shite-iru.
 currently/at present marriage suitable age of females (subj.) 2 million people are insufficient
 "At present we have a shortage of 2 million women of marriageable age." (PL2)

Chart: 男 女
 Otoko Onna
 Males Females

- tekirei-ki is literally "suitable age period," and kekkon tekirei-ki refers to the age considered "appropriate" for getting married. For men the eligible period is generally thought of as spanning from the upper twenties into the thirties, for women, the lower to mid twenties. It used to be 25, which led unmarried women over 25 to be compared to unsold Christmas cakes after the 25th of December, but the average age for women's first marriages has been rising, and now stands at 26.0 (Inudate 1994).
- fusoku = "insufficiency" and fusoku shite-iru is equivalent to fusoku shite-iru, from fusoku suru ("fall short/be insufficient"). Men in positions of authority/respect often use iru in place of iru.

2

Professor: そこで わし は 女子大生 の クローン 養殖 を 開始した のじゃ
 Soko de washi wa joshudai-sei no kurōn yōshoku o kaishi shita no ja.
 so/accordingly I/me as for female college student(s) of clone breeding/cultivation (obj.) commenced (explan.)
 "Accordingly, I have begun cloning female college students." (PL2)

- soko de is literally "at that place/point," but is used idiomatically for "so/accordingly."
- joshudai-sei can refer to students at women's colleges, but usually means female students at any type of college.
- kurōn is from English "clone," and yōshoku is a noun for "breeding/cultivation" of animals/plants, so the combination kurōn yōshoku = "propagation by cloning" or simply "cloning."
- kaishi shita is the plain/abrupt past form of kaishi suru, a relatively formal word for "begin/commence." No ja (= no da) shows that he is making an explanation.

3

Colleague 1: これ以上 あの バカども を 増やして どうする?
 Kore ijō ano baka-domo o furushite dō suru?
 this more than that/those fools/idiots (plural) (obj.) by increasing what will do?
 "By increasing those fools more than this, what will you do/accomplish?"
 "Why would you want to increase (the population of) those fools beyond what we have already?" (PL2)

Colleague 2: 日本 は 滅びる ぞ!
 Nihon wa horoburu zo!
 Japan as for will come to ruin (emph.)
 "It'll be the ruination of Japan!" (PL2)

- -domo turns nouns referring to people into plurals; it's humble when used to refer to one's own group, but condescending/insulting when used for others, so it fits well with baka ("fools/idiots").
- furushite is the te form of furushu ("cause to increase/multiply").
- zo is a rough, masculine particle for emphasis.

4

Sound FX: バン!
 Ban! (sound of door slamming against wall)

Assistant: 博士、大変です。機械 が 故障して 2百万人 の 女子大生 が
 Hakushi, taihen desu. kikai ga kushō shite nihyakuman-nin no joshudai-sei ga professor/director disastrous is machine (subj.) broke down-and 2 million people 1-1 female college student(s) (subj.)

六本木 方面 に 逃げ出しましたッ!
 Roppongi hōmen ni nigedashimashita-(place name) direction to make a break/run up!

"Professor, it's a disaster! The machine went haywire and 2 million coeds escaped toward Roppongi!" (PL3)

Professor: え?!
 E?! "What?!" (PL2)

Crowd: キャー! ピー! / わかんない。
 Kyā! Pī! / Wakannai-
 (squealing sounds) not know
 "(Squeal, squeal!) / I don't know-o-ow!" (PL2)

Crowd: やっだ! エッチ! / そんなで さ Yadda! Etchi! / Sonde sā... disgusting lewd/indecent so/accordingly you know
 "Yuck! That's nasty! / And so, you know what?..." (PL2)

FX: うじゃうじゃ
 Uja-uja (effect of a swarm of living things in constant motion, especially things small and unpleasant)

- taihen da/desu is used as an exclamation when something troublesome/undesirable/catastrophic has occurred.
- kushō shite is from kushō suru, a verb meaning "break down/go haywire" for mechanical things like cars, household appliances, vending machines, etc.
- Roppongi is an amusement district in Tokyo popular with young college students.
- nigedashimashita is the PL3 past form of nigedasu ("make a break/run away").
- joshudai-sei conversations are known for being punctuated with squeals of various kinds, and the other voices from the crowd are also typical of joshudai-sei chatter. Wakannai, lengthened here to reflect joshudai-sei inflections, is a colloquial contraction of wakaranai ("not know"), from wakaru ("come to know/understand"). Yadda is a colloquial contraction of yada ("is distasteful/disgusting"—see Basic Japanese column in this issue). Etchi = "sleazy/lewd/indecent" and as an exclamation it is an accusation: "That's lewd/nasty!" Sonde is a contracted sonde ("so/and so"), and sā (or so) is a "pause" word used similarly to English "like/you know" and its overuse gives the same kind of impression as the overuse of "y'know."

(continued from page 23)

最初ページ/開始ページ (sasho pēji/kaishi pēji) First Page最後ページ/終了ページ (saigo pēji/shūryō pēji) Last Page用紙 (yōshi) PaperA4/レター/リーガル (ē-von/retā/rigaru) A4/Letter/Legal縮小率 (shukushōritsu) Reduction (Ratio/Percentage)拡大率 (katudairitsu) Enlargement (Ratio/Percentage)フォント代用 (fonto daiyō) Font Substitutionテキストスムージング (tekisuto sumūjingu) Text Smoothingグラフィックススムージング (gurafikkusu sumūjingu) Graphics Smoothing高速ビットマッププリント (kōsoku bittomappu purinto) High Speed Bitmap Printing表紙 (hyōshi) Cover Sheetなし/表/裏 (nashi/omote/ura) None/Front/Back紙送り (kamiokuri) Paper Feedカセット/手差し (kasetto/tezashi) Paper Tray/Hand-feedView(s)/Displayビュー/表示 (byū/hyōji) View(s)/Display操作パレット表示/消去 (sōsa paretto hyōji/shōkyō) Display/Hide Operation Palette文字パレット表示/消去 (moji paretto hyōji/shōkyō) Display/Hide Character Paletteツールバー (tsūru bā) Toolbarルーラ (rūra) Rulerルーラ表示 (rūra hyōji) Show Ruler横の/水準スクロールバー (yoko no/suijun sukurōru bā) Horizontal Scrollbar縦の/垂直スクロールバー (tate no/suichoku sukurōru bā) Vertical Scrollbar改行 (表示) (kaigyō [hyōji]) (Show) Carriage Returns禁則 (kinsoku) Japanese Hyphenation—The set of rules an application uses to determine how to break (Japanese) lines of text in logical places.Toolsツール (tsūru) Tools英和辞典 (eiwa jiten) English-Japanese Dictionaryシソーラス (shisorasu) Thesaurus類語辞書 (rugyo jisho) Thesaurusソート (sōto) Sort日付 (hizuke) Date日付フォーマット (hizuke fōmatto) Date Format自動ハイフン (jidō haifun) Automatic Hyphenation範囲保護 (han'i hogo) Block Protectブロック保護 (burokku hogo) Block ProtectLayoutレイアウト (reiauto) Layout文字 (moji) Character行 (gyō) Lineコラム (koramu) Columnヘッダ/フッタ (hedda/futta) Header/Footer脚注 (kyakuchū) Footnotes

(continued on page 60)

図説現代用語便覧*Zusetsu Gendai Yōgo BinranA Visual Glossary of Modern Terms

© Deluxe Company. All rights reserved.
First published in Japan in 1993 by Futabasha, Tokyo.
English translation rights arranged through Futabasha.

1

Sign: 上映中 ブノラ vs キングギドラ
Jōei-chū Gojira bu-esu Kingu Gidora
 now showing (name) vs. (name)
Now Showing: Godzilla vs. King Ghidra

Woman: 感動した わ わー
Kandō shita wa nē
 was moved/affected (fem.) (colloq.)
"That was moving, wasn't it?" (PL2)

Man: じゃ、 次、 どこ に行こう か?
Ja, tsugi, doko ni ikō ka?
 then/in that case next where to shall go ?
"Well then, where shall we go next?" (PL2)

- jōei is an action noun referring to the showing of a film. The suffix -chū implies the action is "now in progress/on-going."
- English "vs." is widely used on posters in place of its Japanese equivalent vs. tai.
- kandō shita is the plain/abrupt past of kandō suru, "to be moved/affected", kandō shita serves as an exclamation, "I was so moved/that was so moving!"
- ne typically means the speaker wants agreement/confirmation: here she isn't asking him to confirm her feelings but rather to "agree" that he felt the same way
- yo is a short form of the conjunctive sure jō (lit. "if it is that" + "then/in that case"), seen below
- iko is the volitional (let's/we shall) form of iku ("go").

2

Woman: 次に どこ に行く かぐらい 調べて 決めておいて よ Tsugi ni doko ni iku ka gurai shirabete kimete oite yo next where to will go (?) at least investigate/research-and (please) decide ahead (emph.)

"Where we will go next, at least. (please) research and decide ahead"

"The least you could do is plan ahead and know where we're going next!" (PL2)

Woman: それ が テートの マナー って いう もの よ!
Sore ga tēto no manā tte iu mono yo!
 that (subj.) date of manners/etiquette (quote) say/all thing (emph. ex.)

"That's what you call dating etiquette." (PL2)

Man: こ、ごめん
Go-gomen. am sorry
"So-sorry." (PL2)

- gurai after numbers/amounts usually means "approximately/about," but it can also occur with actions to mean "do at least that much"
- shirabete is from shiraberu ("to research"). kimete from kimeru ("decide"), and oite from oku ("exit/leave"). Shirabete kimeru describes a compound action. "Research and decide. Oku after the te form of another verb implies doing the action ahead of time, the te form of oku is used here as an abrupt demand.
- tte iu mono yo is a quotative form, literally meaning "is a thing called" the expression is used idiomatically to imply something is "standard/common sense/a matter of course"

3

Narration: 1週間後
Isshūkan-go
 One week later

Man: それじゃあ、このあと / 青山 の 「エル・テウラ」 で イタリア を 食って、
Sore ja, kono ato Aoyama no "Eru Tōru" de Ito-meshi o kutte in that case/then after this (place name) in (restaurant name) at Italian food (obj.) eat and 「ブルーノート」 で 本物の ジャズ を 堪能、
"Burū Nōto" de honmono no jazu o tannō.
 (club name) at genuine jazz (obj.) enjoy to the full しめ は、そうだなあ、西麻布 の 「レッド・シューズ」 あたり で どうだい?

shime wa, sō da nā. Nishi-Azabu no "Reddō Shūzu" atari de dō dai?
 wrap up as-for let's see (place name) in (latter name) for example with how is it/how would it be?

"Well, then, how about if after this we have some Italian food at the Eru Tōru in Aoyama, then enjoy some live jazz at the Blue Note, and finally wrap things up at, let's see, someplace like the Red Shoes in Nishi-Azabu?" (PL2)

Magazine: T ウォーカー
Tū Wōka
 T Walker

- ito- is short for Italia "Italy/Italian," and meshi = "(cooked) rice/meat." Ito-meshi is a slang equivalent of Itaria ryōri "Italian food/cuisine." Kutte is the te form of kuru, an informal, mostly masculine word for "eat."
- tannō here implies tannō shi, a continuing form of tannō suru "to satisfy oneself fully/take one's fill of"
- shime is a noun form of shimeru ("tie up" or "finish/close/wrap up").
- atari can refer to a general geographical area/neighborhood, but here is used like "for instance/for example"
- asking a question with da or dai is generally restricted to males in very informal situations
- there is a well-known magazine called Tokyo Walker (the magazine is in Japanese, but the title is in English) which gives information about shows, events, restaurants, etc. in Tokyo.

4

Woman: あなた って 情報誌 そのまま の つまらない マニュアル 男 ね。
Anata tte jōhō-shi sono mama no tsunaranai manyuaru otoko ne.
 you (quote)/as-for information magazine as is (=) dull/boring manual/readbook man (colloq.)

"You're just a dull 'manual-man,' aren't you, doing everything the guide magazines say." (PL2)

Sound FX: フッ
Fu!
 (stuff/sport of disdain)

Man: くっ... 女 って...
Ku! Onna tte
 (sighing FX) woman (quote)
"(Sob.) women...!" (PL2)

- jōhō = "information" and shi refers to "magazines," so a jōhō-shi is an "information magazine" a generic term for magazines that list arts & entertainment happenings/hot spots.
- sono mama means "(leave something) as is," so jōhō-shi sono mama implies he doesn't add any of his own ideas to what the magazines suggest.
- manyuaru otoko implies a man who consults manuals/how-to books for everything

枠組み (wakurumi) Border

左右インデント (soryū indento) Left and Right Indent

アイコンの再配置 (aiikon no sathaiichi) Arrange Icons/Clean up Window

登録とグループの作成 (tōroku to gurūpu no sakusei) New Group or Item

(continued on page 62)

60 MANGAJIN

1

Man: ぜひ 結婚 してほしい。見てのとおり、私 は 3高 です
 Zehu kekkon shite hoshii. Mite no tōri, watashi wa sankō desu.
 by all means marriage want you to do as you can see I am as-for three highs am

"I want you to please marry me. As you can see, I am (a man of) the three highs." (PL2; PL3)

Woman: キー、する、する... とか言って。

Kyā, suru, suru... to ka itte.
 (squeal) will do will do (quote)

"Aaaa! I will! I will... she says (audaciously)." (PL2)

- kekkon = "marriage" and kekkon shite is the te form of kekkon suru ("get married"). Hoshii after a -te form means the speaker wants the action to take place; here kekkon shite hoshii implies "I want you to get married to me."
- mite is the te form of miru ("look at/see"), and no tōri makes an expression meaning "exactly as," so mite no tōri is "as (you/anyone) see(s)" → "as you/anyone can see."
- sankō is literally "the three highs," referring to the traits Japanese women are said to seek most in a prospective mate: physical height, high academic background (i.e., graduate of top-ranked university), and high income
- to ka itte tacked on after a statement implies the statement is not true or the speaker is not serious about it. The phrase is frequently used when the speaker thinks he/she may have spoken too forwardly/daringly, and wants to defuse any negative impression this may have created. It parallels to a degree the way some English speakers have of jokingly providing quotative commentary for their own statements.

2

Man: ただ、ひとつ 条件 か
 Tada, hitotsu jōken ga
 but/except one condition (obj.)

"But I have one condition..." (PL2)

Woman: (to J.) は いや よし
 Dōkyo wa iya yōshi
 living together as-for disagreeable/ refuse (emph.)

"I refuse to live with your parents!" (PL2)

- aru ("I have") is implied at the end of his sentence
- dōkyo is a noun referring to "living together," and wa is literally "unpleasant/disagreeable." Iya as an exclamation or in the simple sentence iya dodesu often means "No! I won't/I refuse." She's not saying she doesn't want to live with her husband even after they get married, but rather that she doesn't want to move in/live with his parents. A son, most typically the eldest, is traditionally expected to remain in the ancestral home and take care of his parents in their old age.
- in informal situations, the emphatic particle yō by itself can function as desu yo ("is/are/will be" + emph.), especially in female speech. iya yō = iya desu yo.

3

Man: いや、そうじゃなくて
 Iya, sō ja nakute
 no that way it is not

"No, it's not that..." (PL2)

• another use of iya is for "no."

Woman: 子供 は 当分 いらないし、新居 は 23区以内 の 白い マンション じゃなきゃ
 Kodomo wa tōbun iranai shi, shinkyō wa nijūsan-ku no nai no shiroi manshon ja nakya iya!! children as-for for now not need and new home as-for the 23 wards within (=) white apartment/condo has to be
 "I don't want any children for a while, and our new home has to be a white condominium within the 23-ward area (of Tokyo)." (PL2)

週 に 度 は あたり で 外食 したいし、あなたが 浮気 したら 私 も する わ。
 Shū ni tabi wa futari de gaishoku shitai shi, anata ga uwaki shitara watashi mo suru wa.
 week per one time as-for 2 people/couple as want to eat out and you (obj.) affair if do/have I/me also will do/have (emph.)
 "I want us to go out to eat (as a couple) at least once a week, and if you have an affair, I'll have one, too." (PL2)

それから、ネーと

Sorekara, nē to and/and then let's see

"And let's see, what else..." (PL2)

- tōbun refers to an indefinite period of time: "a while/quite a while."
- nijūsan-ku refers to the 23 wards of Tokyo City proper. She means she does not want to live in a more distant suburb in the larger Tokyo Prefecture or a neighboring prefecture.

- manshon, from English "mansion," refers to a high-class apartment house or condominium in Japanese
- ja nakya is a contraction of ja nakute wa (or de wa nakute wa), meaning "if it is not"; ja nakya iya is literally "it's disagreeable/unacceptable if it is not..." → "it has to be..."
- the particle wa after a number/quantity often has the emphatic meaning of "at least"
- gaishoku is a noun for "eating out," and shitai is the "want to" form of suru ("do"); gaishoku shitai = "want to eat out."
- uwaki shitara is a conditional "if/when" form of uwaki (o) suru ("have an affair").

4

Man: 亭主 関白 に したい んだ。
 Teishū kanpaku ni shitai nda.
 husband regent/rue to want to make it (emph.)

"I get to wear the pants in the family." (PL2)

Woman: えっ? ま、まあ、それくらい は
 E? Ma, mā, sore kurai wa huhh?/what? we well that about/only as-for

"Huhh? We, well, if that's all..." (PL2)

Arrow: よく わからない。
 Yoku wakaranai.
 well/clearly/really not understand

"Doesn't really understand." (PL2)

- teishū, lit. "master of the establishment," is an informal word for "husband," and kanpaku refers to the Emperor's regent/chief advisor who in many periods of Japanese history was the true locus of power at the imperial court. Teishū kanpaku refers to a husband who actively exercises his authority in the family instead of simply letting his wife take charge of domestic matters. 母大い kakō denka ("mother's reign") is the opposing term, for when the wife "wears the pants" in the family.

- ...ni shitai is the "want to" form of ...ni suru ("make it").
- kurai literally means "about/approximately," but it can be used to downplay what comes before it: sore kurai = "only/merely that" → "if it's only that/if that's all."

(continued from page 60)

アイコンの自動整列 (aikon no jūdō seiretsu) Auto Arrange 未使用時にアイコン化 (mishiyōji ni aikō-ka) Minimize On Use 終了時の状態を保存 (shuryōji no jōtai o hozon) Save Settings On Close

Help

ヘルプ (herupu) Help
目次 (mekaji) Contents
キーワードで検索 (kiwādo de kensaku) Search For Help On ヘルプの使い方 (herupu no tsukai-kata) How To Use Help
バージョン情報 (bājon jōhō) Version Information

Warnings and Error Messages

エラー：メモリ不足 (Erā: memori busoku) Error: Out of memory

この文書は変更されています。現在の変更内容を保存しますか？ (Kono bunsho wa henkō sarete-imasu. Genzai no henkō naiyō o hozon shimasu ka.) This file has been changed. Save Changes?

このファイルはすでに存在します。上書きしますか？ (Kono fairu wa sude ni sonzai shimasu. Uwagaku shimasu ka?) This file already exists. Overwrite? (an answer of YES [はい] would erase the existing file)

0では割り算できません (Zero de wa warizan dekimasen.) Cannot divide by zero.

デバイスドライバが組み込まれていません。コントロールパネルの[ドライバ]コマンドを供んで、組み込んでください。
(Debaisu doraiiba ga kumikomarete-imasen. Kontorōru paneru no [doriiba] komando o erunde, kumikonde kudasai.) Device Driver is not loaded. Please load it by selecting it with the Control Panel's [Driver's] command.

Microsoft Windows ディスク# または更新された ファイルがあるフロッピーディスクを挿入してください
(Microsoft Windows disuku # mata wa kōshin sareta fairu ga aru furōppī disuku o sōnyū shite kudasai.)

Please insert Microsoft Windows disk # or disk containing file

システム エラー 読み込めません：ドライブ A。キャンセル/再試行 (Shisutemu erā Yomi-dasemasen: doraiibu A. Kanseru/saishikō)
System Error Cannot Read from Drive A. Cancel/Retry

ファイル が見つかりません パスおよびファイル名を確認してください。

(Fairu ga mitsukarimasen. Pasu obohi fairu-me o kakurin shite kudasai.) Cannot find file . Please check filename and path.

選択されたファイルは無効な <program name> ファイル。新しいファイルを作成するか、拡張子か のファイルを開いてください。
(Senjaku sareta fairu wa mukō-na <program name> fairu. Atarashii fairu o sakusei suru ka, kakuchōryō ga . no fairu o hiraite kudasai.) The selected file is not a <program name> file. Create a new file or open a file with a . extension.

Douglas Horn is a free-lance writer and computer consultant living in Seattle, Washington.

図説現代用語便覧 Zusetsu Gendai Yōgo Binran A Visual Glossary of Modern Terms

© Deluxe Company. All rights reserved.
First published in Japan in 1993 by Futabasha, Tokyo.
English translation rights arranged through Futabasha.

1

Man: ね、指サイズはいくつ?
Ne, yubi saizu wa ikutsu?
 say/look, finger size as-for how many/what number
 "Say, what's your finger (ring) size?" (PL2)

Woman: えっ?! 11号よ。
Ei? Jūichigō yo.
 what?/huh? No. 11 (emph.)
 "Huh? (Oh, it's) 11." (PL2)

• the word for ring is yubiwa, so it would be possible to be more specific and ask Yubiwa no saizu wa ikutsu?, ("What's your ring size?"), but it's more conventional to just ask about a person's yubi saizu.

- ne or ne? at the beginning of a sentence is used to get the listener's attention, like "say/hey/look here"
- ikutsu = "how many/what number" (cf. ikura = "how many/how much.")
- gō comes after numbers to give the meaning "No. x."
- in informal situations, the emphatic particle yo by itself can function as desu yo ("is/are/will be" + emph.), especially in female speech.

2

Man: 今度会うときキミに受け取ってほしいプレゼントがあるんだ。
Kondo au toki kimi ni uketotte hoshii purezento ga aru n da next time meet time you to/by want [you] to accept present (subj.) exists/have (explan.)
 "There's a present I want you to accept the next time we meet."
 "There's something I want to give you the next time I see you." (PL2)

Woman: まあ、うれしいわ、イクオさん。 Mā, ureshii wa, Ikuo-san.
 (interj.) happy/pleased (fem.) (name-hon.)
 "Oh, I'm so happy, Ikuo." (PL2)

- kondo au is a complete thought/sentence ("[we] meet next time") modifying toki ("time"), so kondo au toki is literally "the time when we meet next time" → "next time I see you."
- uketotte is the te form of uketoru ("receive/accept"), and hoshii after the te form of a verb means "(I) want you/someone to (do the action)."
- kondo au toki kimi ni uketotte hoshii is a complete sentence ("I want you to accept [it] the next time we meet") modifying purezento (from English "present").
- ma is commonly used as an interjection of surprise by women. Though both men and women can use mā as a "softener" or "verbal warm-up/pause," men sound effeminate when they use the word to express surprise.

3

Woman: お星さま、彼がようやく私との結婚を決意してくれました。
Ohoshi-sama, kare ga yōyaku watashi to no kekkon o ketsui shite kuremashita.
 (hon.)-stars-(hon.) he/his friend (subj.) finally time with of marriage (obj.) has decided for me
 "Oh, (wonderful) stars, my boyfriend has finally made up his mind to marry me." (PL3)

- kare is a pronoun for "he/him," but it's also used colloquially as a common noun meaning "boyfriend"
- ketsui shite is the te form of ketsui suru, meaning "decide/make up one's mind," and kuremashita is the PL3 past form of kureru ("give [to me]"). Kureru after a te form implies that an action done by someone else benefits/fulfills the wish of the speaker or subject.

4

Man: 指は11号だったよね、はい、プレゼントのマイボール。
Yubi wa jūichigō datta yo ne. Hai, purezento no mai bōru.
 finger(s) as-for No. 11 was (emph.) (colloq.) here present (=) my-ball/personal ball
 "Your finger/ring (size) was No. 11, right? Here Your present, which is a personal bowling ball."
 "Your size was 11, right? Here, I got you your own personal bowling ball." (PL2)

いっしょにボーリングしようよ。
Issho ni bōringu shiyō yo.
 together bowling let's do (emph.)
 "Let's bowl together." (PL2)

Sound FX: しゅ しゅ
Shū shū
 (effect of soft sobbing)

Man: そんなにうれしいのかい?
Sonna-ni ureshii no kai?
 that much happy/pleased (explan.-?)
 "Does it make you that happy?" (PL2)

- datta is the past form of da, the plain/abrupt equivalent of desu ("is/are").
- hai is often used the way English speakers say "Here/Here you go/There you are" when handing/giving something to another person, or when performing a service for them.
- mai, a katakana rendering of English "my," is frequently set before another imported word to indicate a private/personally owned possession, so mai bōru is "my ball" → "a personal ball." Cf. mai hōmu = "an owner occupied home," and mai kā = "a privately owned car." The mai part stays the same even when referring to someone else's personal possession: it's a ball for his girlfriend, but he still calls it a mai bōru ("my ball").
- bōringu is the katakana rendering of English "bowling," and bōringu shiyō is the volitional ("let's") form of the verb bōringu suru ("to bowl").
- kai is a colloquial ka, for questions, but with a softer, friendlier tone.

A Visual Glossary of Modern Terms

© Deluxe Company. All rights reserved.
First published in Japan in 1993 by Futabasha, Tokyo.
English translation rights arranged through Futabasha.

1

Man: ええ、結婚 しない?
Nē kēkō shinaī?
say/look, marriage (why) not do?
"Say, why don't we get married?" (PL2)

Woman: よして よ。私 は..
Yoshite wa. Watashi wa..
(please) quit/stop (emph.) I/me as-for
"Oh, stop that. I'm .." (PL2)

- shinaī is the negative form of suru ("do"). Negative questions are often used when making invitations/suggestions. Depending on context, they correspond to English expressions like "Won't you (have/come/try/etc.)?", "Wouldn't you like (to) ...?", or "Why not/why don't you ...?" Since he's asking if she won't get married with him, it becomes "why don't we get married?"
- yoshite is the -te form of yosu ("quit/st. p/discontinue").

2

Woman: 無理め の 女 よ muri-me no onna yo impossible/unreasonable (-) woman (emph.)
"...an impossible woman." (PL2)

Man: それならオレは 3高 のヤングだぜ
Sore nara ore wa sankō no yāngū da ze that if it is I/me as-for 3 high (=) young exec am (emph.)
"Well, I'm a young executive with the three highs." (PL2)

- muri-me is from muri ("impossible/unreasonable") and muri-me no onna refers to a woman for whom marriage is "impossible" because she's unreasonably demanding.
- sankō is literally "the three highs," referring to the traits Japanese women are said to seek most in a prospective mate: tall physical height, high academic background (i.e., graduate of top-ranked university), and high income.
- yāngū is an abbreviation of the cumbersome yūngū egurekudōbu, from English "young executive."

3

Man: だったら赤坂の教会で 人 を 挙げて..
Dattara Akasaka no kyōkai de hito o ugete.. if/when (since name) in church of ceremony (obj.) hold/have-and
"So we could have the ceremony at a church in Akasaka .."

Woman: ウェディングケーキは 手作り にして.. uedingu kēki wa tezukuri ni shite.. wedding cake as-for hand-made make it-and
"...with a made-from-scratch wedding cake, and ..."

- Akasaka is an upscale part of Tokyo, and although only around 1% of Japanese people are Christians, church weddings are considered fashionable.
- shiki here refers to kekkō shiki ("wedding ceremony"), and the standard verb for "holding/conducting" a wedding ceremony is ageru, here in the -te form. The -te form leaves his sentence open-ended, and she continues it for him.
- ... ni shite is the -te form (implying her sentence will continue) of ... ni suru, which means "make it .." in the sense of making a choice: "we'll make our wedding cake a made-from-scratch one."

4

Woman: 成田 離婚 ね
Narita rikon ne
(airport name) div.orce (colloq.)
"... (get) a Narita divorce." (PL2)

Man: それだ!
Sore da! that is/are
"That's it!" (PL2)

Sound FX: パキッ
Paki!
Snap! (a snap of his fingers)

- there have been apparently been real cases in which couples got divorced as soon as they got back from their honeymoons, giving rise to the term Narita rikon ("Narita divorce") after the name of Tokyo's international airport.

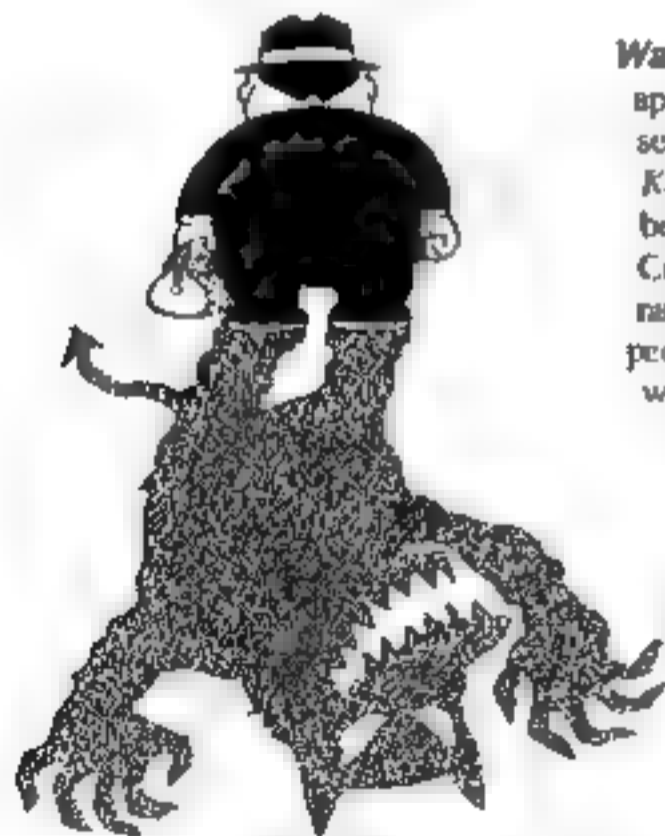

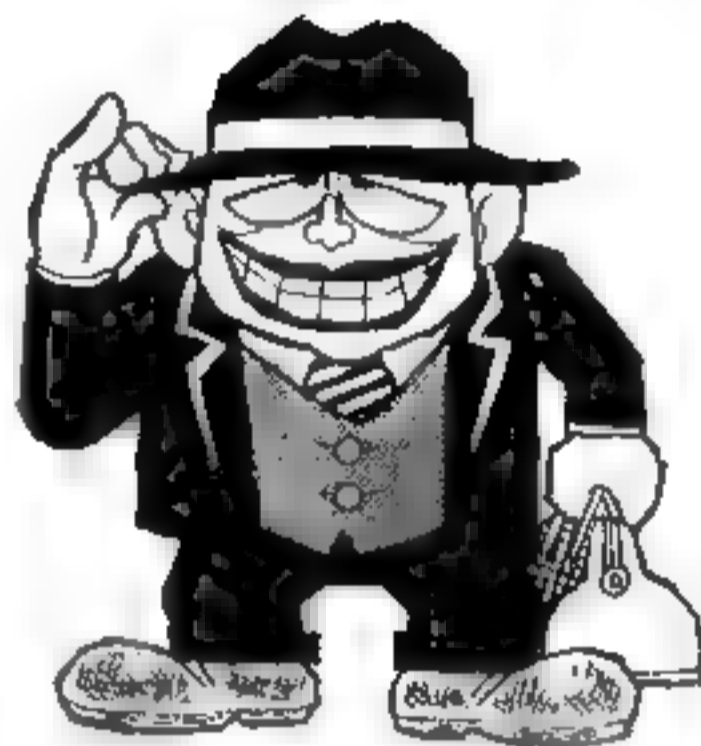

笑世えるすまん

Warau Sērusementan

by 藤子不二雄 (A)
Fujiko Fujio (A)

Fujiko Fujio is the pen name of a now defunct duo of manga artists who share the credit for a string of hit titles. During their 35 year partnership, Fujimoto Hiroshi and Abiko Motō created such manga masterworks as ドラえもん (Doraemon, featuring a blue robot cat from the future), オバケのQ太郎 (Obake no Q Taro, "Q-Taro the ghost"), and 忍者ハットリくん (Ninja Hattori-kun, "Hattori-kun the Ninja").

The two artists first drew manga together while still in elementary school, and shortly after high school graduation, they were drawing manga professionally. They gradually achieved success in the world of manga, working together until 1988. They originally worked on stories as a team, but later began to do separate titles, eventually dissolving the partnership because their styles had become separate and distinct. They maintained some of their former identity by adopting the pen names "Fujiko Fujio (A)" (Abiko), and "Fujiko F. Fujio" (Fujimoto). Their individual works have also been quite successful.

Warau Sērusementan ("[The] Laughing Salesman") first appeared in 1969 and apparently struck some kind of responsive chord with the Japanese public. It was serialized in Manga Sunday for a number of years, and is now featured in Chūō Kōron, one of Japan's most respected monthly magazines. An animated version has been popular on TV.

Created by Fujiko Fujio (A), the stories feature a lecherously grinning "salesman" named Moguro Fukuzō who, under the guise of being helpful and sympathetic, sets people up for failure and disappointment. Sometimes he simply grants a person's wish, with consequences they hadn't anticipated, but sometimes his tactics seem outright malicious. Either way, the people Moguro "helps" were better off before they met him.

For example, one episode involves a young man who "falls in love" with a woman he sees on the train every morning. The woman always has a mask over her nose and mouth (not unusual in the cold, flu season), but seems to be very attractive. Moguro arranges a meeting on the condition that the man is sure he really loves her. The woman comes to the man's apartment, and after he says he's willing to marry her because he can see the beauty of her soul, she takes off her mask — and then her false face. Her real face is hideous due to a botched cosmetic surgery attempt. The man lets out a scream, and Moguro, standing outside, comments that love should be able to compensate for such a small flaw.

© Fujiko Fujio (A)
All rights reserved. First published in Japan in 1969 by Chūō Kōronsha, Tōkyō. English translation rights arranged through Chūō Kōronsha.

(continued on page 68)

- 1 Sign:
(Ue)da Shōji
Ueda Enterprises
- 2 Sound FX:
Kari kari kari
(slight scratching sound of pen tip as he writes)
- Narration:
Aoi Tatsuo (Nijūni-sai) Dokushin Salariman
Aoi Tatsuo (Age 22) Unmarried Salaryman

- 3 Sound FX:
Ji ri ri ri
Brrinnagg (sound of quitting bell going off)
- 4 Salaryman 1:
Sā, owatta, owatta.
"Awright! We're finished, we're finished!" (PL2)
- Salaryman 2:
Oo, kore tsukae vo na.
"Hey, come along for some of this, won't you?"
"Hey, I can count you in for some mahjong, right?" (PL2)
- Salaryman 3:
Ore, kyō dame da ze
"I can't make it today." (PL2)

- the gesture Salaryman 2 is making — hands raised in front of him with fingers and thumb pointing down — represents the motion of stacking mahjong tiles.

- 5 Salaryman 3:
Keko-chan to eiga iku n da mon nē
"Keiko and I are going to a movie, aren't we?" (PL2)
- Keiko:
Nē
"That's right." (PL2)
- Salaryman 4:
Che! Soja menbā tarinē ja nai ka.
"Dang! In that case, we're short on members."
"Dang! That means we don't have a four-stone." (PL2)

- soja is a contraction of sore ja or sore de wa, literally, "if it is that" → "in that case/that means."
- tarinē is a masculine slang version of tarinai ("is insufficient"). The vowel combination ai changes to ē or ei in certain dialects and masculine slang.

- 6 Aoi:
A- ano... / boku de yokattara
"U- ubh... If I would do..." (PL2)

- Sound FX:
Pa!
(effect of sudden, quick action)

- de yokattara is a past conditional ("if") form of de ii, an expression meaning "is enough/adequate/acceptable." Boku de yokattara is essentially a humble way of volunteering one's services.
- Japanese people customarily point toward their nose (or sometimes just in the general direction of their face) rather than their heart when indicating themselves.

- 1 Salaryman 1:
Ai! Ii yo, ii yo! Dare ka sagasu kara.
"Oh, that's okay, that's okay. (Because) we'll find someone." (PL2)

Aoi:
Sō
"Oh." (PL2)

- ii = "good/fine/okay," and can be used like English "That's okay" to mean "Never mind/no thanks."

- 8 OL:
Ne-e, kore nara atashi tsukau wa yo!
"Hey, I'll come along if it's for this [drinking]." (PL2)

Salaryman 1:
Yoi! Ta-nomoshu! Ta-nomoshu!
"Aha! That's promising. That's promising."
"Hey! Sounds great! Sounds great!" (PL2)

- a tipping motion with thumb and forefinger extended as though holding a small sake cup refers to drinking (alcoholic beverages).

- 1 Salaryman 1:
Rettsu gō!
 "Let's go!" (PL2)

Sound FX:

War wai

(the general clamor/commotion of a group of people)

- rettsu gō is the katakana rendering of English "Let's go."
- since wai wai is in a balloon, it might appear to be a line spoken by one individual, but this is as unlikely as someone saying "clamor, clamor."

- 2 "Sound" FX:
Shun
 (effect of silence)

- 3 FX:
Kuku
 (effect of feeling disappointed/let down)

- 4 Boss:
A! Aoi-kun, shigoto ga nai nara sassa-to kaeritamae yo!
 "Oh! Aoi, if you don't have any work to do, hurry up and go home." (PL2)

Aoi:

Hai.

"Yes sir." (PL3)

- -kun is a more familiar equivalent of -san ("Mr./Ms."). Bosses/superiors typically address their subordinates using -kun.
- nai = "not have/exist" and nara is a conditional "if," so nai nara = "if (you) don't have."
- sassa-to = "immediately/quickly/without delay."
- kaeri is from kaeru ("go home"), and -tamae makes a strong/authoritarian command. Yo adds emphasis.

- 5 Boss:
Muda-na zangyō teate ga fuete komattoru n da kara.
 "Because wasteful overtime pay has increased and caused problems."
 "(Because) we've been struggling with increases in wasteful overtime costs." (PL2)

- muda = "waste/wastefulness" and muda na = "wasteful."
- zangyō (literally "remaining work") is the word for "overtime," and teate = "pay/compensation."
- fuete is the -te form of fueru ("increase"). Here the -te form indicates the cause of what follows: the increase is the cause of the difficulties/problems/struggles.
- komattoru is a colloquial contraction of komatte-iru ("be in a bind/trouble") from komaru ("get into a bind/difficulties").
- n da kara = "because"; in strict construction, the cause/reason is stated before the result/effect (zangyō teate ga fuete komattoru n da kara sassa-to kaeritamae), but in informal speech reasons/causes are often tacked on afterwards.

- 6 Sign:
Shinjuku / Shinjuku / Yoyogi
 (Names of stations on the Yamanote train loop in Tokyo, Shinjuku being the current stop) © Fujiko-Fujio, (A) All rights reserved.

 First published in Japan in 1969 by Chūō Kōronsha, Tokyo
 English translation rights arranged through Chūō Kōronsha

(continued from page 65)

In another story, a man desperately wants to play golf at the country club near his home, but can't afford a membership. Moguro gives him a free "special" membership, good once a month, but tells him that he's not allowed to invite anyone along with him to play, ever. The man enjoys his golf privileges and the club staff treats him well, but finally he can't resist inviting his boss for a round. As the two are playing, the club's bouncers suddenly fail to recognize them as members, and beat them up for sneaking in to play for free.

Most of the stories either feature salarymen, or deal with problems and frustrations that salarymen can identify with. The theme of the series, if there is one, seems to be that people should be satisfied with their present situation, and not try to better their lot.

- 1 Singer:
Anata hitori ne...
 "You're alone, aren't you?"
 "You look like you're alone." (PL2)

Atashi mo hitori...
 "(Well,) I'm also alone." (PL2)

- wa, to mark the topic, has been omitted after anata ("you").
- hitori, the counter for "one person," is also used to mean "unaccompanied/single/alone." The counter sequence for counting people begins irregularly with hitori and futari, then becomes regular: sannin, yonnin, gonin, etc.
- ne by itself often replaces desu ne ("is, isn't it/are, aren't you?"), especially in feminine speech.
- atashi is a variation of watashi ("I/me"), used mostly by female speakers.

- 2 FX:
Boso boso
 (effect of picking at food unenthusiastically)
- boso boso is an FX word meaning "dry and tasteless," usually describing the nature of the food itself, but here it refers more to how the food seems to the depressed Aoi, or to the lack of enthusiasm with which he's eating.

- 3 Aoi:
A, ima goro munna wa...
 "Ahh, about now everyone (else) is..." (PL2)
- ima = "now," and goro = "about/approximately" when speaking of time (cf. kurai/gurai for other approximate numbers/amounts).

- 4 Aoi:
Sore ni hikikae boku wa...
 "And in contrast to that I'm..." (PL2)
- ... ni hikikae(re) is an expression for "in contrast to..." from hikikaeru ("to change/exchange").

- 5 Aoi:
Amari-ni mo kawausō!
 "It's just too pathetic!" (PL2)
- amari-ni = "too much/excessively," and mo adds emphasis, so amari ni mo = "all too much/just too much."
 - kawausō = "pitiful/pathetic/wretched"

Sound FX:
Doda
Thud (effect of collapsing/falling to floor)

- 1 Aoi:
Boku dake ga boku dake ga
 "Only I... only I..."
 "Why... why am I..."

- 2 Ani:
dō shite hitoripochi na no darō?
 "why am I all alone, I wonder?"
 "... the only one who's left all alone?"
 (PL2)

Maki:
Anata ni hi-karete ...
 "To you I was drawn, and ..." (PL2)

FX:
Mura mura mura
 (effect of passionate emotion rising up within)

- dō shite = naze = "why"
- hitoripochi/hitoribitchi is a colloquial word for "all alone" that carries a particular feeling of desolation/being forsaken, typically from being left/rejected by others
- the question particle ka is often omitted when the sentence already contains a question word
- his sentence continues from the previous panel, and differences in word order between Japanese and English require the parts to be divided somewhat differently to get the same choked up effect in English as in Japanese
- hikarete is the -te form of hikareru ("be drawn/attracted to"), the passive form of hiku ("draw/pull/attract")

- 3 Ani:
Aa! Maki-san! Boku no koibito ru natte-"Ahh, Maki. Won't you be my love?"
 (PL2)

Sound FX:
Bitu-n
 Whump (effect of flat objects striking face to face)

- koibito, literally "love person," can refer to a "love interest" of either sex: "boyfriend/girlfriend/kiver"
- natte is the -te form of naru ("become"), the te form here being using as a request/plea. The particle ni marks the result of the "becoming." X ni naru = "become X."

- 4 Sound FX:
Chu!
 Smack (effect of kiss)

- 5 FX:
Pa!
 (effect of sudden change of image on screen)

- 6 Sound FX:
Dosu-!
 Thud (effect of falling to floor/tatami)

- 7 Voices:
Gomen kudasai!
 "Hello!" (PL3)

"Sound" FX:
Doku
 Ka-thump (effect of heart skipping a beat from being startled/frightened)

- gomen kudasai (lit. "please pardon") was traditionally used to get a home occupant's or shopkeeper's attention when arriving/entering. The advent of doorbells and constantly monitored shops have reduced the occasions for using this phrase, but it's still heard.

- 1 Visitor:
Watashi wa kō shi mono desu.
 "I am this kind of person."
 "Here's my card." (PL3)

Card:
Kokoro no sukima ... o-ume shimasu
 I fill the emptiness in people's hearts (PL4)

Moguro Fukuzō
 Moguro Fukuzō (name)

- sukima refers to a "crack/opening" in a fence/wall/window/etc. Using the word with kokoro ("heart") is figurative. The particle o, to mark sukima as the object of the verb, has been omitted.
- o-ume shimasu is a PL4 form of umeru ("fill up").
- Moguro is written with kanji meaning "mourning" and "black," while the kanji for Fukuzō mean "happiness" and "make/create."

- 2 Moguro:
Na-nan desu ka — kokoro no sukima o umeru to wa?
 "What do you mean — you fill the emptiness in people's hearts?" (PL3)

Moguro:
Mō, kantan-ni ieba tomodachi-ya desu.
 "Well, to put it simply, I'm a 'friend agent'." (PL3)

- kantan ni ("simply") is an adverb modifying ieba, a conditional "if" form of iu ("say").
- -ya is added to the names of various commodities to indicate a shop/tradesman dealing in that commodity. Though tomodachi ya ("friend maker/agent/merchant") is not a normal occupation, the meaning is immediately obvious.

- 3 Moguro:
Takai biru ga don-don tatsu no ru hiri shite, kodoku na hitobito mo don-don fuete-omimasu.
 "In direct proportion to the tall buildings going up in rapid succession, the number of lonely people is also rising rapidly." (PL3)

- don-don means to proceed or do "rapidly/more and more/ lots and lots."
- no turns what precedes it into a noun, and ni marks it as the object of hirei shite, the -te form of hirei suru ("be proportional to").
- fuete omimasu is equivalent to fuete-imasu ("is increasing/has increased"), from fueru ("increase").

- 6 Moguro:
Tatoeba anata ni wa
 "For example, for you, . . ."

- 7 Moguro:
vappari wakai josei no o-tomodachi ga ii deshō na
 "I would expect a young woman friend might be best." (PL3)

- vappari is a colloquial vakari, "after all/as one would expect."
- no between two nouns makes the first into a modifier for the second. In this case it is like "who is": wakai josei no o-tomodachi = "a friend who is a young woman."
- . . . ga ii is used to express one's choice/preference/selection.

- 8 Moguro:
Konna hito nanka dō deshō?
 "How about someone like this?" (PL3)

- konna is another, less formal equivalent of kono yō-na, "this kind of."
- nanka is a colloquial nado ("something/someone like").
- dō = "how" and dō deshō = "how might it be?"; the question particle ka has been omitted.

- 4 Moguro:
Kodoku-na rōjin, kodoku-na josei, kodoku-na seinen, soshite kodoku-na shōnen made mo.
 "Lonely old folks, lonely women, lonely young men, and even lonely boys (are increasing)." (PL2)

- 5 Moguro:
Watashi no shigoto wa kō ita sabishii-hito-tachi ni yume to kibō o ataeru suteki-na o-tomodachi o shōkai suru koto na no desu.
 "My work is to introduce these kinds of lonely people to wonderful friends who can give them dreams and hopes." (PL3)

- kō ita = kono yō-na = "this kind of"; kō ita sabishii hito-tachi ni yume to kibō o ataeru is a complete thought sentence modifying o-tomodachi ("friend").

- 1 Sound FX:
Doki
 Ka-thump (effect of heart skipping a beat in excitement)

- 2 Moguro:
Shiroki Junko-san, hatachi. Jitsu-ni seiso-na musume-san desu.
 "Miss Junko Shiroki, age 20. She's a truly neat and tidy young lady." (PL3)

Aoi:

Ma- maru de o-miai suru mitai desu ne.
 "I- it's just like doing an o-miai, isn't it?" (PL3)

- maru-de emphasizes forms like mitai (dakidesu) or yō (daklesu), which mean "is like." The emphatic meaning can range from "exactly like" to "much/almost/practically like."
- o-miai (o- is honorific) refers to a formal meeting between the prospective bride and groom in an arranged marriage. The first step leading to such a meeting is an exchange of photographs.

- 3 Moguro:
O-miai? Naruhodo. Demo watashi wa tada go-shūkai suru dake de, ato wa honnō-tachi no jiyū ishi o sonchō shimasu.
 "An o-miai? Aha, I see what you mean. But all I do is introduce the parties, and after that I respect their personal wishes." (PL3)

- naruhodo expresses one's understanding of what one has heard/observed/experienced "aha/I see/indeed/really" → "I see what you mean."
- jiyū ishi = "free will" → "personal wishes."
- sonchō shimasu = sonchō suru = "to respect/take by."

- 4 Moguro:
Sore dake ni futari o awaseru mae ni wa o-tagai jūbun shinrō ni kentō shite moraimasu.
 "And because of that, we ask the two to consider very thoroughly and carefully before we actually have them meet." (PL3)

- 3 Moguro:
Tatoeba konna mono ga arimasu.
 "For example, I have this kind of thing." (PL3)

- 6 Sound FX:
Kachi'
 Click (sound of pushing "play" button)

Junko: (on tape)
O-matase shite gomen nasai.
 "I'm sorry to have kept you waiting." (PL3)

- gomen nasai is one of the most common ways to express an apology (cf. gomen kudasai, above).

- 1 Junko: (on tape)
Ara, watashi mo sō omotte-ta na.
 "Oh, that's exactly what I was thinking." (PL2)
Nmā, honto? Junko ureshii wa-?
 "Oh, my, really? That makes me so happy!" (PL2)

- girls and young women often refer to themselves by

- 8 Moguro:
Kono tēpu ru wa tetaiō na ma o oite kanojo no

koe ga irete-arimasu.

"Her voice has been recorded on this tape with appropriate blank spaces left in between." (PL3)

Junko: (on tape)
Onegai! Kikasete, anata no koto o.
 "Please, tell me about yourself." (PL2)

- irete is the -te form of ireru ("put into," or, when speaking of tapes, "record"). Aru ("exists" for inanimate things) after the -te form of a verb means the action has been done and the result continues to exist/is in place.
- onegai is from negai, "request," and is often used as an equivalent of "please" (the honorific o- is required for this use). Kikasete is the -te form of kikasaru, the causative ("make/let") form of kaku ("hear"); since the -te form makes an informal request, kikasete = "(please) let me hear." Normal order would be Anata no koto o kikasete "let me hear about you" → "tell me about yourself."

- 9 Moguro:
Anata wa kanojo to kore de karwa o shite, kanojo to kimochu ga au ka dō ka o tashukameru no desu.
 "You are to carry on a conversation with her using this, to see whether or not your feelings match." (PL3)

1 Moguro:

Toriaezu kono shashin to koe de shiken-tekā ni tsukiante mite kudasai.

"For starters, with this picture and voice, please try experimentally spending time with her."

"For starters, try spending some time with her using this picture and recording of her voice." (PL3)

- tsukiante is the -te form of tsukiau, seen above with the meaning "come/go along [for mahjong]"; here it means "socialize/keep company with."

2 Moguro:

Moshi ku ni iranakereba ikura de mo mata betsu-na tomodachi o shōkai shite agemasu kara.

"If you don't like her, I'll introduce you to other friends, however many it may take." (PL3)

Aoi:

A ano-

"U-ummm..."

- ku ni iranakereba is a negative conditional ("if not") form of ku ni iru ("be pleased with/like").

- ikura = "how much" and ikura de mo = "however much/as much as desired."

3 Aoi:

Itai shokai-ryō wa ikura na n desu ka?

"Just how much is the charge for an introduction?" (PL3)

- Itai is an emphaser for question words, often translated "(What) in the world?/Where) the blazes?/(How) on earth/etc." Such a translation seems a bit excessive in this case, but the word does give a feeling of urgency.

4 Moguro:

Tomodachi-ya to itte mo watashi wa kore de mōkeru tsunori wa arimasen.

"Even if I call myself a 'friend agent,' my intention isn't to make money at it." (PL3)

Moguro:

Mā, shakai hāshu-tekā-na shumi na no desu kara o-kane wa issen mo iranassen yo.

"It's really just an avocation of mine that I do as a kind of service to society, so I don't ask for a single penny." (PL3)

- sen, 1/100th of a yen, used to be a unit of common coinage, and the word entered many idiomatic expressions that continue to be used even after sen has become relevant only in currency exchange rates and stock prices.

5 Keiko:

Chotto, chotto.

"Listen to this, listen to this." (PL2)

Salaryman 1:

Nan da?

"What?" (PL2)

- chotto, literally "a little," is also used as an interjection for getting others' attention, like "say/hey/listen here."

6 Keiko:

Ima Aoi-kun ga nanka sowa-sowa shite kassori okuyō e agatte itta wa yo.

"Just now Aoi was sneaking up to the roof looking nervous and excited." (PL2)

7 Salaryman 1:

Hē, masako aitsu okuyō de aubiki shite n ja nai darō na.

"Hm, you don't suppose the guy's having a secret rendezvous up on the roof, do you?" (PL2)

Salaryman 2:

He he he. Sonna baka-na. Aitsu ni kagitte...

"Ha ha ha, are you crazy? Him, of all people..." (PL2)

- aitsu comes from ano yatsu ("that guy/person"), a rather rough way of referring to someone.
- aubiki = "assignation," and shite n is a contraction of shite-iru ("is doing/having,") from suru ("do") plus explanatory no.
- baka-na = "idiotic/foolish/crazy", sonna baka-na = "That's crazy/impossible!"
- kagitte is from kagaru ("firm to"); aitsu ni kagitte literally implies "if you limit it to him, (it's unthinkable)" → "he, of all people, would never do such a thing."

8 Salaryman 1:

Tomikaku yōsu o mi ni itte yarō.

"In any case, let's go have a look." (PL2)

To be continued...

Part II

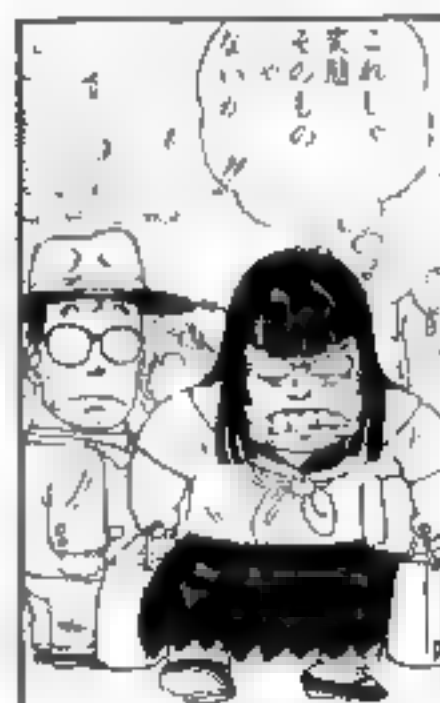

Dr. Slump

Set in the remote countryside area of Pengin Mura ("Penguin Village"), this manga is the story of genius inventor Norimaki Senbei, nicknamed Dr. Slump, and Arale, the android that he creates in the form of a 13-year-old girl. (Written アラレ in Japanese, her name would normally be romanized as Arare, but Toriyama has chosen the English spelling Arale.) In the first episode, we met Slump just as he was finishing work on Arale. She seems to be functional, but there are a few bugs to work out.

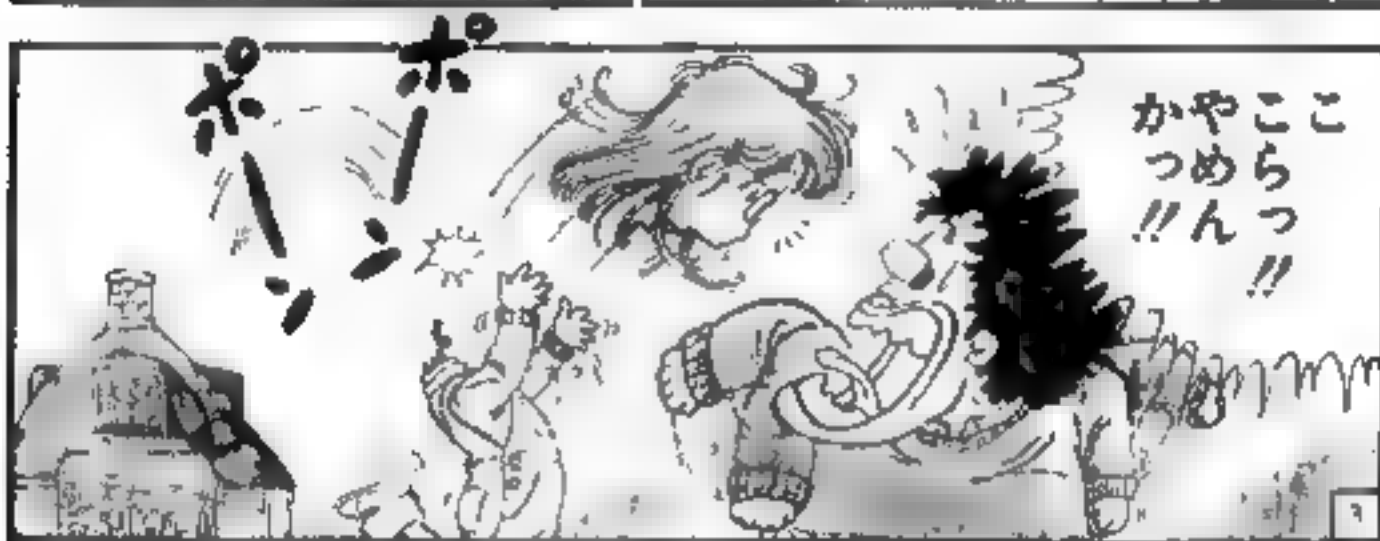

Next, Dr. Slump has Arale wait at home while he goes out to buy her some clothes. After buying pants and a shirt, he still needs to buy her underwear. To avoid being regarded as a pervert, Dr. Slump buys himself a wig and a dress so he can buy Arale's underwear as a woman, and not arouse suspicion. He does not succeed.

Dressed in her newly acquired but somewhat boyish clothes, Arale is now ready to accompany Slump on a jaunt into the outside world. If no one notices that she is an android, Slump will know that his creation is a success. As this episode opens, they are heading out to a nearby coffee shop.

Dr. Slump © Toriyama Akira. All rights reserved. First published in Japan in 1980 by Shueisha, Tokyo. English translation rights arranged through Shueisha.

Dr. Slump © by Akira Toriyama, All rights reserved. First published in Japan in 1980 by Shueisha, Inc., Tokyo.

1

Dr. Slump: よっしゃ、外へいってみよ。外
Yossha, soto e itte miyo. soto okay/all right outside to let's try going outside
 "All right then, let's try going out. Out..." (PL2)

Girl: オッス!
Ossu!
 "Okay!" (PL2)

- yossha is a variation of yoshi, an exclamatory/interjectory form of the adjective ii/vai ("good/fine"). It's often used to show that one is ready to begin an action ("okay/all right, I'm gonna do it/let's do it").
- itte is the -te form of iku ("go"), and miyo is a shortened miyo, the volitional ("let's/I shall") form of miru, which after a -te form means either "try/attempt (the action indicated)" or "do (the action) and see what results."
- ossu is usually a very informal, masculine greeting for "Morning/Hi/Hey," but here it's clearly intended more as an interjection showing readiness/cagerness.

2

Dr. Slump: ほかの 連中がおまえをみてロボットだと気づかんようなら大成功だ!
Hoka no renchū ga omae o mite robotto da to kizukan yō nara dai-seikō da!
 other people (subj.) you (obj.) see-and what (quote) not notice if appears that great success is
 "If it appears that the others look at you and don't notice you're a robot, then you're a great success."
 "If other people look at you and don't realize you're a robot, I've really succeeded." (PL2)

- hoka = "other," and no allows it to modify a noun.
- renchū is an informal word for referring to a group of people: "bunch/crew." Here it essentially refers to anyone Dr. Slump knows.
- omae is an informal/abrupt word for "you" used mostly by males with their peers or subordinates.
- kizukan is a contraction of kizukanai (or ki ga tsukanai) meaning "not realize/notice." The preceding "quotative" to marks the complete thought/sentence robotto da ("[you] are a robot") as the "content" of "not realize/notice" — i.e., as the thing/fact that is not realized/noticed.
- yō = "if it seems/appears (that)" and nara is a conditional "if," so yō nara = "if it appears that"
- when written 大, dai is a prefix for kunji compounds meaning "great/large"

3

Dr. Slump: こ、こらっ! やめん かつ!
Ko kora! Yamen kat!
 (interj.) not quit ?
 "H-hey! Will you not quit?" → "Hey! Quit that!" (PL2)

Sound FX: ポーンポーン
Pōn pōn
 (effect of tossing something in the air)

- kora is an interjection for scolding, and is spoken like a sharp "Hey!/tish!" to quickly get the offender's attention.
- yamen is a contraction of yamena, the negative form of yameru ("quit/stop"). Yamena ko is literally the question, "Will you not quit?" but idiomatically makes a strong command, "Quit it!"

5

Dr. Slump: へちや。
Ncha.
 hi/hello
 "Lo!" (PL2)

- ncha is an extreme contraction of konnichi wa, the standard daytime (mostly afternoon) greeting for "hello."

6

Waitress: あら、ドクター スカンク。
Are! Dokutā Sukanku.
 (interj.) doctor skunk
 "Oh, (it's) Dr. Skunk!" (PL2)

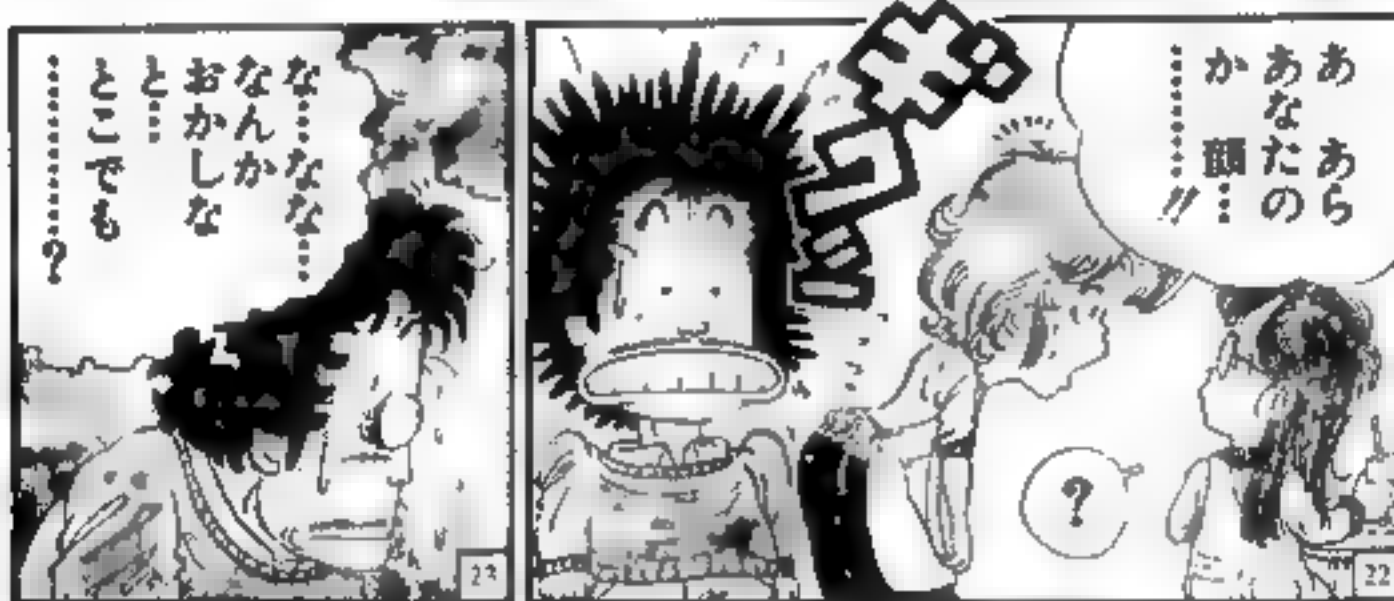

Dr. Slump: だれ が スカンクだ!
Dare ga sukanku da!
 who (subj.) skunk is
 "Who's a skunk?" → "Who're you calling skunk?" (PL2)

7	Girl: んちゃ。 Ncha "Lo" (PL2) Waitress: あら？ Ara? "Oh!" (PL2)
8	Waitress: センペエさんの こども？ Senbē-san no kodomo? (name-hon.) 's child "Your daughter?" (PL2) Dr. Slump: アホ か？ オレは まだ 28 だ ぞ。 え... と、 妹 だ、 妹！ Aho ka? Ore wa mada nijūhachi da zo. E... to, imōto da, imōto idiot/crazy? time as for still 28 am (emph.) eh/let's see younger sister is younger sister "Are you crazy? I'm still 28. Uhh, she's my baby sister. My baby sister!" (PL2) <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • since the waitress is addressing him directly when she says Senbē-san no, it's actually like saying "your" in English. As we saw in the last installment, Dr. Slump's "real" name is Norimaki Senbē, which sounds like "nori" (seaweed)-wrapped rice cracker — though it's written with kanji that make it look like a more ordinary name. • e to, or more typically e zo, is a pause/hesitation word like "Uhh/well/let's see"
9	Waitress: へえ、ぜんぜん いてない じゃないの。 よかった わ ねえ、ホントに。 Hee, zenzen ite-nai ja nai no. Yokatta wa nē, honto ni. (interj.) [text] at all don't look alike isn't it the case that was good/lucky (fem.) (colloq.) really/truly "Oh? (But) you don't look like him at all. Weren't you lucky! Really?" (PL2) <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • zenzen followed by a negative means "not at all." • ite-nai is a contraction of ite-nai, negative of ite-iru ("resembles/looks like"). • ja nai no literally asks a negative question, "isn't it the case that ...?" but it's a purely rhetorical one • yokatta is the plain/abrupt past form of u/yoi ("good/fine"). It's often used idiomatically to mean "good" in the sense of "lucky" • honto (or honto) = "truth" and honto ni is its adverb form, "truly/really" Her syntax is inverted; honto ni modifies yokatta.
10	Waitress: 名前 なん て いう の？ Namae nan te iu no? name what (quote) say (explan.) "What's your name?" (PL2) • nan is a colloquial contraction of nani ("what"), and te is a colloquial version of quotative to. The phrase nan te iu in means "called what," so, with the explanatory no at the end, the full sentence could be literally translated as "As for your name, it's that it is called what?" → "What's your name?"
11	Girl: なん て 名前？ Nan te namae? what (quote) name "What's my name?" (PL2) Dr. Slump: え？ あ！ な、名前 ね。 ん... と、 アラレ！ そ、そう。 別名 アラレじゃないか！ E? A! Na-namae ne. N... to, Arare! So-so. Norimaki Arare ja nai ka! huh? oh name is it? umm Arare th- that's right Norimaki Arare is, isn't it "Huh? Oh, right, your name. Umm, (it's) Arare! R- right. It's Norimaki Arare, of course." (PL2) <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • here, nan te is short for nan te iu, which makes a complete thought/sentence ("[It's] called what?") modifying namae ("name"). • n to is like e zo, the pause/hesitation word seen above • rice crackers that are small and roughly cylindrical in shape (instead of broad and flat like senbei) are called arare, so the name he gives for his robot parallels his own name and sounds like "nori-wrapped rice cracker bits." The normal Romanization of アラレ is arare, but this manga artist has chosen to spell his character's name Arare (see final page), so we use that spelling for her name in the word-for-word and final translations. • ja nai ka asks a rhetorical question, which in this case actually serves as a strong assertion — "isn't it so? Of course it is! You know very well it is!" He wants to make it look like she's just kidding around.
12	Arare: だ そう です。 Da sō desu. is (hearsay) is "So he says." (PL3) Waitress: ふー ん。兄 だい そろって ジョーダン みたいな 名前 ね。 Fū-n. Kyōdai sorotte jōdan mitai-na namae ne (interj.) siblings together joke-like names (colloq.) "Hmm. Both of you have names that sound like jokes." (PL2) Dr. Slump: ほっとけ！ Hottoke! leave alone "Leave us alone!" (PL2) <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • ... sō da/desu is used to report/relay what someone else has said. Here, the da ("is") refers back to the name Dr. Slump gave, so she doesn't have to actually repeat the name • fūn is an interjection showing interest • sorotte is from sorou ("come together/be in a set"). • mitai-na after a noun makes an adjective, "like." • hottoke is a contraction of hōte oke, command form of hōte oku, "leave alone/leave be."

13	Dr. Slump: ボクちゃん コーヒー。 Boku-chan kōhī. I/me (dimin.) coffee "I'll have coffee." (PL2) Waitress: アラレちゃん は なに のみたい？ Arare-chan wa nani nomitai? (name-dimin.) as-for what want to drink "What would you like to drink, Arare?" (PL2)	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • boku is an informal "I/me" used by males when speaking with close friends and acquaintances. Though the diminutive -chan (the children's equivalent of sen. "Mr./Ms.") can be used by adults among close friends, its effect is humorous when used for oneself. • nomitai is the "want to" form of nomu ("drink"). The particle o, to mark the direct object of nomu, has been omitted after nani ("what").
14	Arare: 機械オイル。 Kikai oiru. "Machine oil." (PL2) Waitress: へ？ He? (interj.) "Huh?" (PL2) Sound FX: ガチャン Gachan Crash (effect of stool hitting floor as Dr. Slump falls off his seat in slapstick effect)
15	Dr. Slump: ジュ、ジュ ス で いい 人が！ ジュース で。 Ju jūsu de ii n da! Jūsu de. ju-juice with is good (explan.) juice with "Ju-juice is fine. Juice," (PL2)	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • jūsu is a generic term usually referring to an orange soft drink. • de ii (lit. "is good/fine with") is an expression meaning "is adequate/acceptable/fine."
16	Dr. Slump: あー Aa (sigh) "Whew!" (PL2) Arare: おなか ギビない？ Onaka gibinai? stomach won't rust? "My stomach won't rust?" (PL2)	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • onaka, essentially meaning "abdomen/belly," can refer variously to "stomach/intestines/uterus/etc.," each of which also has a more technical name.
17	Waitress: ねえ、トシ は いくつ なの？ Nē, toshi wa ikutsu nano? hey/hey age as-for how many (explan. ?) "Say, how old are you?" (PL2) Arare: きょう できたてのホヤホヤ。 Kyō deki-tate no hoya-hoya. today freshly made "I was just made fresh today," (PL2) Sound FX: ブッ Bu! Brup! (effect of spitting out coffee in panic)	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • nē at the beginning of a sentence is used to get the listener's attention, like "say/hey/look here." • In informal conversations it's quite common to ask a question using just the explanatory na or na no. It's especially common among female speakers, but by no means limited to them. • deki- is the stem form of dekiru ("he made/completed"), and -tate is a suffix meaning "just now done/finished," so deki-tate means "just made." Hoya-hoya is an FX word for food that is "fresh from the oven/steamer" or "fluffy/steaming hot." Deki-tate no hoya-hoya has become an idiomatic expression for anything that is "just made."
18	Dr. Slump: は、はは、なんちゃって！ Ha, ha ha, nanchatte! (nervous laugh) things like (quote) 13歳 だよ ない！ 13 Jūsansai da yo nai! Jūsan. 13 years is/are (emph.) (colloq.) 13 "Ha, ha ha, Such a kiddie! 13. You're 13, right?" (PL2)	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • nanchatte comes from nante itte shimatte, in which nante (a colloquial nado to) implies the preceding statement is ridiculous/silly/unbelievable, and itte shimatte is the -te form of itte shimau (iu, "say" + shimau indicating an unintended/regrettable action). A speaker may tack this expression onto something he has said, as a way of saying he's not really serious, or a listener may respond with this expression to imply disbelief. • sai is the counter suffix for years of age. • na is a mostly masculine equivalent of nē, used to solicit agreement/confirmation from the listener or a third party.
19	Waitress: へえ、中学生 は みえないわ ねえ。 Hē, chūgakusei wa miえない wa nē. (exclam.) Jr. high student not look like (fem.) (colloq. emph.) "You don't say! She sure doesn't look like a junior high student." (PL2)	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • hē is a mild exclamation of surprise, like "Gee!/How about that!/You don't say!" • mieru by itself means "can be seen/appears," and ru mieru means "looks like" i.e., the particle ru is used to mark what (something/someone) looks like. Inserting wa adds emphasis.

20	Dr. Slump: あんま 質問 せんでくれっ! Anmashi shitsumon sende kure! [not] very much/many questions please don't ask "Don't ask so many questions!" (PL2) Waitress: なんで よ? nande yo? why (emph.) "Why not?" (PL2)	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • anmashi is a colloquial equivalent of amari, which is followed by a negative to give the meaning "not very much/many." • sende is an informal/colloquial equivalent of shinde, the negative te form of suru ("do"), so shitsumon sende = shitsumon shinde from shitsumon suru ("ask questions"). Kure after a te form makes an abrupt request/gentle command, so shitsumon sende kure is a negative request/command, "(please) don't ask questions." • nande is a colloquial naze, "why."
21	Waitress: べつに いい じゃない の、 ねー! Betsu-ni ii ja nai no, ne! [not] in particular is okay/fine is it not? (explan.) right? "Isn't it that you should not particularly mind? Right?" "Why should you particularly mind? Right?" (PL2) Arale: ウン。 Un. "Uh-huh" (PL2)	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • betsu-ni is usually followed by a negative to make the meaning "not in particular." Here the negative is in the idiomatic meaning of ii, which literally means "is good/okay/fine," but here is more like "not mind." betsu ni ii = "I don't particularly care/mind." Ja nai no ("isn't it the case that?") makes it a question of whether the listener rather than the speaker minds. "Isn't it the case that you should not particularly mind?" • ne is directed at Arale, to seek her agreement/confirmation. • for more on the idiomatic uses of ii, see Basic Japanese 12 (or Lesson 12 in MangaJin's Basic Japanese Through Comics)
22	Waitress: あ、あら、あなたの か 顔 A-ara, anata no ka kao... (interj.) your fa- face "Oh, oh my, your fa- face..." (PL2) FX: キクッ Kikku! (effect of stiffening in fright/panic)	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • anata = "you," and anata no = "your"
23	Dr. Slump: な、なな、なんかおかしな と、とこ でも? (thinking) Na-nana nanka okashi-na to-toko demo? so-so something strange/sd p. place/aspect or something "I-I-I is there a strange p- place or something?" "I-I-I is there no- something wrong?" (PL2)	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • nanka (or nanika) = "something," and demo means "or something/someone/somewhere/etc." The two often go together, as here, for the combined meaning of "or something." In this case demo implies the verb aru ("exists/there is"). • toko is a colloquial tokoro, literally "place."
24	Waitress: ハナ の あな が ない。 Hana no ana ga nai. nose s. holes (subj.) not exist/have "You don't have any nose holes." (PL2) Sound FX: ばんっ Ban! Bam (effect of falling flat on face in slapstick effect.)	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • more can mean either "I" or "you"; when it's used for "you" it usually has a derisive/insulting tone. • datte here is a colloquial equivalent of mo ("even/also"): "you also don't have" → "you don't have either." • daro is a shortened daro, which literally makes a conjecture, "perhaps/probably/surely." A short daro (or desho) is often used when the speaker wants to call the listener's attention to something he/she has ignored/overlooked. Go after the conjectural daro provides emphasis like "surely must (be)" or "surely must not (be)." • zo is a rough, masculine particle for emphasis.
25	Dr. Slump: おのれ だって ない しろ が Onore datte nai shiro ga you even/also don't have surely (emph.) "You don't have any either!" (PL2) マンガ なん だ ぞ、マンガ! Manga nan da zo, manga! comics (explan.) is/are (emph.) comics "This is a comic! A comic!" (PL2)	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • more can mean either "I" or "you"; when it's used for "you" it usually has a derisive/insulting tone. • datte here is a colloquial equivalent of mo ("even/also"): "you also don't have" → "you don't have either." • daro is a shortened daro, which literally makes a conjecture, "perhaps/probably/surely." A short daro (or desho) is often used when the speaker wants to call the listener's attention to something he/she has ignored/overlooked. Go after the conjectural daro provides emphasis like "surely must (be)" or "surely must not (be)." • zo is a rough, masculine particle for emphasis.
26	Waitress: あら、ホント! へえ、ハナ、ズ か でない から 便利 ねえ。 Ara, honto! Hee, hana, zu ka denai kara benri nee. (interj.) truth (interj.) snivel/snot (subj.) not come out because convenient (colloq. emph.) "Oh, my, you're right! Gee! Your nose doesn't run, so it's convenient, isn't it?" (PL2) • honto is a colloquial shortening of honto, "truth." • he hana or 清水 hanamizu means "nasal mucus/snivel/snot"; 鼻 hana means "nose." • denai is the negative of deru ("come/go out"). • ne by itself often replaces desu ne, especially in feminine speech. She lengthens it for emphasis, giving it the feeling of an exclamation.

27	Dr. Slump: ちえ、バカバカしい。かえろ かえろ。 che, bakabakashii. Kaero, kaero. sheesh ridiculous let's go home let's go home "Sheesh, this is ridiculous. Let's go home, let's go home," (PL2) Arale: グッドバイ グッドバイ グッド バイバイ。 Guddo bai guddo bai guddo baibai. "Goodbye, goodbye, goodbye-bye," (PL2) <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • che is an exclamation of disgust/chagrin, a little rougher sounding than "rats/dam!" but not obscene. • kaero is a shortened kaerō, the volitional ("let's/I shall") form of kaeru ("return home").
28	Sound FX: キイ Kii Creak (squeak/creak of door opening)
29	FX: グッ Da! (effect of taking off at a run) Arale: キーン Kim. (sound of a high-pitched squeal)
30	Sound FX: キキ〜ッ ドカン! Kiku! Dokan! Screeeech! Bang! (screeching brakes followed by sound of great impact)
31	Arale: 服 やぶれちゃった Fuku yaburechatta clothes got torn (regret) "My clothes got torn" → "I tore my clothes," (PL2) Sound FX: カラカラ Kara kara (effect of wheel rotating loosely with a slight rattling sound) Old Man: こ こ、こ、こ、イトも が クルマ を は、は、は。 ko-ka-ka-ko-kodomo ga kuruma o ha-haneta. ch ch ch ch-child (subj.) car (obj.) he hit/ran over "A ch-ch-ch-child knocked over a o-car!" (PL2) <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • yaburechatta is a contraction of yaburete shimatta, from yabureru ("to tear" or "be/get torn"). Shimatta after the te form of a verb implies the action was regrettable/undesirable. Oi to mark fuku ("clothes") as the subject of yaburechatta has been omitted. • haneta is the plain/abrupt past form of haneru, which means "flip up/over/aside" or "splash/splatter" and is also the word used to refer to a vehicle "flipping" i.e. "hitting/running over" someone in a traffic accident. In this case, however, the tables have been turned.

This concludes our selection from Dr. Slump. The series goes on for 18 volumes, so we can offer only a sampling of this classic manga.

From Take'emon, p. 36

ハードディスク	hādo disuku	hard disk/drive
メガバイト	megabaite	megabyte(s)
パソコン	pasokon	PC (computer)
外付け	sotozuke	external (drive)

From OL Shinkaron, p. 40

ビフテキ	bifuteki	(beef) steak
部下	buka	subordinate(s)
だまる	damaru	be quiet
腹がへる	hara ga heru	get hungry (masc.)
一流	ichiryū	first rank
上手	jōzu	skilful
かっこう	kakkō	appearance
稼ぐ	kasegu	earn
離婚する	rikon suru	divorce (v.)
料理	ryōri	cooking/cuisine
身長	shinchō	physical height
掃除	sōji	cleaning
退職する	taishoku suru	resign/retire
つとめる	tsumomeru	serve/work for (a company)
続ける	tsuzukeru	continue/go on (with)
うそつき	usotsuki	liar

From What's Michael?, p. 45

だんだん	dan dan	gradually/increasingly
外車	gaisha	foreign car
ヒマ	hima	free time
実は	jitsu wa	actually/really
快適	kaiteki	nice/pleasant
飼う	kau	keep/have as a pet
かわいい	kawaii	cute/darling
ケガ	kega	injury
景色	keshiki	scenery/view
落ちる	ochiru	fall (v.)
お誘い	o-sasoi	invitation
背中	senaka	(a person's) back
盗る	toru	take/steal
突然	totsuzen	suddenly
ついに	tsui-ni	finally
ツメとき	tsume-togi	(cat's) scratching post

From Visual Glossary, p. 56

バカとも	baka-domo	fools/idiot(s)
ボーリング	bōringu	bowling
増やす	fuyasu	cause to increase/multiply
開始する	kaishi suru	begin/commence
決意する	ketsui suru	decide/make up one's mind
故障する	koshō suru	break down/go haywire
クローン	kurōn	clone
教会	kyōkai	church
無理	muri	impossible/unreasonable
逃げ出す	nigedasu	make a break/escape
調べる	shiraberu	research/investigate
手作り	tezukuri	handmade/made from scratch
つまらない	tsumaranai	boring
浮気する	uwaki suru	have an affair
ヤンエグ	yan'egu	young executive

ようやく 指 pōyaku yubi

finally finger

From Warau Sērūman, p. 65

あいびき	aibiki	assignation/rendezvous
独身	dokushin	unmarried
映画	eiga	movie
ふえる	fueru	increase (v.)
二十歳	hatachi	20 years old
ひかれる	hikareru	be drawn/attracted to
...にひきかえ	... ni hikikae	in contrast to ...
比例する	hirei suru	be proportional (to)
ひとりぼっち	hitoribocchi	all alone
女性	joset	woman/women
かわいそう	kawaisō	pitiful/pitiable/wretched
孤独な	kodoku-na	lonely/solitary
恋人	koibito	boyfriend/girlfriend/lover
ムダな	muda-na	wasteful
老人	rōjin	old/aged person/people
淋しい	sabishii	lonely
さがす	sagasu	look for/seek
さっさと	sassa-to	immediately/quickly
青年	seinen	young man/men
清楚な	seiso-na	neat/ tidy
社会	shakai	society/the public
試験的に	shiken teki ni	experimentally/tentatively
紹介する	shōkai suru	introduce
少年	shōnen	boy(s)
尊重する	sonchō suru	respect/abide by
たりない	tarinai	be insufficient
確かめる	tashikameru	ascertain/verify/confirm
たとえば	tatoeba	for instance/for example
ともだち	tomodachi	friend(s)
とりあえず	toriaezu	for starters/first of all
つもり	tsumori	intention/native/purpose
残業手当	tangyō teate	overtime pay/compensation

From Dr. Slump, p. 73

あな	ana	hole(s)
バカバカしい	bakabakashii	ridiculous
便利	benri	convenience/convenient
中学生	chūgakusei	junior high student
大成功	dai seikō	great success
服	fuku	clothes
ハナミズ	hanamizu	nasal mucus/snivel/snot
妹	imōto	younger sister
ジョーダン	jōdan	joke
ジュース	jūsu	juice/juice-like soft drink
機械オイル	kikai oiru	machine oil
気づかない	kizukanai	not realize/notice
兄がい	kyōdai	siblings
にている	nite-iru	resemble/look like
おかしな	okashi-na	strange/odd
おなか	onaka	abdomen/stomach/belly
連中	renchū	crew/bunch (of people)
サビない	sabinai	won't rust
質問	shitsumon	question
トシ	toshi	age (n.)
やぶれる	yabureru	tear/be torn

The Vocabulary Summary is taken from material appearing in this issue of MANGAJIN. It's not always possible to give the complete range of meanings for a word in this limited space, so our "definitions" are based on the usage of the word in a particular story.

The best In Japanese-learning software is now available from MANGAJIN at the lowest prices around!

Power Japanese for the PC with Windows by Bayware, Inc.

List price: $389 • MANGAJIN Price: $239 • Subscriber Price: $219

Power Japanese for Windows is a stimulating, fun, and, above all, effective way to learn Japanese. With Power Japanese, you can learn to speak, read and write basic Japanese in 10 weeks.

What's more, Power Japanese gives you something of lasting value: the foundation of real literacy in Japanese. The program emphasizes total learner involvement—listening, speaking, reading, writing and thinking in Japanese.

By combining graphics, animation and sound, Power Japanese provides a vibrant learning environment that maintains your interest in the materials at hand, while helping you retain what you have learned.

The Power Japanese program consists of four sections: 1. Hiragana covers the phonetic symbols used to write native Japanese words; 2. Katakana introduces the phonetic symbols used to transcribe foreign and imported words; 3. Grammar A provides basic sentence patterns, grammar fundamentals, reading and vocabulary drills; 4. Grammar B covers more advanced sentence patterns and grammatical concepts.

Power Japanese requires a 386 PC or higher with 3 MB of RAM and Windows 3.1. Package includes a PC external sound adapter, plug and headphones. No sound card or special hardware is required to run the program.

"When Microsoft Corp. transfers software engineers for a stint in its Tokyo office, it gives them a computer [program] called Power Japanese..."

—The Wall Street Journal

"The lessons are so elegantly designed and such a joy to complete, you may not even notice how much you're learning."

—PC/Computing

"Power Japanese is clearly a dream product, consisting of a great windows interface with clear, intelligent lessons that draw you right into the Japanese language..."

Multimedia World

"...a tour de force in speaking, reading and writing Japanese."

—PC Magazine

Power Japanese was named MVP (most valuable product) by PC Computing at the 11/92 COMDEX show, and was Multimedia World magazine's 1993 winner for Best Language Software.

JapaneseForEveryone for the Mac by Butler Consulting, Inc.

List price: $325 • MANGAJIN Price: $279 • Subscriber Price: $239

Macintosh CD-ROM CourseWare

Japanese For Everyone

Version 2.0
an unprecedented interactive approach to learning spoken Japanese

Butler Consulting, Inc.
CD-ROM Language Learning CourseWare for the Macintosh® Computer
• Japanese version 2.0 CD-ROM
• Mac's Speak Japanese—High School C. 100M+
• Speak Japanese PARTICLES
• Total length CD-ROM

JapaneseForEveryone is a CD-ROM interactive approach to learning spoken Japanese using your Macintosh. This program will have you up and running in spoken Japanese in much less time—and at much less expense—than you'd spend in formal language classes.

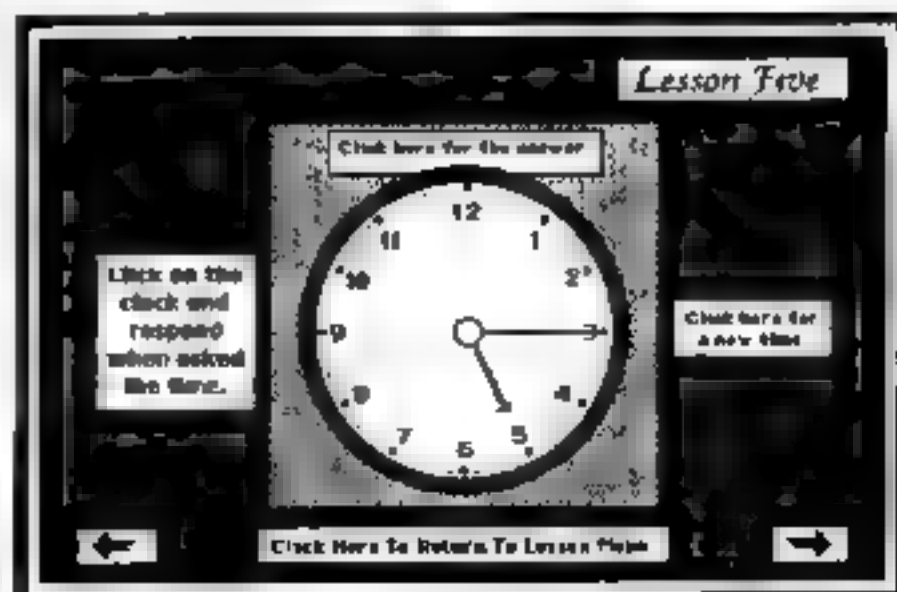

JapaneseForEveryone is based on situational dialogues with a business slant—greetings, introductions, making appointments, etc. The program consists of 15 lessons, each building on previous lessons. By clicking on a button, you'll hear digitally recorded Japanese sentences spoken by animated faces that appear on the screen.

Study time is 120-150 hours. Use the program for an hour or two each day and speak Japanese in months. Work more intensively and you could be speaking the language in weeks.

Requires a Macintosh computer, CD-ROM drive, 4MB of RAM for System 7 version, 2 MB RAM for System 6 version.

"Butler Consulting is light years ahead of the competition in its Japanese language learning software..."

—Pride's Guide to Educational Software, 1992

To Order Today Call
MANGAJIN at 800-552-3206

• Classifieds •

Classified ads are free for individuals and non-profit groups (up to 30 words). Commercial ads are $2.00 per word, $3.00 per word bold-faced, $30 minimum charge or $80/inch for display ads, discounts available for size and/or frequency (2 1/4" width, camera ready). Send to: MANGAJIN Classifieds, P.O. Box 7119, Marietta, GA 30065. Categories: • Pen Pals • Notices & Events • Books & Publications • Computers & Software • Job Seekers • Clubs • Consulting • Employment • Travel • Miscellaneous (MANGAJIN reserves the right to edit or reject any classified advertisement.)

日本語のclassified OKです!

日本語のclassified OKです!

日本語のclassified OKです!

Computers & Software

かな

Master Hiragana & Katakana

- Roman & Sound Keyboard
- Flash Card Printer
- Stroke Order
- Kana Dictionary
- Pop-Up Screen Reader

Kana

$25 (Master Keyboard > 2.0 or higher)

800-859-NOVA

Novus Hardware
1312 Highway 100 North, Suite W-1, W-10117

Studying Japanese? For FREE information on GAKUSEI 11, the DOS-based beginning grammar tutorial, write to:

BARHAM SOFTWARE
16507 S. NORMANDIE AVE #245
GARDENA, CA 90247 USA

JAPANESE LANGUAGE INSTRUCTION, Verb Explorer J computer software (verb/adjective forms), Japanese on the Go! audio cassettes (pronunciation, listening skills). Contact JAIMS, 6660 Hawaii Kai Dr., Honolulu, HI 96825 (808-395-2314)

Books & Publications

「漫遊人」の読者の方でボランティアで私達のウェブページに記事を書いてくださる方を募集したいと思っております。英語・日本語どちらでもかまいません。記事の内容もどんなものでも結構です。Seeking contributors to our monthly newsletter. Write in English or Japanese, on any subject. Contact Sayoko Tanaka, The Japan America Club of The American University, 4201 Mass. Ave., NW, #4051C, Washington, DC 20016

We have an interesting list of educational material (K-12) on Japan. For catalog send US$2 & self-addressed envelope (no stamps) to Pacific-Rim Slide Shows, #302, 130 East 15th Ave, Vancouver, BC V5T 4L3 Canada

この度BS PUBLISHでは、新しく日本語学習者、日本人留学生を対象に日本語年刊の季刊誌A/Jゲイトウェイを発行します。本誌発行は1994年1月より予定。内容は世の中の体験談、学習論、日本間の文化交換、日本生活での不便の多いことなどを特集します。日本語、英語どちらでも可。定例まで。Will be starting a quarterly Japanese/English newsletter for those studying Japanese, and for Japanese nationals studying in the US. First issue in January. Please send your articles on studying cultural exchange, and US Japan relations to: A/J Gateway, 145 Aspen Dr., Newark, DE 19702-2865

If you like MANGAJIN, you'll like The JAPAN EXPERIENCE

A quarterly newsletter about Japanese:

- Activities
- Culture
- Language
- High Tech
- Travel and more!

Subscribers are just $7 US $11 overseas. Single issues $2 US, $7 overseas. MC/VISA

THE JAPAN EXPERIENCE

P.O. Box 87195 • Dallas, TX 75287

(214) 394-0541 voice/fax

Learn Japanese on Your Own!

Comprehensive self-instructional audio-cassette/book courses for learning Japanese and 80 other languages. Call or write for free 56-page catalog. 1-800-243-1234 (See our ad on page 4.)

Audio-Forum, Dept. 114,
Guilford, CT 06437

Miscellaneous

I'm contemplating teaching English in Japan and wish to correspond with past or present Eikaiwa teachers to exchange info and get advice. Paul, 24 Fifth Avenue, New York, NY 10011

Anyone interested in exchanging free Japanese hypercard stacks please contact Stephen Thompson, 3 Shirley House, Picton St., London, SE5 7PQ, England

LEARN JAPANESE IN KYOTO! Home-stay or dorm, one to three months, teach English in exchange. Call Toll Free 1-800-748-5054 or write International Connections, PO Box 80, NSL, UT 84054

The Southeast Asia Shortwave Enthusiasts Club is looking for members who follow Radio Japan and other stations in the region. For information only, write Mark Armstrong, 11706 South Throop St., Chicago, IL 60643

ADVERTISE IN MANGAJIN!

Reach professionals with a wide range of Japan interests

Our subscribers are professionals like yourself. They look to these pages for valuable information to help them in all areas of business. Mangajin is one of the best resources around for

- JOB ANNOUNCEMENTS
- SEMINARS
- SPECIAL EVENTS
- BOOKS AND PUBLICATIONS
- PRODUCTS AND SERVICES

For more information:

Call: 404-590-0270 or Fax: 404-590-0890
Mangajin, Inc. • PO Box 7119 • Marietta, GA 30065

Friendly, outgoing American English teacher, female, 24, looking for host family in Kyoto area. Will give English lessons in exchange for room and board. Please respond to Patricia Krewett, 3314 S 28th St, #303, Alexandria, VA 22304

STUDY JAPANESE BUSINESS IN HAWAII, INTERN IN JAPAN with the Japan focused Executive MBA program or the Japan focused Management Program. Contact JAIMS, 6660 Hawaii Kai Drive, Honolulu, HI 96825 (808-395-2314)

I would like to teach English in Japan & would welcome help, advice, info on practicalities, qualifications needed, vacancies, etc. Thanks! Allan Hern, 12(B) Bennett Road, Bournemouth, Dorset, England BH8 8QP

ANIME

THIS 'N THAT

Offering a complete line of Anime Products

Models

Video Tapes

Laser Discs

Send $2.00 U.S. for a Catalog to Anime This 'n That
P.O. Box 49296
Colorado Springs, Co 80949-9296

Asian Studies

TEMPLE UNIVERSITY JAPAN Tokyo

Spend a semester or academic year in Tokyo at Temple University Japan. Enroll in Asian studies courses taught in English, and Japanese language courses, including Intensive Language at the beginning level. Courses fully integrated with Japanese students. Arranged housing.

For more information contact

Temple University
International Programs
501 Conwell Hall
Philadelphia, PA 19122
Telephone (215) 204-4684

Pen Pals

アニメが大好きな人と、日本語か英語でお手紙を下さい。(Everyone who likes anime. Write in Japanese or English.) To: Varachai Auehavitkul, P.O. Box 94, Samkerng Post Office, Bangkok 10400, Thailand

Japanese male seeks correspondence with male or female Americans of the same age (20). Interests are music, art, skateboarding, surfing, snowboarding, literature, and manga. Answer in Japanese or English to Yoshitaka Aso, Higashi-Mobara 11-2, Chiba-ken, 297 Japan

French male, 17 seeks Japanese (especially in Tokyo) and American pen pals, m/f, any age. Understand English, beginning Japanese. Interests: manga, anime, music, FI & Indy car, video games, etc. Patrick Gazano, 3 Place d'armes, 20169 Bonifacio, France

Wanted pen pals to correspond with Japanese pen pals. Send a short introduction to Yumi Nagase, International Section, Kakamigahara City Hall, 1-69 Naka-Sakura-Machi, Kakamigahara City, Gifu, Japan 504

日系アメリカ人男性 24, 国際ペンパルを求む。アメリカの印象は? 手紙は英語, フランス語, 中国語または簡単な日本語でOK. Augie Tam, 376 Broadway #9B, New York NY 10013.

American male student, 20, wants to correspond with Japanese, any age. Hobbies: karate, kendo, music, reading, mountain and wall climbing. Matthew Vetrini, Earlham College, Box 1795, Richmond, IN 47374

Make friends in Japan, America, everywhere. For information send (in USA) SASE or (elsewhere) US$1 or 2 IRCs to New England/Worldwide, PO Box 4282, Brockton, MA 02403

American male seeks friends worldwide. Interests: swapping homemade videos, music, international friendships. Write in English to Tracy Albest, 242 West Main Street, Suite 168, Hendersonville, TN 37075

Male, 19, seeks Japanese and American pen pals. Interests: Anime, manga and anything about Japan. Write to Juan Luis Manzano, c/o Isabel Garau, 72, 1^a, 07458, Ca'n Picafort, Illes Balears, Spain

Japanese single female, 28, seeks pen pals who live in Hawaii. I travel to Hawaii every year and really like it. Please write in Japanese or English. Keiko Iguchi, 5-33-1 Gminuma, Musashi-Murayama-Shi, Tokyo, 208 Japan

American male, 39, seeks pen pals worldwide (especially Japanese). Interests include video games, comics, music and business ideas. Write Bill Pearson, 941 S. Sheridan Avenue, Tacoma, WA 98405-3633

American male professional, 26, seeking Japanese female pen pal. Please send picture, write in English. Kenneth DeLaTorre III, 211 Watchung Avenue, Montclair, NJ 07042

American college student, 19, studying computer, would like Japanese pen pals to correspond in English and Japanese as I learn. Jason McInnes, 1133 W 36th Pl, #10, Los Angeles, CA 90007

Indonesian girl, 19, seeks worldwide pen pals interested in Japanese. Please write in English to Juliet, JL PWS No. 38, Medan 40118, Indonesia

American Christian would like to correspond with Japanese Christians, male or female, any age. Will answer all. Chris Tacey, 8165 W Geddes Avenue, Littleton, CO 80123

American male, 12, seeks Japanese M/F, any age, who speaks English. Into Japanese art, language, culture, music, anything. Write to Nick Dahlstrom, 1784 Fraser St. Aurora, CO 80011

China 32-year-old Japanese woman interested in movies, traveling, cooking, art, etc. I'm eagerly looking forward to hearing from people all over the world. Toyomi Tomashima, 201-3 Morihisa, Buzen-shi, Fukuoka-ken 828 Japan

American male psychologist would like to communicate with Japanese male/female psychologist. Interests are Japanese language, psychology, culture, martial arts. Write to Ron Coughlin, Box 77029, West Trenton, NJ 08628

21-year-old girl from Hawaii seeks pen pals from Japan or anywhere else. I love Japanese music and martial arts. Letters in English or Japanese are fine. よろしくおねがいします。Cindy, 95-479 Kaulia Place, Mililani Town, Hawaii 96789

African-American male, 26, looking for Japanese female to develop friendship. Travel to Japan every two months. Please send picture. Eric Williams, 365 Harding Avenue #2, Clifton, NJ 07011

American male model, 23, interested in Japanese culture. Please respond in English. David Hammer, 365 Harding Avenue #2, Clifton, NJ 07011

American male, 35, interested in Japanese pen-friends. My interests are travel (to Japan in April), photography, films and learning Japanese. Please write in English. Craig Rosenberg, PO Box 350, Hartsdale, NY 10530

Single white lady, age 29, seeks correspondence with single Japanese gentleman, age 30-45. I enjoy movies, pop music, art and learning about Japanese culture. Please write and send photo. Niku, PO Box 30031, Cincinnati, OH 45230-0031

28-year-old white American male, medical student, would like to meet a Japanese female. Markon Navarro, 1900 Perdido St, B0-74, New Orleans, LA 70112

American female, 20, seeks friends from all over the world. Wide range of interests including manga and anime. Please write in English to Andrea Weary, PO Box 1285, Alamo, NM 88310

Job Seekers

College grad seeking full-time employment in Japan as English Teacher, ESL experience with Japan Air Lines language program at university. Jason Parker, 711 South Center, Wellsville, UT 84339 (801 245 3608)

Manufacturing supervisor seeking employment in Japan. Fifteen years experience in Aerospace industry in Customer Service/Quality Assurance, Manufacturing Engineering. Martin Gallagher, 5363 W Swallow Dr., Tucson, AZ 85741 (Tel: 602-579-7086)

Employment Opportunity

MANGAJIN is looking for an associate feature editor. Must be native speaker of English with excellent writing/editing skills, including editorial planning and supervising free-lancers. Also need DTP and layout skills/aptitude. Should be comfortable working from Japanese source material. We offer informal, creative atmosphere and compensation based on skills/experience. Please send samples of work & letter to Feature Ed., PO Box 7119, Marietta, GA 30065

WANTED - COMIC BOOK EDITOR Part-time position in Los Angeles available for individual with experience. Company represents a comic book publisher in Japan. Please send resume and references to the following address: DYNA-SEARCH, INC 11835 W Olympic Blvd., Suite 825, East Tower, Los Angeles, CA 90064

Want to Exchange Letters with Japanese Friends?

ALC Press is looking for people of all nationalities who would like to exchange letters (in English) with Japanese. In Japan there are lots of people, young and old, who want to correspond with overseas friends.

Tokyo-based publisher, ALC Press, Inc. have launched the ALC Correspondence Club - a penpal introduction service - in order to promote international exchange and friendship among individuals in Japan and other countries. If you are interested in participating in this exciting program, please complete this form and mail it to our headquarters in Tokyo.

You will become a member of the ALC Correspondence Club upon our receipt of your registration form. Registration is free, and valid for six months. During the six-month registration period, we will match you with Japanese penpals with the help of the information you have provided. The Japanese penpals will then write to you. It is preferred that you write in English, but Japanese is acceptable as well.

ALC Correspondence Club Registration Form

Name: _____ Sex: ☐ Male / ☐ Female
 Address: _____
 Postal Code: _____ Country: _____
 Marital Status: ☐ Married / ☐ Single Age: _____
 Occupation: _____ Nationality: _____
 Hobbies/Interests: _____

We're waiting to hear from you!

JAPAN BUDGET TRAVEL

The lowest fares to Asia and beyond.

Going to Japan, China, Hong Kong, Taiwan or Europe is easy and economical when you turn to Japan Budget Travel.

Whether you're traveling for business or pleasure, our highly-trained agents have the experience and expertise to assist you with all of your travel needs. We offer a complete range of travel services, including the Japan Rail Pass and Furail Pass.

So when you want fast, dependable service—and the lowest prices around—call Japan Budget Travel.

Call any of our offices toll free:

- New York... 800-722-0797 • 212-686-8855
- Chicago..... 800-843-0273 • 312-236-9797
- Boston... .. 800-638-0024 • 617-353-1010
- Houston.... 800-445-5265 • 713-789-6633
- Atlanta..... 800-782-7781 • 404-231-4333
- Tokyo..... 03-504-0698*

*ext. 2011 from

NIHONGO LEARNING SYSTEMS

2440 Southwest Cary Parkway, Suite #205
Cary, NC 27513

Orders/Inquiries ... 1-800-353-1706

FACSIMILE 1-919-380-1134

Prodigy ID TWPM00A

Internet ID TWPM00A@PRODIGY.COM

漢字
かな 勉強

IBM Compatible Software for Learning to Read and Write Japanese

KANJI RENSHU Supports learning the Kanji learned in grades 1-6 of Japanese elementary school. Stroke order with brush effect, multiple choice quizzes, and On-Yomi/Kun-Yomi display in kana and/or romaji. Includes 881 kanji deemed ESSENTIAL by the Japanese Ministry of Education (996 characters supported in all.) PRICE $30

KANARENSHU Interactive program teaches both Hiragana and Katakana. Stroke order supported at the touch of a key with brush effects. PRICE $25

YUKUGO RENSHU Allows the study of Kanji Combinations. Combinations include Hiragana characters. Customized lists can be built to concentrate on specific areas of vocabulary. Default study list included. PRICE $25

Graphics All 1850 Toyo Kanji plus Hiragana and Katakana in graphics compatible with Broderbund Software Inc's Print Shop Series of programs. Over 2000 graphics in all. Price $35

Prices include shipping and handling. North Carolina residents add 6% sales tax. For free details send or fax name/address to the address above or call toll free and leave the information. For sample diskette illustrating the products, send $4.00 (check or MO) to the address above. Add $4.00 shipping if outside of U.S. Requirements are: DOS 2.3 or higher and EGA graphics or better. Corporate and Educational Site license discounts available. Clip and send this ad for $5.00 off any program. Savings up to $20 off all packages purchased!

Mangajin Subscriptions & T-Shirts

Mangajin Subscriptions:

Subscribe to Mangajin or get left out in the cold! Subscriptions in the USA: $35 for one year (one year equals 10 issues), Canadian & Mexican subscriptions are US$50; Overseas subscriptions are US$80. We accept MasterCard, Visa, Money Orders or Checks in American dollars. (Sorry, we can't ship subscriptions to Japan; all Japanese orders must go through our exclusive agent in Japan—address listed on page 2)

Mangajin T-Shirts:

Our Classic Samurai 100% cotton six-color T-shirt is a reproduction of our very first cover. Get it at the low price of $10.00 for subscribers, $12.50 for others. Please choose size L or XL.

Because of a blooper, we have 200 50/50 shirts printed with the Classic Samurai design—100 large and 100 X-large. We are selling these for $8.00 each to anybody who wants one! THIS IS A ONE-TIME OFFER GOOD ONLY WHILE SUPPLIES LAST!

Our Clean-Cut Logo shirt, black logo on white 50/50 heavy blend is only $6.50 if you're a subscriber, $8.00 otherwise. This shirt just states what you believe more simply! Please choose size L or XL.

Japanese Manga

These manga books come straight from Japan and are available in their original, untranslated form. Selections from each have appeared in past issues of Mangajin.

Obatarian

by Hotta Katsuhiko. A long-time favorite of Mangajin readers, Obatarian's obnoxious ways & selfishness have endeared her to thousands. Five volume set, original Japanese. $31.50, subscriber price $28.00

O-jama Shimasu

by Imazeki Shin. Known to its fans as the "sheep counting manga," the offbeat humor in this series is reminiscent of The Far Side. Selections appeared in Mangajin #10, 13, 16, 18, 19, 20 and 21. Three volume set, original Japanese edition. $19.50, subscriber price $17.50

Mangajin Catalog

Mangajin "Classics"

Need more Mangajin? Back issues are the answer! $6 each or $5.40 each for subscribers.

No. 6

Profile of sci-fi artist Matsumoto Reiji. Basic Japanese Omedetō and Ohayō Ginga Tetsudō 999 (1), Dai-Tōkyō, Pocket Story, Tanaka-kun

No. 10

Roundup of Japanese movies on video, the art of subtitling, sex & violence in manga, Dai-Tōkyō, Ginga Tetsudō (5), OL Shinkaron, Ojama Shimasu

No. 12

Japanese beer brands, A tale of two translations, Mac System 7, Basic Japanese ji, the good word, The Far Side, Dai-Tōkyō, Pocket Story, Ningen Kōsaten (2)

No. 16

Getting around the high cost of sushi. Computer Corner. Twinbridge review, Racial stereotypes in manga, Oishinbo (food manga pt. 1), Bono Bono, Sarariman Senka

No. 17

Tezuka Osamu, Japan's "God of Manga". Computer Corner developments in Unicode; Basic Japanese: Baby Talk, The Phoenix, Calvin & Hobbes, Oishinbo (2), Kuniko-san

No. 18

The corporate warrior, J-related CompuServe, bus books, Eigyō Tanteko Nisshi business manga (1), The Phoenix (2), Oishinbo (3), C&H, Ojama Shimasu, Obatarian

No. 19

Controversy over racial images in Tezuka's works; Interviews with pro translators, Sumō, Japan's trendy old sport, Eigyō Tanteko Nisshi (2), Phoenix (3), Mad Ad (Perot)

No. 20

Language learning issue: general pointers, textbook reviews, kana learning programs, Kanji-Flash review, Ningen Kōsaten (medical ethics story, pt. 1), What's Michael, Saran-kun

No. 21

Tonic eiyo drinks. Salaryman's Secret Weapon?, Mr. Baseball, Kuriko-san, Ningen Kōsaten (2), Beranmei Tōchan, Yūyake no Uta

Other Mangajin back issues available:

- #23: Educational Manga, Takahanada/Rie Wedding, Microsoft: Selling Software in Japan, Taste of Culture: Wasabi, OL Shinkaron, Tanaka-kun, Crayon Shinchan, Sanshirō no Koi, Tsun Baka Nisshi (2)
- #24: Bars, Cabarets, and the "Water Trade" Haiku-mania, Fūryū Manga Odayi ni, Japan's Choco-Mania, Sarariman-kun, Furiten-kun, Crayon Shinchan, What's Michael, Midori-san, Tanaka-kun
- #25: Sake Special: brands, terminology, manga, The "Japanification" of American Fast Food, Kuriko-san, Bar Lemon Hart
- #26: An Interview with Journalist Sam Jameson, Outrageous Japanese, Beranmei Tōchan, Furiten-kun, Manga Business Manners, Yawara! (1), Dai Tōkyō Binbō Seikatsu Manyaru, OL Shinkaron, Calvin and Hobbes, The Far Side
- #27: Japan's Wedding Industry, Outrageous Japanese, Brand News, Manga Business Manners, Yawara! (2)
- #28: Japan's Vending Machines, Japanese for PCs, Kachō Shima Kōsaku (1), Katsushika Q, Beranmei Tōchan
- #29: Japanese Software Special. Interview with Takeuchi: creator of Garcia-kun, Political Cartoon, Taste of Culture: kitchen utensils, Kachō Shima Kōsaku (2), Sanshirō no Koi, OL Shinkaron
- #31: Christmas in Japan. Book reviews. Religion in Japan, Interview with Ishinomori Shōtarō, Ishi Hisaichi, After Zero, Hotel (2)
- #32: Japan's Guerrilla Press, Political cartoons about rice imports, Computer Corner: WordPerfect 2.2, & KanjiWord 2.0, Taste of Culture: TV Cooking Shows, Visual Glossary, After Zero, Dr. Slump (1)

Become a subscriber and take advantage of our discounted prices!

To Place an Order • Call 1-800-552-3206 • FAX 404-590-0890 • PO Box 7119, Marietta, GA 30065

The Nihongo Journal

日本語ジャーナル The Nihongo Journal

Another fine collectible Japanese language-learning magazine, the Nihongo Journal has something for all levels of study. Each issue contains 100+ pages of lessons, drills, readings and columns exploring contemporary Japanese language, as well as ads for language schools and products. If you've never seen a copy, take advantage of our special sample copies for $5 each (the format hasn't changed even though the feature stories have).

1994 Nihongo Journals $9 each; subscriber price $8.10 each

February 1994

This Month's Feature:
Rice and Japan—the market, brands, lifestyle, Unusual Vending Machines: Vocab Building: Adverbs of Chinese Origin, Pro Baseball's Strongest Batter, News Nihongo: Political Reform

We are already sold out of January 1994: To make sure you don't miss an issue, become a Nihongo Journal Subscriber! Only $95 if you subscribe to Mangajin, $100 if you don't. What are you waiting for?*

*Does not include cassette tapes, offer valid in USA only

$5 Nihongo Journal samples

Want to give the Nihongo Journal a try? We have a few left over from 1991 for only $5 each. There are only a few of each issue, so let us choose which one to send.

1992 & 1993 Nihongo Journals $7 each, special deal — 5 for $30!

#6/93

Japan's Imperial Family, Visiting a Doctor, Expressing Criticism, This Month's Guest Miura Kazuyoshi, Japan's Soccer Ace

#5/93

A Guide to Modern Fortune-Telling Basic Japanese I am Sorry Japanese through Linguistic Functions. Expressing Emotions

#2/93

Studying in Japan; Contemporary Kimono; Glassware, News Nihongo The LDP Ultra-Rightists & the Yakuza, Schwarzenegger TV commercial

1992 Nihongo Journals Available:

- 2: Studying Abroad in Japan from SE Asia, Let's Go to Nikko, Essay: Inside the Car, Elementary Course Valentine's Day
- 3: Pachinko, Stylish Female Office Workers, Elementary Course Colds, Intermediate Conversation Japan's Police
- 5: The Liberal Democratic Party, Ghouls, Goblins & Imaginary Beings Symbols in Kanji, Beginning J: Golden Week
- 6: Job Hunting in Japan, Wedding Fads, Beg. J: Wedding Ceremonies, Course in Business Writing Writing Estimates
- 7: Phones for a New Age, Game Arcades, Japanese Through Linguistic Functions Requests, News Nihongo: Pro Baseball
- 8: Whaling Controversy, Festival Delights, Beg. Japanese Summer Vacation; Vocabulary Building. Onomatopoeia
- 9: The Japanese Language Proficiency Test, Amusement Parks, Japanese Through Linguistic Functions Denials
- 10: Attending a J University, Horse Racing: J Paper Business Writing Negotiating a Price Increase, Beginning J: Sports
- 11: Japan, Land of Earthquakes, Ogasawara Village, Tokyo; Beg. J: Autumn Leaves, Bus Writing. Sending Out Invitations

To Place an Order • Call 1-800-552-3206 • FAX 404-590-0890 • PO Box 7119, Marietta, GA 30065

Mangajin Catalog

New!

America and the Four Japans

by Frederik L. Schodt

A remarkably thoughtful book about the ever-changing relationship between Japan and the US. Drawing on history, cultural commentary, and opinion on both sides of the Pacific, it portrays two nations in conflict yet increasingly connected. Is Japan a friend, a rival, a role model, or a mirror? What does Japan really mean to America? Reviewed in Mangajin #32, 200 pages, softcover $10.95 subscriber price $8.00

In the Realm of a Dying Emperor

by Norma Field

Set in the final year of the Showa Emperor's fatal illness, Realm examines the dark side of Japanese nationalism. By giving detailed portraits of three people who have taken unpopular stands against a government-endorsed nationalist symbol, a nation is revealed that is far more diverse than most people realize. 273 pages, softcover $11.50, subscriber price $11.00

Japan, Inc.

by Ishinomori Shōtarō

English translation of the Japanese educational manga Nihon Keizai Nyūmon. The story involves fictional Mitsutomo Trading Co., the kind of company that has presided over Japan's economic expansion during the past century, providing insight into how the Japanese view business and their political economy. 312 pages, softcover $13.00, subscriber price $12.50

The Essence of Modern Haiku

Breaking free from centuries of poetry limited to nature themes, Seishi Yamaguchi has added modern touches while retaining the elegant beauty of the classics. Presented in Mangajin style, this collection has appeal for students of Japanese language & culture as well as haiku lovers everywhere. 368 pages. Hardcover $24.95, Softcover $19.95

Manga! Manga!

by Frederik L. Schodt

Tracing manga from its 6th-century roots through its function as propaganda during the war to the billion-yen industry of the present, Manga! Manga! includes more than 200 illustrations and translated sections of four classic manga works. 260 pages, softcover $18.50, subscriber price $17.00

Japanese Jive

by Caroline McKeldin

English is widely used in Japanese product names and packaging, often with baffling results. McKeldin presents dozens of hilarious examples of real products bearing unreal English names, accompanied by tongue-in-cheek "analysis." 60 pages, softcover $9.95, subscriber price $8.95

Shoshamen

by Arai Shinya, translation by Cheiko Mulhern

Intended for a Japanese audience, this novel gives an honest and insightful look in to the life of an employee of a shōsha (large scale Japanese trading company). The plot revolves around the buyout of an American firm by the Japanese, and one man's struggle to do what is best for his company and himself. 224 pages, softcover $13.00, subscriber price $12.50

Komikku Michi-Bei Masatsu. Waratte bakari wa iraremasen: "Comic Japan-US Friction. Not Just a Laughing Matter"

Ono Kōsei, translator

Not Just a Laughing Matter has 100 political cartoons on Japan from newspapers and magazines around the world. Everything from the contents to the notes is presented in English and Japanese (no language notes or grammar explanations, though). Priority was given to those comics that evoked a chuckle. Reviewed in Mangajin #28. Price $17.00, subscriber price $15.00

Slugging It Out in Japan

Warren Cromartie w/Robert Whiting

This Montreal Expo turned Tokyo Giant gripes about everything from soulless cities to gutless players; but by the end of the story admits his respect for Japan. Reviewed in Mangajin #14. 277 pages, hardcover $18.50, subscriber price $17.50

Mangajin Catalog

JTB's Illustrated Book Series

Volume 1: A Look Into Japan

An intro to a variety of Japanese traditions, customs & pastimes. Covers 100 categories: tea ceremony, bonsai, pachinko, eating utensils, hot springs, signs, signals, and more.

Volume 2: Living Japanese Style

Practical explanations of Japanese customs, designed to help avoid culture shock. Includes using the bank, taking the train, advice on how to behave in a variety of situations, etc.

Volume 3: Eating in Japan

Comprehensive guide to Japanese cuisine, including foods, beverages and sweets, with descriptions of restaurants and explanations of food. Section on etiquette included.

Volume 8: Salaryman in Japan

To understand the salaryman (white collar worker) is to understand Japanese business. This book delves into everyday life. Also features a section on business manners, phrases and terminology.

Volume 14: Japanese Inns & Travel

An intro to the types of Japanese lodgings (ryokan, minshuku, youth hostels) including the history of travel in Japan, culture of hot springs, a catalog of ekiben plus local specialties.

These handy pocket size books offer a wealth of information. Our price $10.00 each, subscriber price $9.50/each. Set of five $47.50, subscriber price $45.00

The Way of the Urban Samurai by Kasumi

There is no saving face when Japan insider Kasumi takes off the gloves and challenges you to get to know the truth about the Japanese male. Reviewed in Mangajin #24. 113 pages, softcover $9.50, subscriber price $8.50

The Japanese Through American Eyes

by Sheila K. Johnson

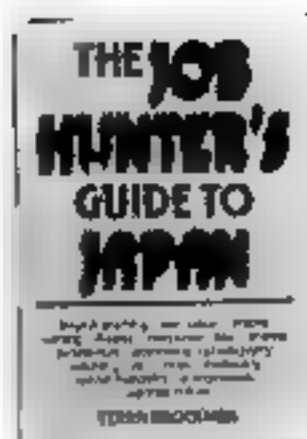

The author studied various pop culture media covering 1941 to the present to study how American's views of the Japanese have developed since Pearl Harbor. From the "anti-jap" sentiments of WWII through guilt over Hiroshima to the latest wave of examination provoked by Japan's economic power, this book provides a fascinating look at Japan through the eyes of Americans. 191 pages, softcover, $10.00, subscriber price $9.50

The Job Hunter's Guide to Japan

by Terra Brockman

If you want to work in Japan, this book is for you. Each chapter focuses on a specific industry (computers, English teaching, etc.) and gives you complete information on that field. The first and last chapters provide an overview. 232 pages, softcover, $12.00, subscriber price $11.50

Womansword: What Japanese Words Say About Women

by Kiltredge Cherry

Several hundred terms about female identity, girlhood, marriage, motherhood, the work world, sexuality, and aging in Japan. A provocative mix of the ordinary, taboo, ancient and contemporary, these terms are defined and interpreted in short, lively essays. Reviewed in Mangajin #4. 150 pages, softcover $9.95, subscriber price $7.95

Doing Business with Japanese Men

by Brannen & Wilen

Defining problems women have with Japanese businessmen and offering solutions as well, Doing Business explains why misconceptions occur (on both sides) and would be helpful to anyone dealing with Japanese businessmen. Reviewed in Mangajin #26. 174 pages, softcover $9.95, subscriber price $7.95

A Half Step Behind

By Jane Condon

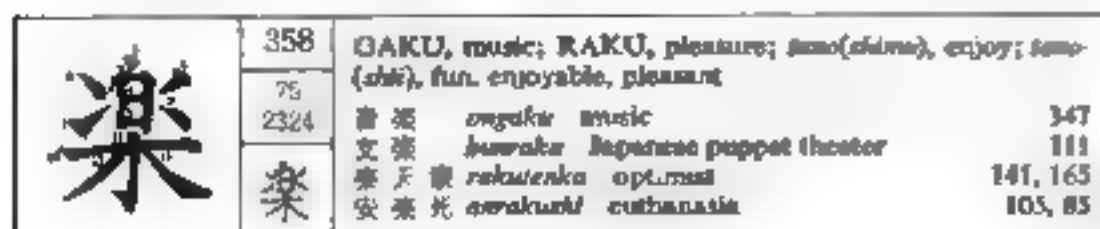

This book explores the wide variety of lifestyles led by Japanese women—career women, entertainers, housewives, farmers—through a series of interviews with the women themselves. The result is a rare look at Japan from the woman's point of view. 320 pages, softcover $12.00, subscriber price $11.00

Learning Japanese

MangaJin's Basic Japanese Through Comics

A compilation of the first 24 Basic Japanese lessons from Mangamu, the next best thing to a complete set of back issues! The lessons cover a wide array of expressions and illustrate usage and cultural context. Beginners will find the concepts and explanations easy to understand, while pros can expand their knowledge. 160 pages, softcover $14.95

Kanli & Kara

Presents the 1,945 "daily use" kanji in the format shown, along with 60+ pages of kanji and kana history, rules and trivia. Indexed by romaji reading, number of strokes and radical. Hardcover. Reviewed in Mangain #1. $14.00, subscriber price $12.50.

楽		イ	白	GAKU, music, RAKU, comfort, ease, tano(sha), pleasure
	白	白	泊	楽しみ tanoshimi, pleasure 音楽会 ongakukai, concert, musical
331 13 strokes	泊	泊	楽	気楽 kiraku, ease, comfort (水 15)

A Guide to Reading and Writing Japanese

Gives easy-to-follow stroke order diagrams for 881 "essential characters," plus hiragana/katakana. Also a simple listing for 969 more, for a total of 1,850 kanji. Indexed by roman reading, stroke count, hardcover. Reviewed in Mangayin #1 $14.00, subscriber price $12.50.

Let's Learn Hiragana & Let's Learn Katakana

These two workbooks teach the basic Japanese alphabet and the one used for borrowed foreign words & phrases. Practice and review builds writing skills step by step. A manageable way to learn with or without an instructor. softcover. Two volume set $18.50, subscriber price $17.00, or $9.50 each, subscriber price $8.50 each.

Japanese for Busy People I

Created by the AJLT, this course offers 30 lessons of survival Japanese with emphasis on vocabulary and grammar with practical value. Dialogs presented in both kana and romaji. 213 pages, softcover $20.00, subscriber price $18.50 Tapes (four 30-minute cassettes) $40, subscriber price $35.

Japanese for Busy People II

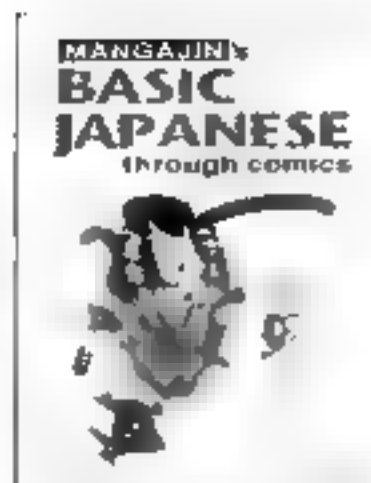

Sequel to JBP1 combines vocabulary and grammar in realistic situations: opening dialogs, practice sections, exercises, quizzes. Kanji are introduced along with hiragana, katakana and romaji. 420 pages, softcover $20.50, subscriber price $19.00 Tapes (six 60-minute cassettes) $90, subscriber price $85 sample サンプル 標本 原本(毛取凸)印刷台紙 for Statistics 統計台紙

Kenkyusha's Furigana E-J Dictionary

This dictionary gives readings in hiragana for all kanji used in definitions and explanations. 980 pages, 49,000 headwords, heavyweight paperback. $24.00, subscriber price $21.50

Read Japanese Today

Read 300 of the most common characters in a few hours whether or not you have any knowledge of the grammar or spoken language softcover Reviewed in Mangajin #1 $7.50, subscriber price $6.75

Essential Japanese Grammar

A summary covering all the grammar needed for speech and comprehension. Not a textbook, but plenty can be learned by browsing through softcover, $4.50, subscriber price $4.05.

How to Order:

- We accept Visa and MasterCard phone orders.
- Purchase orders are accepted by mail or fax.
- All shipping and handling costs are included in US orders; others must pay ship charges.
- Extra charge for rush orders.

Special Offer!

With an order of $25 or more, you'll receive a free copy of the Japanese manga book Don't Cry, Tanaka-kun! (Offer good while supplies last.)

Order Form

DESCRIPTION/QUANTITY	UNIT PRICE	TOTAL
Tax if applicable
TOTAL

Georgia Residents please add 5% Tax

Georgia Residents please add 5% Tax

Tax if applicable

TOTAL

Thank you for your Order!

Mastercard ☐ Visa ☐

Name _____

Acct. Number _____

Address _____

Exp. Date _____

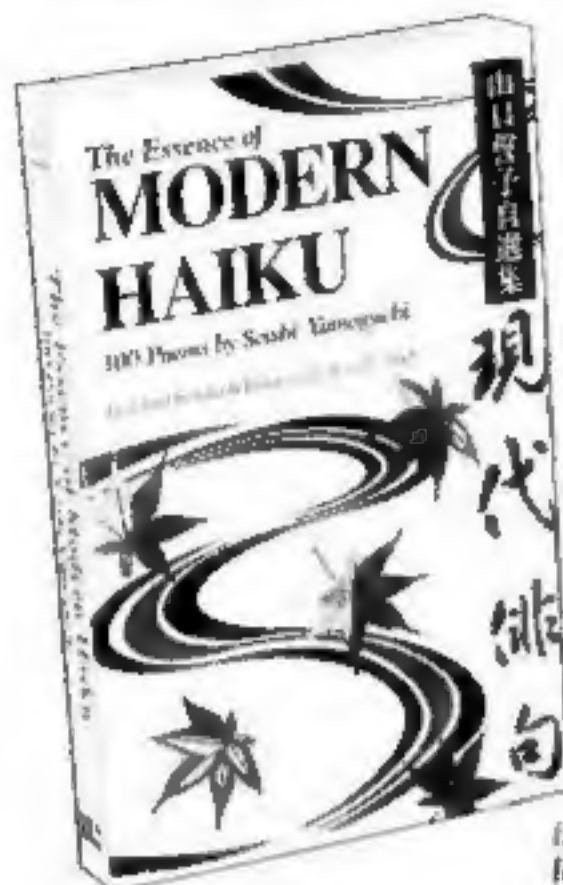

© 2006 The Authors
Journal compilation © 2006 Blackwell Publishing Ltd

Telephone _____

Signature _____

Haiku translated in the MANGAJIN style

300 Poems by Seishi Yamaguchi
Japan's Master of Modern Haiku

This is the first large-scale translation of modern Japanese haiku to be published outside Japan. Breaking free from centuries of poetry limited to nature themes, Seishi has modernized haiku while at the same time retaining the elegant beauty of the classics. Translated by Kodaira Takashi and Alfred H. Marks, The Essence of Modern Haiku is both a practical learning experience as well as an artistic milestone.

For Poetry lovers and students of Japanese alike

月夜 月夜 月夜
Tsukiyo Tsukiyo Tsukiyo

Higher than the moon, the white moon contemplation flying through the sky.

Comments:
The author's original haiku is a masterpiece of modern haiku. It is a perfect example of the 'modern' haiku style, which is more concerned with the poet's personal feelings and experiences than with the traditional themes of nature and seasons.

Translated and introduced by Seishi Yamaguchi.

Notes:
1. The author's original haiku is a masterpiece of modern haiku. It is a perfect example of the 'modern' haiku style, which is more concerned with the poet's personal feelings and experiences than with the traditional themes of nature and seasons.
2. The author's original haiku is a masterpiece of modern haiku. It is a perfect example of the 'modern' haiku style, which is more concerned with the poet's personal feelings and experiences than with the traditional themes of nature and seasons.
3. The author's original haiku is a masterpiece of modern haiku. It is a perfect example of the 'modern' haiku style, which is more concerned with the poet's personal feelings and experiences than with the traditional themes of nature and seasons.

Seishi's original Japanese
Romaji transliteration

English translation maintaining the original 5-7-5 syllable pattern of the original

Seishi's own notes help readers see how a poet's concerned, enabling the original haiku reader to see how a poet's thoughts develop.

Translator's notes provide a background as well as cultural and linguistic insights enabling the reader to see how a poet's thoughts develop.

Available from MANGAJIN

362 pages: $24.95 Hardcover,
$19.95 Paperback ¥3000 in Japan.

Call 1-800-552-3206 in the U.S.

or 03-3479-44324 in Japan.

Call to order your copy today!

モケ 日本語
ワープロ

MOKE 2.1 enables anyone with an IBM PC or compatible computer, a hard drive, and a graphics monitor to enter Japanese. Japanese is entered via romaji. MOKE 2.1 can input hiragana, katakana, kanji, and ASCII. Japanese can be printed on Postscript printers, HP LaserJet II, and 9, 24-pin Epson compatible dot matrix printers.

Also available: Kanji Guess 1.0 with flashcard, multiple guess, Kanji fish, and GojuuOnjun quizzes.

- ☐ MOKE 2.1 - $69.95
- ☐ Kanji Guess 1.0 - $30.00

Additional $5.00 per copy for shipping and handling in the U.S. (Outside the U.S. and Canada add $10.00 each.)

Please check one format:

- ☐ 5 1/4 (360K) ☐ 3 1/2 (720K)

KiCompWare

Payment made by:

☐ MasterCard

☐ Check or money order

☐ VISA

TOTAL $

Acct. #

Exp. Date

Signature:

Send to: KiCompWare, PO Box 536
Appleton, WI 54912 Tel. 612-773-8621

New Version

Use Your PC to Master Japanese and Chinese

Enjoy learning Asian languages with Smart Characters for Students™ word processor and vocabulary tutor. Unlike other word processors, Smart Characters combines reading, writing, translating, and vocabulary study tools to assist non-native speakers who may have only minimal foreign language skills. The result is an effective tool for word processing and foreign language study.

- ☐ Displays furigana, honyaku, and pinyin in a variety of styles to help you pronounce unknown or forgotten characters.
- ☐ The built-in vocabulary tutor teaches kanji and hanzi rapidly and effectively so you can read without notes. Create your own lessons and contribute to or select from the User's Group library, including each month's vocabulary from Mangajin magazine.
- ☐ Use the word processor to display or create sophisticated interactive hypertext lessons to learn or teach technical topics such as grammar and usage.
- ☐ Write and print any character; over 7700 are included.
- ☐ Handy on-line hypertext references and dictionaries include English notes to speed reading and writing. Optional dictionaries may be added and instantly accessed. The optional radical and stroke dictionary makes a particularly handy rapid reading tool.
- ☐ Version 2.5 provides better typography, more dictionary options, and is easier to use. Just $99.95. Call or write for a free brochure.

知 字

Appropos Customer Service, 8 Bellows St., Arlington, Massachusetts 02174. 800-676-8021

日本語でどうぞ。
いつでも、 どこでも。

MAC

Operating Systems

System 7.1

OR

KanjiTalk 7

+ Japanese Language Kit

- Economical operating system
- Preferred by beginners
- Finder menus in English
- Dialogs in English

- Fully Compatible with all Japanese/English applications
- Finder menus in Japanese
- Dialogs in Japanese

+

Applications

- Word Processing (Ergosoft EGword)
- Database (Claris Filemaker Pro J)
- Desktop Publishing (Aldus Pagemaker J)
- Business Software (Claris Works J)
- Communications (Ergosoft ECTalk)

PC

Operating Systems

MS DOS English

IBM DOS/V

OR

MS Windows English

MS Windows J 3.1

+

Applications

+

- Word Processing (KanjiWord)

- Word Processing (MS Word)
- Business Software (MS Office J)
- Spreadsheet (MS Excel)

Macintosh Japanese System

PowerBook 165 8MB RAM 160 MB HD with Grayscale Monitor
Apple Japanese Language Kit
Ergosoft EGWord 5.0
Completely pre-installed and configured!

In addition,
CCIC carries products from Adobe, Aldus, Clarisc, Nisus,
and Dynaware.

Our technical staff is standing by to help you with any questions! Systems bundles are customizable, and many configurations are available.

605 Addison Street Suite A, Berkeley, CA 94710 USA 510.548.2242 CCIC 510.843.5173 fax

Momokawa Premium Sake

Momokawa Sake is a splendid, smooth, versatile wine that Japanese connoisseurs have enjoyed for more than a century. Now Americans can enjoy the same pleasure—and, in true Japanese style, share it with their friends. Momokawa is the best sake available in the U.S. and some of the finest sake available in Japan. Momokawa products have won awards of excellence from the Japanese government's National Seishu Contest and the Japanese brewmasters Nanbu Toji Sieshu Contest. The Tokusengai Magazine Sieshu Contest which is judged by the public awarded Momokawa the distinction of "Best in Japan" in 1992. Your business associates will enjoy being introduced to the magnificent flavor of Momokawa sake and appreciate your thoughtfulness when you give a gift from Momokawa Sake, Ltd.!

Give a gift of friendship

This gift box presents a 720 ml bottle of Momokawa Gold, the true connoisseurs sake, and two Momokawa cypress masu, the traditional wooden drinking cups for premium sake.

CBG-72M$63

Momokawa Gold

Give a gift of culture

Momokawa Silver Dry sake is a favorite among sake drinkers. Its full body is straight forward and smooth. This 720 ml bottle of Momokawa Silver dry is nestled in a pine gift box with two cypress masu.

CBG-C2M$48.50

Momokawa Silver Dry

Give a gift of warm feelings

Momokawa Black sake is the only Momokawa sake that may be served warm (95°-105°). If desired. This gift box includes two 500 ml bottles of Momokawa Black sake, one Momokawa choshi and two Sakazuki cups.

CBG-5CS$40

Momokawa Black

Give a gift for celebrating

This fine hand-crafted pine tote gives the sake or wine lover an excellent opportunity to try four of Momokawa's sakes, the Gold, Silver Dry, Silver Sweet and Black. The tote contains a 180 ml bottle of each sake.

GBT-180$36

Momokawa Assortment

CALL OR WRITE FOR

MOMOKAWA'S CONNOISSEUR'S GUIDE TO PREMIUM SAKE—

More than a catalog, this quarterly publication features helpful information on the history of sake, how it's made, and how to enjoy it. Also included is information on how to join our sake club.

To order by phone: Call our sake hotline at 1-800-356-4SAKE, 8:30-5:30 Pacific time. To order by fax: Send a hand written order which includes your shipping address and daytime phone; the item number, quantity ordered; and a major credit card number and expiration date to our 24-hour fax number: 503-357-1014. To order by mail: Send the same information as above to MOMOKAWA SAKE LTD., 920 ELM STREET, FOREST GROVE, OREGON, 97116

And you thought we only served Japanese.

You need a global menu of financial services. Expertise in combining sound advice with the most advanced financial engineering. And someone who understands the services you require.

